

The Aurora Observer

Thursday, April 7, 1921

Paul Robinson, Editor and Publisher

Entered as second class matter March 28, 1911, at the postoffice at Aurora, Oregon, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

We see no fair business scheme in giving advertising rates on application. The Observer rates are always: For Display ads 20c per inch, single col, measure each week. Readers 10c per line first insertion, 5c per line each following week they run. It is business to advertise where the home people read it. The world over—every town or city, you see the largest advertiser always does the largest business.

A cut in gasoline price is predicted, but you can't run a car with prediction.

E. H. Woodward has sold the Newberg Graphic to W. J. Nottage and C. A. Dimond, two good newspapermen. Mr. Woodward has been editor and owner of the Graphic for 31 years and 3 months—a wonderful record and he leaves an influence he may well be proud of.

It has oft been argued that travel by boat is safer than by rail, but occasionally the Peaceful Pacific Coast records a horrible disaster. Thursday the Governor was rammed and sunk by the West Hartland off Point Wilson, Wash., causing the loss of 10 people. The Governor has long been looked upon with pride by citizens of Puget Sound who delighted in summer trips by that route. She was a vessel valued at $1,500,000.00.

The Hubbard Enterprise insinuates that the proposed

Union High School would have to go in the jitney or stage business on a large scale and buy ten trucks at the start. We never could see what any one gains by such tactics, as no people now-a-days see such ridiculous charges as probable. Four routes at the most could handle all directions by meeting at certain corners as they are doing the world over—and at present three would be sufficient. We are not particularly familiar with all conditions in Hubbard, but we do know something of establishing Union High Schools, and want to state in contradicting another charge of "hurting Hubbard," that Hubbard will not be hurt, rather benefited. Be it known that the high school question and Hubbard business does not conflict in the least, as it is not a business proposition. It is an educational question only, to benefit the pupils of high school age above everything else. The future of our children in this case comes first and foremost, and by so many districts in the "Union", the cost is comparative small. We believe the Hubbard people, especially those with children coming high school age, see the wise and proper view in signing the petition.

Everybody can help. Will you please hand this paper to your neighbor and ask him to subscribe for it? We are going to do all we can for your interest and if you help we can have a good paper in this district, that outside readers will notice and home readers appreciate. Send us a subscription.

WORLD'S DEBT TO CHINAMAN

Celestial is Directly Responsible for Improvement in the Breeding of American Porkers.

The economic genius who figured out that all that was needed to bring unbounded prosperity to the cotton mills of New England was to add half an inch to each Chinaman's shirt tail never carried out his project, but the Chinaman, without announcing his plan, has done something quite as remarkable: He has added inches to the legs of the American pig.

He has not done it alone. He has had help from the East and West Indies and from our own farmers in the South. The process was simple and was just another instance of a great industry altering itself almost unconsciously to meet new conditions, the Nation's Business states.

Not many years ago the prizes of the pig world went to the round, short-legged type, the kind of hog that you couldn't see under. The chief purpose in the life of that hog was to turn corn into lard. Now it's the pig type that is popular, the pig that makes more lean meat, more bacon and more ham.

What has done it? For one thing the Chinaman and his soy bean, coconut, corn, cottonseed and peanut are furnishing a vast amount of lard substitutes at prices lower than the pig can supply his product. So the four-legged lard factory is turning to the ham business and the Chinaman, his shirt tail unlengthened, has added to the legs of the American hog.
