Geo. E. Knapp, Editor and Publisher

We acknowledge receipt of the first four issues of the Benton Independent, published by Arthur Lawrence at Corvallis. The paper is a very creditable effort and if the standard be maintained, we predict a successful career for the Independent.

If Governor Pierce, by determination and good management, succeeds in keeping the foot and mouth disease out of Oregon, we may fairly credit him with having accomplished something for the welfare of the state as well as himself. We could get along without a few of his commissions, and would perhaps survive the lessening of the tax burden thus imposed upon us, but negligence or parsimony in the matter of preventing the influx of so terrible a disease would be absolutely inexcusable.

In modern days one of the results bred of our rapidly developing civilization is the dissatisfaction of people with the place and circumstances of their environment, the constant and ever present desire to seek new homes and faraway places. The easterner feels the lure of the west; the westerner yields to the seductive charms of the warmer clime in the far south; the roseate colors of distant places are ever present in the imagination of him who is not quite satisfied with the conditions under which he works. It is this human characteristic which will be responsible for the immense crop of tourists who are expected to over-run Oregon this season. It is not our province to criticize or to question the wisdom or economic policy of those who thus seek for change of scenes; ours merely to take advantage of the facts as they exist and to show to the strangers within our borders the advantages of our wonderful country as a place of residence, the equability of our seasons, the grandeur and picturesqueness of our hills, mountains and streams, the high character of our citizens, the productiveness of our soil and the abundance of our natural resources.

In short, it is for us to do what we can, consistent with truth and the facts, to sell Oregon as a home place to those who come here looking for homes and financial investments and for a place to educate their children.

We have all the desired elements. It is for us to show the goods.

BEN F. WEST

Candidate for County Assessor

I served you well once. I can serve you better now. I will protect you by placing the assessable valuations on the property that makes the money for the owners. With my four years' experience selling real estate I am better qualified to judge what property should pay more taxes than the farmer and small home owner. Vote for a man that has the backbone to do this. If I am nominated and elected I will show the people of this county what can be done the next four years. Vote for Ben F. West and he will do the rest. Owing to two members of my family being seriously ill it will be impossible for me to visit all the people I would like to, therefore, I will depend on the voters to put me over at the primary election.
