GREEN PASTURES.

The grass is always greener across the fence in the other pasture.

So say the cynic, the failure, the knocker, the ne'er-do-well, and the discontent.

Their outbursts are their method of satisfying themselves of what they want to be, and of excusing themselves for what they are.

All things considered there is no better town than one's home town, for it is not home to one who thinks otherwise.

No town is better to live in, no business houses better to deal with, no people better to be neighbors to, no area better to produce from, no pastures any greener than those that enclose the dear old spot that is truly made the home town.

Those who revel in the great national sport of dissatisfaction with the home town are all wrong unless they help to make it better.

The prodigal son thought the pastures across the fence were better, but he found only dry husks to feed upon. He thought the associations out in the world were better, but he lived among swine.

Remember this: the other dissatisfied fellow, in the other town, is also voicing discontent; and the fault is not with the respective towns but with the respective points of view.

Saying conditions are bad, that business is poor, or that the town is slow is destructive criticism of the worst sort.

It is YOU who can make YOUR OWN pasture as green as any other.

It is YOU who can TURN ADVERSITY INTO SUCCESS; in a small way if you will, in a large way if you can.

It is no particular credit to a man how many towns he has lived in, how many businesses he has "run," or how many jobs he has held. The men who make history are in the main permanent settlers—the masters of a single business and the workers on a certain job.

TO THE REAL CITIZENS THE GRASS ALWAYS GROWS GREENER IN AND AROUND OUR TOWN, because it is he that helps to give it life, growth and nurture.

This spring clean-up business prompts us to say that we aren't quite sure whether the term "vacuum sweeper" always refer to the machine or the woman that is using it.

While the statesmen worry about the Red peril, most of us plainer folk are concerned about the possible red columns in our books at the close of the year.

Don't be superstitious: you got thru your 13th year all right, and look at you now!

When a jury turns a guilty man loose it becomes an injury.

Automobile Insurance

It is getting to be more necessary every day. It is also necessary to insure with a company that is reliable and sound.

The majority of the business and professional men of Beaverton are insured with the Oregon Automobile Insurance Company.

This is an old line, legal reserve stock company.

One reason is that being an Oregon company, we can give very prompt service and settlement of claims.

Another reason is that we are writing Beaverton and vicinity at country rates. Why pay the same price for your insurance as people who live in the traffic of Portland?

For standard limits public liability and property damage insurance we charge in Beaverton the following:

Ford, Star 4, Chevrolet and all light cars $13.00 a year
Buick, Essex, Studebaker, etc. $16.00 a year
Other cars in proportion.

Remember that the majority of the business men of Beaverton are insured with me. There is a good reason.
