NEW FORD TO HAVE A 65-MILE SPEED

Manufacturer Promises a Consumption of 30-35 Miles to Gallon

STANDARD-GEAR TYPE

The Motor to Have a 34 Horse Power Rating and Three Forward Speeds

According to word received from N. G. Freeman, local representative of Smith Motor Co. of Portland, Henry Ford's new car will achieve a maximum speed of from 60 to 65 miles an hour with a gasoline consumption of from 30 to 35 miles per gallon, it was learned here today from sources close to the "flivver" king.

This information was obtained as comment upon reports from the Orient that Ford dealers in China were advertising the new Ford as capable of getting 60 miles to the gallon of gasoline. The Ford authority said the new car would be far more economical of gasoline than any other car on the market but that it would scarcely approach the 60-miles-per-gallon figure. On cross-country travel, it was said, the new car would get at least 35 miles to the gallon in city traffic, the average would be from 28 to 30 miles per gallon.

The new car, however, will be guaranteed to operate at a sustained speed of from 60 to 65 miles an hour, it was explained, and this information probably was misinterpreted by the Oriental dealers. The remainder of the description of the new car, carried in the China advertisements, it was said, was approximately correct. This included the declarations that the new car would have a standard-gear-type motor, with a 34 horse power rating, three forward speeds and reverse, and a wheelbase of 104 inches.

There will be six models of the new car, it was added, including roadster, touring, closed coupe, cabriolet and two types of sedans to correspond with the "Tudor" and "Fourdoor" type of the old model T Ford. The Ford authority would not say when the car would reach the market or comment on its price.

HOWARD BALL ACCIDENTLY SHOT

Howard Ball, aged 10 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Ball, was accidentally shot in the left leg, just above the ankle when a double breasted shot gun was discharged at his home 1 1/2 miles from Tigard, on the road leading to Treece. He had been cleaning the gun and in some manner it dropped to the floor and was discharged. He was rushed to St. Vincent's hospital and it is thought the foot can be saved.

Frank DeVore of the Tigard office of the Yamhill Electric Co. has the proud distinction of drinking the first cup of cool, pure Bull Run water in Tigard. He said it tasted fine, the best he ever drank. The water was turned on Saturday at 3:31 p. m. at his store.

The Knocker!

It is usually characteristic of the knocker to use the wrong method in trying to do anything, so it is quite like him to try to kick open the treasure chest of municipal prosperity when his feeble first attempts to get somewhere have failed. He has much to learn about the right way of doing things for his own good and for the good of the town.

A pessimistic attitude never opened the way to a happier existence and the idea that criticizing everything will lead anywhere is dead wrong. These are the chief possessions of most knockers, so it is not hard to understand why they are usually counted out.

The only right method to use in promoting the town's welfare is to inject the spirit of civic pride into everything. That spirit is the key to the town's prosperity and all the keys that the knocker has been trying to use might better be thrown in the scrap heap. Civic pride is what this town and every other town must keep alive and let's see that it is done.

WORK ON JOHNSON BUILDING RUSHED

Extra men have been employed on the Johnson building at Tigard for the past two weeks in an effort to finish the building before the heavy rains can damage it. The roof was tarred Saturday and the sky lights installed. The rooms that Dr. Leitch will occupy were plastered Saturday and carpenters were busy this week putting the finishing touches on the inside rooms as he is very anxious to get into his new quarters where he can meet his patients.

The brickwork on the front of the building is nearly completed and it makes a fine finish. The people of Tigard are very proud of this new building.

Mrs. Van Rodman planned a very pleasant surprise party for Mrs. A. H. Spraner Saturday evening, which was greatly enjoyed by the following parties: Mr. and Mrs. F. Staley, Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Ellsworth, Mrs. Mapes, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Alexander and daughter Evelyn and Mrs. Mary Summers.

Have You Got "Hook Worm"?

During the late war it was found by medical authorities that "hook worm" was responsible for the slow easy-going disposition of many people in the south. But one often wonders if there are not thousands of cases of "hook worm" in every community where help is needed in putting forward projects for the improvement of the community. It might be a good idea to call on the army to send a score of medical men here to investigate and find a "cure" so that everyone in the community will be able to stand back of any organized effort to better conditions. A city can not stand still, it must go ahead, and every man and woman must do their "bit" to help. "Kill the hook worm" and be healthy. Forward march!

SUCCESS CROWNS C. E. CONVENTION

Bethel Congregational Church Acts as Hostess to the Visiting Delegates

FOREIGN MISSIONARY TALKS

"The Quest for the Best" in Life's Journey the Convention Theme

(Special)—The Bethel Congregational Church of Beaverton, entertained the Washington County Christian Endeavor Convention for their sixteenth annual conference on October 14th to 16th inclusive. The attendance was exceptionally good at all sessions of the convention which has been reported as one of the best which has been conducted in the county. The Oregon Society was awarded the prize for the largest group at the convention sessions.

The Christian Endeavor Society is an inter-denominational organization and all united in song and service for Christ and the Church which is the C. E. motto.

The C. E. County officers and the local committee, Mrs. Milton Metcalfe and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Tucker, deserve much credit for the inspirational and instructive program which had been arranged. They chose wisely when they selected Mr. Henry Kuratli of Hillsboro as leader for the song services.

"The Quest for the Best" was the convention theme and numerous speakers presented interesting addresses in the three-day period.

The first address, "The Quest for the Best in Recreation" on Friday evening was given by Miss Marlon Jenkins, secretary of the Vancouver Y.W.C.A. At the conclusion of her address an interesting social hour, which was directed by Mrs. Milton Metcalfe, was enjoyed by the delegates in the community room.

The Saturday morning session was first devoted to a series of talks on Graded Endeavor activities. Rev. Donald MacNeil led the Bible study period. Rev. Zenas A. Olson presented his first address "The Quest for the Best in the Home." Mr. Olson is a former resident of Washington County and numerous friends greeted him in the convention after his return from foreign missionary service with the Methodist Church of India.

The individual conference periods began at 2:30 on Saturday afternoon. James Henderson of Portland, led the Prayer Meeting group. Miss Dulcinea Brown had the Poster Making period.

The secretary of the Oregon C. E. State Union, Dallas Rice met with the society officers. The Social Committee group was led by Miss Jenkins, and the Mission Study period was conducted by Mr. D. Devaputra, a native of Southern India. Mr. Devaputra is now a student of the University of Oregon where he plans to take his doctor's degree in education. He has taught in the Indian missionary schools for sixteen years and he returns to India in 1930.

The members of the Bethel Ladies Aid Society maintained their previous reputation as good cooks on two occasions on Saturday. They served luncheon at noon and the convention banquet on Saturday evening which was a big success. The Banquet Toasts were cleverly arranged from a quotation from the "Idylls of the King": "Man am I grown, a man's work must I do, Live pure, speak true, right wrong, follow the king, Else wherefore born?"

The Washington County C. E. orchestra played several selections in the evening service and Rev. Z. A. Olson gave the address, "The Quest for the Best in Friendship."

The delegates respectively attended the Church and Sunday School of their choice on Sunday morning after the Quiet Hour service which was conducted by Miss Jenkins at 9 o'clock.

All roads led to Beaverton on Sunday afternoon and the various C. E. Societies were well represented in the service which began at 2:15. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Tucker were highly complimented for the successful program which the Bethel Junior C. E. Society members presented in the Junior Rally. The Junior Society will present its program again on the next Sunday morning, October 24th, in the church service.

The impressive installation service for the new county officers was conducted by Mr. James Henderson. The main address "The Quest for the Best in Service" was given by Mr. D. Devaputra. His presence in the conference is a living proof of the universal power of the Christian Gospel and that foreign missionary work is pre-eminently worth while. The consecration service which was led by Miss Jenkins completed an interesting afternoon program.

The Bethel Orchestra assisted in the inspirational service of the evening. Rev. E. C. Farnham, secretary of the Portland City Council of Churches, gave the final address, "The Quest for the Best in Civil Life" and Rev. H. Dickman, of Bethany, pronounced the benediction in 1928.

GARDEN HOME ROAD SHOULD BE FINISHED

County has Done Nothing toward Filling in This Road

PETITION NOW READY

Residents Can Sign It at Ghormley's Service Station—Multnomah Merchants Losing Trade

A petition is now ready at the Ghormley filling station addressed to the county commissioners asking them to finish construction of the Garden Home road, opening on the viaduct as promised last spring. It is now up to the residents of Garden Home to sign this petition and then the commissioners will know that the road is needed and may push construction this winter.

The foundation to the new Ghormley filling station was finished last week and construction of the station started Tuesday by A. L. Strong and G. B. Richardson. The base for the two gas pumps on the highway and on Garden home road are finished and dirt will be filled in and the ground gravelled as soon as the cement hardens.

Every day several residents of Garden Home drive up to the edge of the viaduct thinking that they could drive on the bridge but the road is too steep and they have to drive back and up Bartlett avenue.

Christmas Seal

Workers Meet

Christmas Seal Sale workers will hold three one-day regional institutes this year under the auspices of the Oregon Tuberculosis Association. Mr. Fredrick D. Hopkins, executive secretary of the National Tuberculosis Association, will meet with the southwestern Oregon group in the new Hotel Eugene on October 15, with the eastern Oregon group at La Grande on October 18, and with the workers from Portland and adjacent counties at the offices of the Oregon Tuberculosis Association, 310 Fitzpatrick Block, Oak Street at Ninth, in Portland on October 20.

The morning session, beginning at 10 o'clock, will deal with the history of Christmas Seal Sales, the national, state and local plans of operation, business methods, preparation of talks, news stories, special literature and art features, and the results of past efforts as shown by the constantly decreasing death rate from tuberculosis.

The afternoon session will be devoted to discussion of the practical problems and actual technique of setting up a local seal sale. Mrs. Dunbar reports that owing to the steadily increasing interest of Oregon people in the Christmas Seal Sale and to the general prospective 1927 workers, plans are being laid in all three places to take care of unusually large delegations.

Registrations for the Eugene Institute have already been made from Klamath, Coos, Jackson, Douglas, Linn, Curry and Lane counties.

Following counties have registered delegates for the Portland Institute: Clackamas, Clatsop, Columbia, Deschutes, Hood River, Marion, Tillamook, Washington, Yamhill and Multnomah.

ROAD MEETINGS DATED

Dates for annual meetings of nine Washington county road districts were fixed Thursday by order of the county court. They are: No. 12, community school, November 5, 10 a. m.; No. 16, Sargeant's hall, Gales Creek, November 5, 2 p. m.; No. 18, Knights of Pythias hall in North Plains, November 5, at 2 p. m.; No. 19, Helvetia Hall, November 4, 8 p. m.; No. 21, Buxton school house, November 5, 2 p. m.; No. 34, Scofield school house, November 12, 2 p. m.; No. 42, community school, November 4, 7 p. m.; No. 46, Bailey school house, November 4, 2 p. m.; No. 62, Fir Grove church, November 2, 1 p. m.

OUR STATE WARDS NUMBER THOUSANDS

The state of Oregon was caring for 4910 wards in the 12 state institution on September 30, according to a report compiled by Secretary of State Kozer. The state hospital for the insane at Salem, with a population of 1877 patients, accounts for nearly 40 per cent of the total. Other state institution totals are: Eastern Oregon state hospital, 930; tuberculosis hospital, 812; Soldiers' home, 109; employment institution for adult blind, 57; blind school, 43; deaf school, 112; girls' industrial school 66; boys' training school, 128; penitentiary, 586.

which concluded a most interesting Christian Endeavor Convention.

The invitation of the Oregon C. E. Society was accepted and the convention meets in that community in 1928.

Beaverton Postoffice Lease a Problem for Serious Consideration

P. L. Neil, Seattle postal inspector, and Mr. Fitzgerald, Spokane, inspector, paid an official visit to Beaverton Tuesday. The lease for the postoffice expires in March and bids are now being received for a new lease. It is understood that the postoffice will have to be enlarged, new lock boxes installed and additional room for the mail carriers. There will be lively bidding for the lease as business usually concentrates around a mail distributing center.

Rancher Succors Pheasant Hen Wounded by Hunter

A Chinese hen was captured in the yard next to Judge Sacenson's office in Beaverton Wednesday noon. It had been shot thru the tendon of the leg and had run in from the fields to the west of town to get away from the hunters. W. J. Gerish, of Raleigh station, saw the hen fluttering around the yard and captured it. He placed it in a box and will take it out to his 10 acre filbert ranch and put it in the chicken yard with the chickens. It was only half grown. The wound will soon heal as it was only thru the fleshy part of the leg.

Your child should drink at least a quart of milk a day. Phone Aloha Dairy.—Adv.

Our Building Costs Largely in Labor

Labor constitutes 62 per cent of the cost of building the average dwelling house, while materials represent 38 per cent, according to a study of construction made by the United States department of labor. According to a new set of data, the foundation and masonry work represent 36 per cent of the total cost of the completed job. The foundation is the largest single item of construction expense.

The second largest item of cost is 29 per cent, and covers carpentry, both labor and materials. Plumbing fixtures plus their installation cost are reported at 10 per cent of the entire cost.

The heating plant it rated at 9 per cent of the total cost, while hardware is apportioned at 8 per cent and painting, including materials, at 6 per cent.

Lighting fixtures and installation therefore represent about 2 per cent of the total cost of the completed job, according to the new report.

Phone 7503 when you need job printing of any kind. Prompt service.—Adv.

THE FESTIVE GOOSE ON SOUTHERN JOURNEY

Flying before the first cold winds, honking flocks of geese are winging their way through Beaverton for the south and winter quarters. The migration began this year early in August, according to the report of Ray Steele, United States game warden, and the flocks have been on the increase the last several days.

Most of the geese from this section and to the north winter in the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys of California, Steele said. Great numbers of them first stop in the Klamath basin of Oregon, however, with the heaviest concentration generally observed there in the first two weeks of August.

The migration this year, Steele declared, is no earlier than usual and can be taken as no indication of what the winter weather will be or how soon it will come.

Drink cold milk on hot days you'll feel better. Aloha Dairy.—

OUR LOCAL BAKERY A REAL TOWN ASSET

Rapidly Displacing Home Baking-- Father Beings Home the Loaf

MUCH OUTSIDE TRADE

The Weekly Task of Setting the Bread Is Fast Passing Into History

The weekly ritual of putting the bread to set, which a very few years ago was an important part of family life, has given way to the modern practice of father bringing home the daily loaf from the bakery, and boasting of a golden brown color difficult to imitate by the home bread maker. This is especially true in local households, for the Yeager Bakery, operated by J. H. Yeager puts out a product that no one is ashamed to serve on the table, whether company be present or not. In fact, usually when out-of-town guests are at the table the question is often put: "What delicious bread. Is it baked here in your home-town bakery?"

The bakery of today turns out a better product than the average home wife can, whether she will admit it or not. Several traveling men who visit here at intervals of a few weeks have told the writer that they are always glad to "make" this town because the superiority of the bread.

Most of the output of our home bakery is consumed here, but many loaves are also shipped to neighboring towns, where the grocers and housewives prefer the Yeager brand of bread to their own "setting."

Beaverton Husbandmen to Exhibit at International

A number of exhibitors from this county have already made reservations for places in the Pacific International Livestock show in Portland, among them being W. B. Walker, of Beaverton, who will exhibit hay; C. Beglinger, alfalfa; E. O. Varner, barley; and H. Beach, filberts. Mr. McWhorter has 5 bales of hay, 2 exhibits of wheat, 2 of barley, one each of clover, 2 walnut exhibits and one of filberts ready for the Portland show.

BELIEVE DRY LAW SHOULD BE ENFORCED

Although many are opposed to the continuance of the 18th amendment in its present form and would vote for its repeal, an overwhelming majority of persons, questioned in a recent national poll, believe it should be enforced until changed.

Winslow Russell, vice president of the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance company and chairman of the business men's conference of dry leaders at Atlantic City last week, made the survey. The results were announced as follows.

Of 1605 ballots sent out to a cross section of persons in all parts of the country, including several in Beaverton, 782 replies were received.

The voters were within two persons of being split evenly for and against the amendment before it was passed, but now 433 favor changes in the law as against 238 for the present form.

While 454 would vote for repeal and only 299 would not, 563 believe in rigid enforcement until the amendment is repealed. Only 51 favored the return of the saloon and only 125 would vote for the return of private control of the liquor business.

Those inclined toward the permit system of government sales, not to include hard liquor, numbered 448.

From personal observation, those questioned said they believed conditions were worse among the wealthy, slightly better among the middle class and much improved in the poorer classes.

Ethyl Gasoline Colored Red For Purposes of Identification Only

The Oregon State Motor Association has received a number of inquiries as to why Ethyl gasoline is always of a red color. Ethyl gasoline is dyed red for purposes of identification and as a warning against its use for purposes other than as motor fuel. This gasoline contains small quantities of a lead composition which if used in contact with the skin to any great extent is likely to have a harmful effect upon the health. In order, therefore, to protect persons who use gasoline frequently in a domestic way, such as for cleaning clothes, etc., the U. S. Public Health Service asked the manufacturers of ethyl gasoline to dye it in such a way that its color would be distinctive and be a warning to persons who wished to purchase straight gasoline for various purposes.

The lead composition, "ethyl" fluid, is sold by the license of the holder of patents, to oil companies which are licensed to mix the fluid with gasoline and to sell the resultant product to resellers and distributors of gasoline and to the public. The contracts between the licensee and the oil companies are said to contain the provision that the gasoline must be dyed. Ethyl gasoline, however, is not the only colored gasoline, for there is nothing to prevent other companies from dyeing their products whatever color they may choose.

HAMPSHIRE RAM Owned by Mt. Haggin Land & Livestock Co., Montana. Grand Champion Ram, 1926 Pacific International Livestock Exposition.

This Ram was the outstanding animal of the breed at the 1926 Pacific International Livestock Exposition. In addition to achieving this distinction it also won the same awards at the 1926 American Royal and Chicago International Shows. It will probably be shown in the flock being sent by the Mt. Haggin Land and Livestock Co. to the 17th Annual Pacific International to be held at Portland, October 29 to November 5, inclusive.

The Sheep Show at the Pacific International will, this year, as in the past, be one of the best of its kind in America. Some of the most noted judges in the country will place the awards. In connection with the Sheep Show a new departure is being added. Under the direction of the Pacific Co-operative Wool Growers Association a comprehensive Wool Show will be held, at which commercial fleeces of all grades will be exhibited. Splendid showings are promised again this year in every division of the exposition which includes great Livestock Show, Dairy Products Show, Land and Manufacturers' Products Show, Northwest Fox Show, Industrial Exposition and world-renowned Horse Show. The Boys' and Girls' Club Work Exhibit this year will be one of the best of its kind in this part of the country. Millions of dollars' worth of the country's finest Pure Bred Beef and Dairy Cattle, Horses, Sheep, Hogs and Goats will compete for the $100,000.00 offered in premiums. The leading railroads of the West co-operate by offering special fare and one-third rates for those who wish to attend the Exposition.
