tramp solid around the roots fill in and your tree is ready to grow. Don't think it will grow without your help. Keep cultivating to conserve moisture. As a man told me that he had bought some trees and when I asked him where he planted them he said, "over in the fence corner"

Now as to the San Jose Scale that is so destructive to our trees and is very easily controlled with one spraying of lime and sulphur solution providing of course you use the pure stuff and do a hundred per cent job. If that is not done, your time and money is wasted. First prune your trees and be sure to burn all the cuttings before spraying. When pruning don't have any stubs standing as that will cause heart rot. Cut close to the trunk or limb. The scale feeds by sucking the juices from the bark tissues. It is but a small plant louse with a habit of covering itself with a waxy substance after becoming affixed to the surface of the tree with a protected hard scale covering. The insect passes the winter in an immature stage attached to the bark hidden underneath the scale which is of black soot like color. The female scale is usually more or less convex, the center being a slightly elevated point fitting close to the bark tissue and begins to feel and they are immovable the remainder of their existence. A number of generations are developing during the summer running high into the millions. (No birth control in that family.)

Farm Market Report

Potatoes

Potato shipments in the three northwest states were 538 cars for the week ending December 31, 476 the previous week and 794 the same week a year ago. Total shipments for the year to December 31 were 14,999 compared to 17,604 the previous year. United States shipments for the week ending December 31 were 2,854 carloads compared to 2,639 the previous week and 3,562 the same week a year ago, with total shipments to December 31, 169,308 against 156,541 last year at the same time. States east of Colorado probably have fewer carloads yet to move than a year ago and demand for western stock may improve soon as there were indications of market recovery at the end of the old year. Planting of early potatoes in Florida are estimated at 30,000 acres or 2,000 more than last year.

Apples

The agricultural commissioner at London cabled some recovery in the apple market but the outlook there is not considered favorable generally although Oregon Newtons are in fair demand. Domestic markets remain good.

Butter

The Copenhagen butter market was maintained at the equivalent of 36.7 or 15 cents under 92 score New York. Shipments afloat December 31 from southern hemisphere countries totaled 43 million pounds against 31 million a year ago.

Hay and Feed

Hay shipments in general lagged behind a year ago up until December 15, but alfalfa has moved more rapidly it being estimated that 60 per cent of the surplus had moved prior to the above date compared to 45 per cent last year and 50 per cent in 1925. Considering both production and carryover, the supply of all hay for the season amounted to 134,000,000 tons which is a record quantity. Average prices of all hay is about $3.00 a ton lower than last year and the five-year average, but alfalfa is selling for about the same average prices as last year, with substantial premiums for very leafy, green alfalfa. The demand for hay for the rest of the season will depend much upon the weather conditions. Feeds remained firm with a tendency for most items to advance.
