WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW

HAY AND FEED—The combined marketable surplus of hay in the United States is unusually large. Alfalfa has moved into consumption at a good rate, but there was less demand for timothy and prairie hays for shipment than a year ago. Bran and middlings prices went sharply lower last week and linseed meal was slightly lower, but cottonseed and alfalfa meal were firm.

SEEDS—The demand for seeds improved and prices for most kinds were firm and higher.

BUTTER—Prices for butter declined 1/2-cent a pound in both domestic and foreign markets. From a purely statistical viewpoint the situation is fairly firm, but even a small surplus appeared to be more than handlers cared to hold.

WOOL-MOHAIR—Wool and mohair markets continue strong. Some re-exporting of foreign wool and mohair held in bond in Atlantic ports was reported. All bids on new clip mohair offered at Delrio last week were rejected, although somewhat more than 60 cents was offered for grown mohair.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—Oregon Yellow Newton apples were somewhat lower at Liverpool last week because of poor condition, it was reported. Arrivals there of apples from Australia and New Zealand this month are expected to be 650,000 cases. Potato markets continued to be well supplied from heavy shipments in March, although for the week ending March 31 only 3,403 carloads were shipped compared to 4,453 the previous week and 4,289 the same week a year ago. The movement of early strawberries increased rapidly.

GLOVE FINGERED GENTRY
ROB TIGARD SCHOOL

Evidently the thieves who broke into the Tigard school last Wednesday protected themselves against tell-tale finger prints with gloves, as no trace whatever of a finger mark could be found, notwithstanding all of the rooms were visited with the exception of Mrs. Nielsen's, the door to which they were apparently unable to force.

The phonograph and records, a fountain pen, 100 feet of hose and several dollars in change left in one of the desks were stolen, besides the picture machine. Unable to remove the canvas screen on which the pictures are shown, they cut it so badly in their attempt that it cannot be used again.

At first the officers thought it the rowdiness of boys, but on further investigation concluded it to be the work of experienced thieves.

A car overturned near the Valley View Service Station Saturday afternoon and Mrs. A. Curry of Portland was pinned under the car. When the car was righted Mrs. Curry was found to be uninjured save for a sprained hand.

BOY SCOUT NOTES

Scoutcraft, continued from last week. A Scout is kind to everything that lives. He knows that horses, dogs and cats have their rights and he respects them. A Scout prides himself upon doing kind deeds and no day in his life is complete unless he has been of aid to some person. A Scout is quick of eye, quick of hearing, and his muscles are well developed. In other words, a Scout is natural, and the better the Scout the farther away he is from the artificial.

A Scout never uses alcoholic liquors, because he does not wish to poison his body; he desires a clear, active brain, and so he avoids tobacco. He never swears, because swearing is a sign of weakness as well as being sacrilegious.

In fact, a Scout aims to be, in this, the twentieth century, as nearly as possible like those men who, two and three hundred years ago, pushed their way into what then was the great North American forest, and blazed a way for what has become the United States. In those days our forefathers had to be ready for any emergency, and as a Scout of the present emulates the Scout of the past, he has chosen as his motto, "Be Prepared," and a better phrase could not have been selected, for it is both a motto and a slogan all in one. Be prepared for anything—to do a kind act, to rescue a companion, to ford a stream, to gather kindling, to salute the flag, to build a fire—always be prepared.

Next week, "The Three Classes of Scouts"

A postponed hike was held Saturday afternoon.

Several Multnomah boys took part in the semi-monthly court of honor held in the court house, Portland, Thursday evening. This was one of the largest semi-monthly courts of honor, there being an increase of 50 per cent in both second and first class awards over any previous semi-monthly court of honor. Circuit Judge John H. Stevenson, Major-General U. G. Alexander and Homer D. Angell presided. Lawrence DeLong, Dean Parker, Harlan, Horace and Wright Bixby, Bill Coleman and Glenn Pownder, second class Scouts, received merit badges; Roger Speakman was promoted from tenderfoot to second class Scout, and John Hess from second class to first class.

Special Scoutmasters' Bulletin
Nationally our movement has received many splendid tributes on account of its educational value. Our vocational work and our civic service activities have been praised in concrete ways by individuals and corporations. The educational work of the Boy Scouts has been put in the same class as the educational work of the public schools.

Locally the educational and character building value of the movement has just received a splendid tribute in a very practical manner. One of our largest corporations, the Portland Electric Power Company, is making arrangements to assist the individual Boy Scout most materially.

This company has filed with the public service commission of Oregon a tariff permitting registered Boy Scouts in uniform to use the regular reduced rate school tickets while attending regular weekly troop meetings, participating in civic service duties, attending courts of honor, scout rallies, merit badge classes and examinations, Saturday Scout swims and all other regular Boy Scout activities. This regulation will not be effective on Sunday.

These school tickets sell at the rate of 4 cents each and are put up in books of 100 and are obtainable at the office of the company at Sixth and Alder streets.

If the public service commission of Oregon approves the tariff it will be effective May 1, 1928.

In announcing this to the field we take pleasure in thanking the Portland Electric Power Company for this consideration.
