ADVERTISING BUDGETS FOUND LOW IN OREGON

Contrary to some opinion, advertising costs to merchants of Oregon constitute but a small fraction of total selling costs, according to the report of "Operating Costs in Retail Merchandising" just published by the Extension service of the state college. The bulletin was prepared under the direction of the school of commerce and contains reports presented to the Oregon Retail Merchants' association in convention at Corvallis last February.

Of the six merchandising groups from which data were gathered, the department stores were found to devote the greatest amount to advertising, which was 3.32 per cent out of a total operating expense of 23.79 per cent. At the other extreme the general stores were found to use only .45 per cent out of a total of 18.23 per cent.

Furniture stores reported an average of 1.74 per cent of a total expense of 28.92 per cent used in advertising, while grocery stores averaged a mere .50 per cent in a total of 12.88. Hardware stores also devoted a comparatively small budget to advertising, the total being .73 per cent in a total of 22.05 per cent. Drug stores were about the same with 1 per cent devoted to advertising from a total of 27.06 per cent.

In general the Oregon figures for advertising were lower than in other surveys throughout the country with which comparisons were made. Exceptions were that department stores here spent about a third more for advertising than those in an extensive survey made by Harvard university, and that grocery stores here, even at their low figure, exceeded the stores in Nebraska. General stores in the Harvard survey devoted four times as much to advertising.

The bulletins may be obtained free from the extension service. Some are being used by merchants to compare their own costs with those of others.
