TIGARD HIGH HOOPSTERS TRIM FOREST GROVE

The Tigard basketball squad trimmed the Forest Grove hoopsters 33 to 19 on the Forest Grove floor, Tuesday night, January 29.

The game started at a fast clip with the Tigers scoring first, when Bobby Litton, diminutive forward, caged a cripple, Finnigan of Forest Grove retaliated with a long one, but Cal Atterbury slipped through the Grovers defense to sink another field goal for the Tigard quint. Grandy followed with a long shot to give the Tigers a four point lead. Finnigan then scored another long one for the Grovers and Shearer tied the score at six all, when he caged a cripple. Just before the quarter ended, Finnigan sent another long shot to put Forest Grove in the lead 8 to 6.

The second quarter however, the Tigers settled down and took the game in their own hands. They checked Forest Grove so close that the Grovers were unable to score a point, and at the same time, the Tigard hoopsters collected 10 points to lead at half time 16 to 8.

Forest Grove gave coach Fowler's men a score in the first few minutes of the third quarter, when they came within two points of tying the score. The Tigers took time out, changed their defense and proceeded to outscore the Forest Grove quint from then on.

In the last quarter the Tigers checked the Forest Grove team to one field goal.

This is Johnny Anderson, leading college swimmer in the northwest, who will head the University of Oregon team that will invade California next month for dual meets with Stanford, California, Southern California and U. C. L. A. Johnny holds several Pacific Coast conference records.

Old Oregon, the alumni magazine of the University of Oregon, is ranked among the best alumni magazines in the country. This magazine has an average circulation of 5000 copies.

Fifty members of the faculty at the University of Oregon possess the high degree of doctor of philosophy, and a large measure of advanced work is boasted by the entire staff in general.

Greater and greater importance is being attached to graduate work at the University of Oregon, and this year a larger number than ever are seeking the high degree of doctor of philosophy.

Mail service for the University of Oregon administration and teaching staff is handled by a University post-office, which is privately maintained on the campus. A lost and found department is also maintained at the postoffice.

UNIVERSITY REGENTS URGE AID FOR WORK

University of Oregon, Eugene. — A continuing legislative appropriation of $50,000 for the University of Oregon extension division would serve to establish a sound method of financing this work which is invariably followed in other state institutions. It is pointed out here, following announcement of this request by the regents. It is the invariable practice, except in the case of the University of Oregon, for extension work to be financed by special appropriations.

Faced with the greatly increased pressure upon its resources by the ever-increasing attendance, the university has found it necessary this year to ask for the special continuing appropriation in order to relieve the general fund of carrying on this work.

Economy Practical — "Through rigid economy and denying ourselves things essential to the effective operation of the university, we have been able to live within our general fund, and still have $45,000 for extension work. This is no longer possible."

In 1928 the extension division budget was $94,000, about $49,000 being from fees and the remainder from the university. Slight development of the work is planned for the coming year. In response to an ever increasing demand for this service from people of the state.

Speaking of this demand, Dr. Hall said that "adult education has become so imperative an urge in the hearts of men and women that 5 per cent of the grown-up population of Portland carry on some form of organized study."

Service Is Wanted — "There is not a city in Oregon of more than 3000 population that does not want a university extension class. One hundred additional correspondence study courses are needed to serve adults in villages and remote communities."

The appropriation requested, Dr. Hall said, will "enable us to meet a few of the most pressing demands for expansion of the extension division, and maintain our existing service unimpaired. Unless we can have this appropriation the extension work must be either abandoned or other things that we have regarded as the irreducible minimum for the operation of the university must be eliminated."

Dr. Hall pointed out that Oregon state Agricultural college is able to carry on a very effective extension service without it becoming a burden on the general millage fund, because it receives special appropriations from the federal government and continuing appropriations from the state government that total $96,000 a year plus additional state grants for extension service.

MORE FUNDS NEEDED FOR STATE SERVICE

Extension and Research for Oregon May be Limited if Money Not Granted.

Portland, Ore.—Business and industrial leaders throughout the country have come to rely on state universities for two important functions aside from the resident instruction to students. These are research and extension courses for adult education. In neither of these fields can the University of Oregon expand, and in fact, unless financial aid is granted by the present session of the legislature both programs will have to be reduced in operation for the future, local business men have been informed by officials of the university, who have just found that actual instruction on the campus at Eugene now absorbs practically all of the institution's income.

Research is particularly important field and is highly important to people of the state, it is pointed out. If funds are provided, experts using university equipment can make many important discoveries that mean much to the progress of the state. In order to do this funds must be provided so that they may have assistants and equipment for their experiments, how ever.

Extension Courses Wanted

There is now a demand in every city of any size for extension courses from the university, and these do a great deal of good since they bring university instruction to many who would otherwise be denied it. Should the university be denied a request being made of the state legislature for it, no more cities can have classes and some present classes may have to be discontinued, it is declared.

The chart below shows graphically how small a margin the university has for activities other than instruction:

PERCENTAGE OF UNIVERSITY INCOME OVER AND ABOVE THE COST OF INSTRUCTION AND AVAILABLE FOR EXTENSION, RESEARCH, CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS, ETC.

Year	Margin of Income
1929	32.5 per cent
1928	23.7 per cent
1926	23 per cent
1925	21 per cent
1924	18 per cent
1923	14.9 per cent

This declining margin of income available for public service and for addition to plant may be represented graphically as follows:

PERCENTAGE OF INCOME OVER COST OF INSTRUCTION (1920-1928)

Year	Percentage
1920	32.5 per cent
1921	23.7 per cent
1922	23 per cent
1923	21 per cent
1924	18 per cent
1925	14.9 per cent
