SPRING AND CLEANING

Spring and cleanliness are twin sisters. This is a fine time of the year for dealers in lumber, paint, wallpaper, soap and kindred industries; but it is infinitely better for the users of these goods.

Cleaning up in the springtime is an instinct hard to down. It is something that dwells in practically every human breast. It finds expression everywhere and there is no season quite so joyous as that of spring, when everybody is working either to make new things or to make things new.

The urge to clean up is not confined to particular age or to sex. In home, in store and office, on the farm, or wherever people live, work or travel, this process of renewal goes merrily onward. There is something in cleaning akin to the spiritual, for "Cleanliness is next to Godliness."

A NEW VERSION

A new version of the phrase "strong arm of the law" was rendered recently, when Mrs. Mary Ware appealed from the decision of a New York court in fining her $300 for sending sex pamphlets thru the mails. She said she would go to jail rather than pay a fine, because "the government is physically stronger than I am."

This lady certainly has the wrong conception of government, especially of the police power of the state, when she makes the comparison of physical strength between herself and government. Such a statement not only borders onto the ridiculous, but appears as a weak alibi for something lacking in her defense.

The right attitude toward one's government is not of its ability to crush the individual, but of its great purpose and capacity to protect its citizenship as a whole. Individual liberty is a proper subject for governmental attention and guardianship, but only insofar as the individual does not violate the code prescribed by common consent as a rule of action among the people and enforced as the result of national or local administration power.

More Than One Kind of "Alcoholic" Death

A battle over the alleged right of possession of a jug of moonshine caused four deaths in a Kentucky town and the wounding of two other persons. If this incident serves any purpose it is to cause us to remember that liquor can cause deaths other than by drinking it. Besides, the fighting was for an impossible cause, as neither side had the right of possession of a jug of moonshine.

Maybe the good die young, but it usually isn't their fault.

As a life insurance man Mr. Coolidge won't be likely to talk himself out of a sale

And won't it be great for a lot of thirsty people when passenger airplanes can get up above the twelve-mile limit?

It's going to be awful on somebody when the farmers get so much relief they won't bother any more about going to the polls.

A silly technicality of the law suddenly becomes one of those great bulwarks of liberty when you get into a little jam and have to use it.

Getting together is all right but getting results together is the reason for getting together.

Before criticising the farmer too much, remember that a lot of wealth, of which the land is the source, must go back into the land to produce more wealth.

Trade where you please, but do it where the profits you make possible for somebody else will come back to you as your profits for serving him.

The net earnings of the Richfield Oil Company, of California for the first quarter of 1929 after all expenses and dividends had been deducted was $1,927,262 which showed a decided increase over that of 1928. How much disturbed market conditions effected the Richfield's potential earnings is shown by comparison of gasoline gallonage which totalled 98,592,000 gallons in the first quarter of this year compared with 50,102,075 gallons in the same period of 1928 and 31,609,128 in 1927.

More than 284,000,000 local calls and 6,600,000 out-of-town calls were made during 1928 over the Bell System wires in the state of Virginia.

In 1910, there were 360,000 telephones in service in New York City. Now there are over 1,700,000 and telephone engineers anticipate that the 3,000,000 mark will be reached by 1945.
