LOOKING BACKWARD

To attain success, look back. This may appear to a large class of observers as the wrong kind of advice. Ordinarily those who go forward must look forward. There is a certain kind of back-trailing, however, that is absolutely necessary to all progress, especially in the development of the community.

We sometimes hear the criticism that our town does not have this and that, and should have this and that, all of which may sound reasoning because referring to the things that are highly desirable or thought highly desirable. Those who inject such lamentations into conversations concerning community betterment are not wholly to be censured for so doing. It is the wish or desire coupled with cooperative action, that brings about the useful, the beautiful, the efficient and the distinctive things. These build a city. But those who engage in expressions of bare wishes are identical with those who fail to take note of the accomplishments existing. They fail because likely they had no part in bringing such accomplishments about.

The past achievements of our town and vicinity in a public way represent the hard work and intensive study on the problems that confronted those who have gone before. Shall we discount the attainments of our predecessors, or shall we be glad that they left us this rich heritage of foundational achievement?

To carry out the idea just a little further suppose that all of those who laid out and first built our town suddenly could walk among us and view our community in comparison with the only community they knew before. Would not their amazement be great? Out of gratitude for the developments and institutions of today they indeed would be slow to assume an attitude of indifference toward what we now have. On the other hand, they would be appreciative of the growth of the community up to this point, in happy comparison and contrast with that which they started.

Taking stock of what we have today and yesterday lends encouragement for greater community building tomorrow. Apathy manifested toward whatever services our business, educational, religious, industrial and agricultural systems can and do render at the present time tends to prevent the exercise of our highest abilities for the needs of the future.

Those of us (you) who were fortunate enough to be able to hang on to those Liberty bonds will hardly agree with Europe that Uncle Sam is a Shylock.

Love makes the world go around, but money makes men go around the world.

A man sometimes finds his collar button when it rolls under the dresser, but if the same thing happens to a modern woman's clothes she might as well give them up as lost.

More people would emulate the good in the laws if there were not so much bad in them to violate.

HITEON NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Erickson of Laurel were Sunday guests at the E. D. Hite home.

Earl Anderson of Cornelius is visiting the L. West family.

The Misses Ethel North, Genevieve Peterson, Elizabeth Struthers and Vivian Nelson went to Newberg Sunday to pick loganberries.

Little Patty Anderson returned home Friday from Rockaway where she spent the Fourth with her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. John Caldwell.

Miss Lucile Hite is staying at home and going back and forth to her work in Portland.

Henry and Archie Davies left Sunday for Seaside with their grandmother Mrs. Sophia Olson and aunt Miss Mabel Olson.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Campbell and sons of Husum, Washington, Mrs. Joe Campbell and Miss Margaret Ferris of Portland, were calling at the Hite and Struthers homes Friday evening.

Hiteon was quite deserted the Fourth. The most of the folks enjoyed a picnic near Oswego and spent the evening at Hillsboro.

FREE JUICE FOR EVERYBODY IS NOW AN ACCOMPLISHMENT

"Buy an eel—and beat the power company!"

Most any day, now, you can expect to read the message on the billboards of the nation, in its newspapers and over the radio.

No home will be complete, in the near future, without its eels. The great captains of industry will breed their own eels. Every manufacturing plant will swarm with eels.

When you go to the country, you will take a "spate" eel with you. You'll be telling your next-door neighbor, "Yes, I don't see how we ever got along before we got Oscar, our pet eel."

But you're dying with curiosity. Why the eels? Well, it seems, says the Seattle Star, that the Philadelphia zoo has imported electric eels from Trinidad. According to the supervisor of the zoo, Emerson C. Brown, each of the eels generates one horsepower.

The Philadelphia scientists have found that the eels can be connected electrically and made to run egg-beaters, toy trains, light up electric bulbs and do other tricks.

Why the eels are electric no one knows. But they are. They use electricity to shock their enemies. But now, the ingenious mind of man is turning their peculiarity into commercial channels. The eel's batteries will soon be turning out "juice" for homes and factories.

The electric eel is here! Freedom from bills! Free "juice" for everybody! Hot dog!

THE CONTROL OF CRIME

"What the criminal law needs is not teeth but brains," says William J. Donovan, former Assistant Attorney General of the United States, "not the mental activity of a specially appointed commission of lawyers, but the concentration of the public brains."

"The criminal is alien only mentally and morally. He is not a denizen of some remote island. He is living among us, a part of the community in the physical sense. . . He has access to the automobile, to the airplane, and, in New York state at least, far readier access to the automatic pistol than has the law-abiding citizen. These things cannot be kept from him.

"Shortening and simplifying the processes of criminal law, extending the power of the judge upon the bench, enforcing local laws locally instead of through the already encumbered Federal courts, developing a sense of responsibility in the individual citizen, in the community and in its judicial officers—these are the steps which will bring about the control of criminality."

Anti-pistol laws, anti-automobile laws, anti-aircraft laws or any other kind of "anti laws" passed on the theory that they will prevent crime, simply punish the law-abiding to the benefit of the law-breaker. The more laws we pass the more law-breakers we have. Crime will be reduced in proportion as the law-breaker learns that punishment will be swift and certain.

REDUCING STATE TAXES

Why should nearly all the state, county and city taxes be collected from farms, homes and industries?

Why should not a larger part of these revenues to carry on local government be collected from crimes, luxuries, follies and extravagances? In some states there is a regular system of raising part of the local revenue from tobacco in Poland will amusements, etc.

Is there not a suggestion in the following editorial paragraph from the Los Angeles Times?

"It is thought that the government revenue from tobacco in Poland will this year reach $150,000,000. As the total budget of the country is only $200,000,000 it will be seen that the country will pull nearly half of its expense money out of the smoke. If government formed the habit of levying taxes upon all vices the virtuous would presently have no assessments to pay."

PAGEANT PROMISES TO BE INTERESTING

Strangers passing through the thriving city of Eugene are bewildered at the sight of the many bearded and picturesquely dressed men and demure, hoop-skirted women, on the streets and in the public places. This however is short-lived as the newcomer is informed by one of the whiskered gentlemen or old-fashioned women about Eugene pioneer pageant July 25, 26 and 27. The "Sunset Trail" celebration has taken on a state-wide importance and now promises to be one of the outstanding celebrations of the Pacific coast. Of greatest interest will be the "Sunset Trail Pageant" of Oregon in which 1500 citizens will participate. This will be given each evening, on a huge stage to be erected in the center of Hayward Stadium at the University of Oregon. Accommodations are being provided for 30,000 spectators for this event, and already people of this city have entered enthusiastically into rehearsals for the many features that will make up the pageant.

Directing the pageant will be Mrs. Doris Smith, of Portland, who has won national fame through her work as director of "Rosaria," in her city during the annual Rose Festival. She will be assisted by John Stark Evans and Rex Underwood, of the University of Oregon school of music Mildred LeCompt Moore, dancing director and scores of others whose talents have been proved in music or drama.

Afternoon of the celebration days will be taken up with an air circus that promises to be the outstanding aeronautical event of its kind of the Northwest. This will include airplane races from Portland to Eugene, trick and stunt flying, and all other features of such performances. Prizes approximating $1,000 have been posted for races and other events, and at least 20 planes not competing are expected from army and navy posts. Airmen from every state in the West have been invited and many have already accepted.

The three day celebration will be conducted in a dignified manner, in a spirit of commemoration of the deeds of the pioneers, declares Hugh Rosson, manager of the event. It is planned to make the occasion a fitting memorial to those who settled and builded the state, and it is in this spirit that people from all over Oregon are offering their aid and co-operation.
