RADIATION DIET DR. CURTIS W. MILLER

During the coming weeks, we will explain in detail the principal on which we base our practice in Radiation Diet.

Radiation Diet, scientific food selection is based on the laws of vibration the same as radio turned toward the physical well being of man.

It represents the last word in a proven, scientific, correct and successful food selection system.

The principal is easily understood and will be fully explained in this treatise.

Every person, every disease, every food, gives off a definite measurable wave length which never varies through the existence of that substance. The Encyclopedia Americana states, "Everything vibrates, everything has its rate of vibration."

Each individual has a personal or distinct wave length that emanates from his body all the time. This is called the personal rate. You are all acquainted with the phenomenon of how the bloodhound when given your scent can follow your path and recognize you from hundreds of others. He is able to do this through the law of vibration, for he has a very delicate receiving set in his nose which enables him to distinguish the wave length of one person from another. You are constantly giving off your vibrations no matter where you go, and that is how he can follow you.

If you should want to find out the chemistry of the ocean it would not be necessary to take the whole ocean to the chemist, for any drop of water taken from the ocean any place contains within it all the chemicals of the ocean only in a diminutive form and from that drop of water he can tell you what they are. Any drop of blood taken from the body has within it all the bodily conditions and through the laws of radio and vibration we are able to detect these diseases and conditions that are in the body that this blood came from. The basis of everything is vibration. This is a radio age.

EDITORIAL

Following the lead of this paper, which last week gave a page to the progress of Fairvale and the movement for the tunnel, one of the large Portland dailies last Monday evening devoted an entire page to a story on what the new project is going to mean to this and every other part of the Valley.

The ably written story, expanding in part upon a few details which were emphasized in the article presented by the publisher of this paper, secured city-wide publicity for the construction plan.

Fairvale has thus been brought in the most emphatic way to the attention of thousands in the city, in addition to the thousands who were impressed with the writup in last Friday's issue of this paper.

The editor of this publication has received many pleasing compliments on the interest he has shown in the tunnel project, and on the willing co-operation he has manifested during the progress of the movement to secure it.
