He Man Two lads were visiting their aunt. The older was very neat and made no objection to the daily bath demanded of them by the fastidious aunt. The younger lad had an aversion to water and his fond aunt asked: "Why do you always howl about bathing? Your big brother never acts like that."

"Well, he is stuck on the girls and wants to look pretty. I'm a man's man," replied the aggrieved lad.

Not Crushed by Criticism Criticism should not be taken too seriously. Edison, tinkering with his electric light bulb, was told by scientists that it couldn't be done. But he did it, because he was indifferent to other men's experience and criticism. —Grit.

Language Peculiarities English has twenty-six alphabet letters, twenty-one for consonants and five for vowels. English has some forty-four sounds, twenty-four consonantal and twenty vocalic. To represent these forty-four sounds in spelling, English has well over 400 separate orthographic combinations, making an average of ten possible spellings per sound. What can you do with a language like that? And yet there is a charm about it.—Janet Rankin Alken, in the Bookman.

Makes Healthy Plants Charles Darwin began a long series of experiments in 1861 which proved conclusively a fact stated as long ago as 1790, says Nature Magazine, that a better, healthier plant comes from seed produced when pollen is brought from another flower. Two of nature's pollen carriers are insects and wind.

Humble Cow Looked On as Evidence of Wealth In the early centuries the cow was looked upon as a source of wealth as well as food. One of the first words for money was "pecunia," from the Greek word "pecus," meaning cattle or herd, and the first coins made in Greece and Rome were stamped with the cow's head.

Another interesting connection between cattle and gold is found in the story of the discovery of gold in California. People came overland by pack train, around the Isthmus of Panama, and in sailing vessels around the Horn. More people meant more cows and to meet the growing demand, large numbers of cows were brought from Kentucky and England. In the early mining days these sold for $300 to $500 a head—so a cow was almost as good as a gold mine.—Kansas City Times.

When Sails Beat Steam When the steamer Enterprise, commanded by Capt. James Henry Johnston, English plowee, navigator, reached the Cape of Good Hope on October 13, 1825, it is recorded that "a great crowd gathered on the fore-shore to admire the wondrous object that could move at will without regard to the direction of the wind and to the accompaniment, it must be said, of a mighty puffing and volume of smoke."

The Enterprise, which had left Falmouth, England, on August 10 for Calcutta took so long (113 days) to reach her destination that every one, including her captain, was disappointed, for under favorable conditions the great sailing ships, at less expense, could make the voyage to Calcutta in 90 days.

Probably Fervent Wish On a shore-bound train recently the Stroller sat behind a fussy old lady. The seat in front of the woman was occupied by a gentleman who had his window open.

"I wish that man would shut his window, my hair is blowing around something awful," she remarked to a woman in the seat beside her. The gentleman of the open window having heard the indirect request, turned, and with the woman's features mirrored in his barren dome, smilingly said: "I wish the wind would blow my hair!"—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Cleaning Plaster Statues When plaster statues have become dingy and dusty first give a thorough brushing and dusting. Take a good quality of white or cream colored paint and make it thin with turpentine. Apply this to the statue with great care so that no paint settles in the crevices to impair the modeling. The statue can then be kept clean by wiping carefully with a wet cloth. Many statues in the Coreoran Art gallery, Washington, are treated in this way.
