Power Situation

(Carl Thomas in Tacoma, Wash. News)

To see by the papers that the city of Seattle has decided that it will not sell any more power to Tacoma. The drought has cut down the amount of water in western Washington streams and Seattle is beginning to conserve. That means that Tacoma will have to draw on Cushman again.

The spellbinders persuaded the voters in Tacoma to refuse a franchise to the Puget Sound Power & Light Company. I wonder what we are going to do for power when our resources fail this summer, as they surely will if this dry spell continues.

You would never catch Seattle making a mistake like Tacoma did. Seattle keeps both city power and Puget Sound power. Seattle wants all power it can get. As the result it has won several big industrial plants away from Tacoma lately.

But Tacoma listens to its radical spellbinders and bands the private company. Where will we get power to run street cars when we kick the private company out? Besides look at the odium which this city has obtained by its action.

We won nation-wide notoriety by the Lexington episode. It looks as though we learned nothing from this and would repeat it all over again.

Five Lakes Open for Trout

The business men of Aloha are on the verge of placing an order with the State Hatchery, for enough trout to place in the five new lakes, located in the middle of the business district. This move will give Aloha an advertising medium for the tourist trade, which means motorists could stop and fish here and at the same time merchants might profit by increased trade.

There are still a few men who imagine they've done about three-fourths of the house-cleaning when they clean the soot out of the stove-pipe.

Annual School Election
Scheduled for June 16th

The annual school election is scheduled for Monday, June 16th at the Aloha-Huber school house, at which time one director will be elected and the budget for the coming year voted on.

The most priceless gift any parent can present to their children is an education—yet how few of the voters ever attend a school election, or visit the school, to show those who are teaching their children, that they are willing to cooperate in every way possible. On the other hand, it is much easier to stay away and criticize and tear the present educational system to pieces.

Voters, make an effort to come out to the election the 16th of this month and show some interest in the future of your childrens education

It has long been the policy of the college extension service and its county agent staff to sponsor and actively aid cooperative marketing movements. Many of the successful cooperative marketing associations which are operating in the state today have been rendered definite assistance by the county agents or the extension specialist in marketing.

Over bearing has a marked influence on the color of many fruits. When peaches, apples or many varieties of highly colored pears touch each other during the ripening period, coloring is poor where the fruits come together. Observations have shown, too, that coloring of fruit is usually more sprightly when light crops are borne than when heavy crops are produced.

No matter how many husbands she has had no woman ever thinks it is all right to have more than one chin. Home is the place where you don't have to lay down a ten-cent tip every time you ask for a drink of water.

The way they stay up all night you would think the rising generation had the idea it isn't possible to have any fun in the daytime.
