A special dinner was served by members of the Hillsboro Grange in the Grange hall at which time 31 corn club members and members of the Grange listened to a talk by Eugene Courtney, of Woodburn, chairman of the agricultural committee, of the State Bankers' Association, in which he stated that the banks of Oregon considered 4-H club work an important part of the banks progress.

United West Side Clubs Meet at Forest Grove

Largely and enthusiastically attended, the United West Side clubs gathered at Forest Grove Tuesday night. One of the matters given major consideration was that of a Coast Range highway project. Able speakers discussing this were Dr. E. B. McDaniels, Portland, president Oregon State Motor Association, and Samuel Dolan, Corvallis, president Pacific Highway Association.

C. J. Stickney of Aloha aroused the attention and interest of the meeting when he introduced a resolution to widen the Tualatin Valley highway. The latter will be heard at the next meeting at Aloha.

Dr. Charles Lampkin of Hillsboro, introduced a resolution for the widening to 100 feet of the Hillsboro-Bertha highway. There was much opposition to this and the matter was put over.

George W. Lippert, president of the clubs, made a strong appeal for local people to patronize home industries and stores. "Keep our money at home where it will most benefit those of us who spend it" was the import of his appeal. He called attention to the fact that there isn't a thing used in an automobile that comes from Oregon, and that Oregonians certainly should use those products that do come from the state.

Mrs. William Kletzer, connected with the Oregon Parent Teacher Association, discussed "Free Text Books." H. T. Botts of Tillamook was another speaker.

The next meeting of the clubs will be held November 11 at the Multnomah School House at which time "Fourth Street Highway Project" will come in for serious discussion.

Portland, the largest city in Oregon, has a population of 301,890 as revealed by the 1930 census, an increase of 43,602 or 16.9 per cent the past decade.

The "Pepco" had its conception in a dinky little horse drawn car line running up and down Front street in 1871 the length of the line was about a mile, fare was a dime.

During the past 59 years there has been scores of mergers, consolidations which have finally resulted into the combination of transportation, light and power under the present head.

The company is well fortified with both steam and hydro-electric power plants to supply the needs of the vast area it serves. Total generating capacity amounts to 227,850 K. W. of which 26,650 are water power, the remainder three plants steam. All plants are interconnected by high-tension transmission lines aggregating 807.5 miles.
