COSTLY CARELESSNESS

Several subscribers have been generous enough to compliment us from time to time on the helpful and timely suggestions we try to pass out to our motoring friends. It strengthens us in our belief that the vast majority of car owners are anxious to promote safety, and glad to have their attention called to ways in which they can do so.
 Now that we are on the subject, it seems timely to add another, and one we believe is among the most important of all. That is in regard to tossing lighted matches, cigars or cigarettes from the car as it is speeding along a highway. In fact, so dangerous is this practice that 23 states have already passed laws providing a penalty for anyone caught doing so. Investigations have shown that thousands of dollars of our national fire loss each year can be traced directly to this cause. The smoker, without any intention of causing property damage, tosses a match or lighted cigar or cigarette out of the car window. He is not in position to know the result, because he is miles away before a tiny spark grows into a flame and that flame, in scores of cases becomes a raging conflagration along the roadside before it is discovered. Often it spreads to houses and barns before it can be placed under control.

It is a good idea to remember this, and to see that the match is extinguished before it is discarded, or that cigar or cigarette stump no longer contains fire as it is being disposed of. Hundreds of thousands of dollars could be saved annually if everyone would do this, and there wouldn't then be any need to pass state laws against such carelessness.

Railways of the United States expended $1,000,000,000 for improvements during the year 1930.

The BEST Gray Hair Remedy is Home Made
 To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

Your Handwriting And What It Tells
 By JANET WINTON

hand writing infinite faith

Joan Lowell
 Joan Lowell, who wrote "The Gracie of the Deep," the book which inspired Corey Ford's parody, "Salt Water Taffy," writes:
 "Dear Miss Winton: I would like to know what you can tell me from my handwriting. I have infinite faith in graphology."
 The script is boyant and free swinging, suggestive of the salesman type of handwriting. Unlike the typical salesman script, though, it lacks the physical force, punch and aggressiveness. However, these traits are not vital to Miss Lowell's well being and success. She is not a salesman nor does she aspire to be from her hand.
 If a heavier script disclosed the same degree of emotionality—shown in the slant and rhythm—the result would be a vibrant, magnetic and overpowering personality. The pen strokes, however, are of medium pressure, and the "t" crossings are generally lighter in tone than the rest of the writing. This reveals a charming impulsiveness and a lively personality. Ending strokes are soft, an indication of a willingness to please.
 Lower loop formations are more developed than upper loops, emphasizing a gay spirit that detaches

AUTHORESS ANALYZED
 In such innocuous diversions as dancing, singing and outdoor sports. She loves to play.
 It takes a great effort on her part to get down to work. But always, after the start, she can find something to hold her interest and keep her amused. She has a remarkable faculty for enjoying life.
 Comma like "l" markings also emphasize a love of fun and a sense of humor. She is unaffected and sincere. A circuit, used as a period finishes off the signature, indicating an appreciation of form and fastidiousness.
 The whole tone of the writing is gentle and unassuming. Pronoun "I" is modest. It is made with a larger lower loop, a sign of high mindedness and independence of thought.
 An interest in music and poetry is shown in the lilting rhythm of the script. Trace this writing and see how lively it dances along.
 In an effort to furnish work for unemployed citizens, Montgomery, Ala., has abandoned the use of machines and gone back to work by hand on all municipal construction.
