H. A. Morrison's Idea Relieves Another Worry for the Housewife

Ideas are continually being manufactured to relieve the cares of the modern housewife. H. A. Morrison of the Aloha Meat Market has ventured forth with his latest plan, a meat vending wagon.

In the past objections to purchasing meat from a wagon, were based mainly on the fact that meat cuts made in the open were subjected to an unsanitary condition. This protest has been rectified by having the meat cut into average cuts before leaving the market.

Chops and meat cuts are appetizingly arranged on white enamel tray which are always kept on ice in a spotless wagon. The housewife, however, may obtain special cuts if desired.

Mr. Abbott who has charge of the wagon will be on the north side of the highway the first part of the week and the south side the latter part.
