LOOKING AT WASHINGTON

NEWS ABOUT HOOVER CORRESPONDENTS COMPLAIN MORATORIUM ACCORD "POLITICS" GETS GOING THE PRESIDENT'S PROSPECT THE ISSUES OF 1932 WOODCOCK ON ENFORCEMENT

Newspaper men in Washington are protesting the news policy of the White House. They do not like an investigation into the source of certain stories pertaining to trivial personal affairs of the President, which were published upon information received from some source in contact with the Chief Executive.

As we understand the position of the President he wants stories about his activities to come from a "stated source" which happens to be one of his secretaries, a former newspaper man of experience, Theodore Joslin. The correspondents say this is a sort of censorship. Well, there's a lot to be said on both sides, but some definite "news" policy is needed at the White House. This has been apparent ever since the days of the "official spokesman," a fiction which did not go too well.

However, this is a small matter in the affairs of nations. The President's moratorium proposal finally got through although the news of the acquiescence of France did not bring the market response that was hoped for. It seems that the news of the proposal being made took all the advance the market could stand.

As we stated some time ago, the nation, apparently, was behind the President, with little politics being played. This was not expected to last, and already there are signs that the Republicans will claim all the credit for any good that comes out of the moratorium and that the Democrats will, in self-defense, make some partisan observations. Already, the cry comes that since the President has taken a hand in helping Europe, he might "do something" for America.

The fate of the President depends, whether you believe it or not, largely upon the economic recovery of the nation. He might even be re-elected if the present depression extends into 1932, but it would be a struggle against fate. If the moratorium starts a general world-wide recovery the credit will be largely given to the "engineer" and if it doesn't just the same, the blame will be attached to the same individual.

The subject of prohibition, which seemed so powerful some months ago has strangely receded in the backgrounds. This is probably due to a better campaign on the part of the dregs, who have taken every opportunity to strengthen their position lately. Various reorganizations have, it seemed, lined up a more effective machine, and the likelihood of active opposition from many church bodies is having weight with politicians who have been boisterously wet.

In the meantime Amos W. W. Woodcock, prohibition enforcement chief, in outlining his campaign, says that every commercial violator will eventually be caught, but that private violators are protected by so many statutory and constitutional safeguards that they will have to be left to their consciences in the matter.

HIGHWAY MEETING OF VITAL IMPORTANCE TO LOGAL TOWNS

At Salem, Thursday, July 30th, at 11:00 a. m., there will be held the regular meeting of the State Highway Commission. Among the important matters to be taken up at that time—matters materially affecting the Tualatin Valley—are the short route to the beaches and the Champoeg Highway. Both these matters have been under discussion for some time, and it is understood that some definite action on them will be taken at the next meeting of the Highway Commission.

Prominent citizens from Forest Grove, Hillsboro, Aloha, Beaverton, Tigard, Portland, and others, have already told those in charge that they will join the caravan which will start at Forest Grove and Portland, will meet at Beaverton at 9:30 from where it will pass on through Tigard, Newberg and other places along the route to Salem. It is hoped that many will attend this meeting because it is known that the Highway Commission is anxious to know where the people of the Tualatin Valley desire the location of the short route to the beaches.

The consensus of opinion, gathered by those who have made a survey of the situation seems to be in favor of the so-called Ridge Route, which would pass through Beaverton, Aloha, Hillsboro and Forest Grove over the present Tualatin Highway; thence on to the coast ending at Wheeler or Mohler, a branch running on toward Tillamook tapping that fertile and productive dairy country as well as connecting it with the valley which would facilitate a market for the products of the communities. The present highways are not adequate and both districts suffer. A shorter route would be of great benefit to all concerned, as well as making for easier access of Portlanders on their way to the ocean.

The meeting is sponsored by the Sons and daughters of the Oregon Pioneers, Senator Milton A. Miller, Chairman, The Salem Chamber of Commerce, the Champoeg Memorial Highway Association, Albert Tozier, President, and the United West Sids Clubs, Geo. W. Lippert, President.

Championship Games to be Played on Beaverton Field

Beaverton tackles Verboort here Sunday July 26, in what promises to be a real hot ball game. Fans from all over the Tualatin Valley will be here as all other contests have been cancelled so all may attend the game. Portland also will have several Bush fans out to see the game and look over the boys in the Tualatin Valley League. Reports have reached the Hot Store League and an eagle eye or two will be out looking over two or three prospects for the faster company. Reisbick and Salmon will face each other on the mound.

Jones, Barron, Stangel and Todd, Beaverton sluggers are anxious to test their long drives against Mr. Salmon. While Verboort will send in Delflanch and the Kemper boys to try and offset the Beaverton sluggers. Game starts at 2:30 p. m. on the Beaverton grounds. Beaverton leads Verboort by one game.

"Cotton Blossom Singers" at Congregational Church Next Monday Evening

At the Congregational Church on Monday July 27 at 8 p. m. the Cotton Blossom Singers from the Piney Woods School in Mississippi will give a concert.

Negro spirituals will be the main features of the program. These young people from the Southland will give the songs of their race as they have learned them in the rural churches and in the cotton fields of the Black Belt. They do not use instrumental accompaniment.

No admission will be made for the concert of the Cotton Blossom Singers but an offering will be received. The young people who make up this group are students from the Piney Woods School and are singing for the institution, or rather are doing this instead of their work they might be doing at the school this summer to pay for their next winters schooling.

While the concert is being held at the Congregational Church, it is hoped that it will be understood that the Congregational church is only acting as hosts and that everyone is invited.

Car Stripped of Engine

The Shively automobile underwent a sad experience Monday night while parked in front of the Cannery in Hillsboro, the engine and all movable parts were stripped from it. Misses Helen and Carlotta, who are employed at the cannery on the night run always parked the machine near the building, no one has ever bothered it before. This was a great misfortune for the family as Mr. Shively, a carpenter, used the car during the day in his work and the girls at night.

Berthold Sign Repainted

NEED OF FIVE TUNNELS IN TUALATIN VALLEY CITED BY BOOSTER

L. M. Lepper, No. 1 booster for improvement of east side roads and streets, is not one-sided in his labors in behalf of Portland progress, he assured Fred W. German, chairman of the board of county commissioners, in a letter this week. Mr. Lepper and others appeared before the county commissioners last week to urge the expenditure of more unemployment relief bond money on the east side, claiming that most of the money is being spent to improve west side roads.

While Mr. Lepper still insists that the east side has not obtained its share of the unemployment relief work, he enclosed in the letter a report on proposed developments for the west side which he has submitted to the Portland Uptown association. In the report to the Uptown association, Mr. Lepper told the westsiders that their future lies in the development of the Tualatin valley. He showed them how the east side has progressed by widening roads and opening through streets and then suggested future improvements which would bring the Tualatin valley within easy access of the downtown district. His plans, rather pretentious, provide for the ultimate construction of five tunnels through the west side hills and improvement of 10 present and future highways—Sunday Oregonian.
