THE LONDON PARLEY NOT MUCH ACCOMPLISHED FEAR GERMAN REVOLUTION GREEN IS PESSIMISTIC LABOR IN FLIGHT SO ARE WHEAT GROWERS FRANCE FOR ARMAMENTS CONCERNING NAVIES

Reports are that the administration is gratified by the results of the conference in London, where the seven powers extended for three months, a $100,000,000 loan to Germany, discussed measures to maintain Germany's volume of credit, and planned immediate action to provide further credits for Germany.

Well, for one, we will sit back and see what happens. We have some doubts, in our mind, whether the international parley's action will produce great results. It might, but there has been no sudden urge anywhere to pull out the national flags. Prices seem strangely quiescent.

At any rate, the difficulties of Germany, and the solicitude of the great nations, ought to convince every reader that something is the matter with the world. Statesmen fear what they try to prevent. All over the world leading officials tremble over the consequences of a revolution in Germany, where, it is admitted, such a possibility exists unless the steps taken accomplish results.

Two recent statements of William Green, president of the A. F. L., deserve attention. In one, the labor executive urged a permanent holiday in reparations and war debts, although making plain that this was only a personal expression of opinion. In the other, the labor chief-tain exhibited pessimism over the economic outlook for the next winter, describing conditions as "bad."

Convinced that labor is facing a crisis Mr. Green does not hesitate to assert that his organization will oppose reduced wages with "all our might and vigor," says Mr. Green. "While we wait and refuse to grapple with the problem men go hungry and social unrest develops. The history of the world shows that hunger lies at the basis of world revolution. What are we going to do about it? The situation is more serious now than appears on the surface, and for some reason those in authority refuse to act. In the name of God, are we to sit still and do nothing?"

Labor is not alone in its plight. From the agricultural sections come stories of unrest. A debt moratorium for wheat farmers is being talked in some sections of the southwest at harvest time, when farmers usually are better off. The sponsors apparently are not looking for government action, but hope creditors will take cognizance of the situation by withholding demands for immediate payment of accounts. This will enable wheat growers to hold their grain, which, at some places has been selling as low as 25 cents a bushel.

Meanwhile considerable resentment is being stored up against the policy of the Farm Board, which gives every indication of resisting all pressure and standing pat on its program, as announced. When Congress reconvenes you will hear much from the "insurgents" about this wheat situation. Meanwhile, the Board seems assured of the correctness of its position that it is ready to sink or swim on the issue.

Setback the other day when France Disarmament progress received a notified the League of Nations that she had already cut her armaments to an irreducible minimum under present conditions of security in Europe. However, the statement also said that France was ready to collaborate unqualifiedly in a system for the general organization of the world peace, based on definite pledges of common assistance. Here we have again the effort to secure treaties binding the nations of the world to punish an offender against the peace of the world.

By contrast one finds the United States now getting ready to build eleven destroyers authorized by Congress more than fifteen years ago. Last week saw the anniversary of the ratification of the London treaty

COUNTY DELEGATIONS ASK WILSON RIVER ROAD TO COAST

P. L. Schultz, president of the Beaverton Chamber of Commerce and Mr. Unis, of the Beaverton Electric Co., attended the meeting of the Chambers of Commerce in Portland milk shed which was called at Oregon City to discuss steps that could be taken to bring about a concrete remedy to combat the differences between the producers of milk and the distributors in Portland.

This meeting was attended by bankers and attorneys from the small communities and came prepared to boil down the situation at this meeting, realizing that the present milk war was leading all lines of business to destruction. Ed Wist, Scappoose banker, represented Columbia County, through their recently organized County Chamber of Commerce. There being about fifty men at the meeting and it was so decided that this organization should become permanent and that all members present that answered to the roll call would be charter members and that the organization would be named at a later meeting.

Resolutions committee appointed by the chairman consisted of three prominent men, adjourned immediately to draw up resolutions, at which time a report came to the meeting that there had been a compromise between the producers and the distributors and that all milk trucks be dispatched to the farms for milk at once.

Resolutions Adopted
Whereas, the dairymen of the Portland milk shed, in the distribution of their product to Portland consumers, have been at the mercy of a large number of powerful Portland distributors, particularly of a corporation, having its principle office and place of business in the city of Seattle; and

Whereas, it seems expedient that a distribution plant should be constructed by the Dairymen's Cooperative Association of said milk shed for the purpose of directly distributing their product to the consumers thereof at a fair price to the consumers and with a fair return to the producers;

Resolved, that a committee of ten be appointed by the chairman of this meeting to confer with the directors of said Dairymen's Cooperative Association and if deemed advisable offer to lend the aid and financial assistance of the business men of the Portland milkshed in the construction of a distributing plant within the city of Portland of sufficient capacity to handle the product of said association.

Whereas, The Dairymen's Cooperative Association is organized under Federal law and,

Whereas it is charged that the Portland milk combine is guilty of a violation of Federal law,

Therefore be it resolved that the Hon. George Neuner, U. S. District Attorney be requested to investigate the acts of said combine and to take such action as the law may warrant.

Whereas due to the milk strike within the city of Portland, Mr. Commissioner Mann has manifested an unfair attitude toward the dairymen and has favored the milk combine, be it

Resolved that we express our disapproval of the official acts of Mr. Commissioner Mann and recommend that the enforcement of the milk ordinance of Portland be withdrawn from his department.

Be it resolved that we heartily commend W. W. Henry, manager of the Dairymen's Association in the fight against the Portland milk trust and, be it further resolved that we endorse the principle of collective bargaining.

Registration Fee at O. S. C. to Remain Unchanged

University of Oregon, Eugene, Aug. 5 (Special)—Registration fees at the University of Oregon will not be raised this fall in any way, it is definitely announced here by Earl M. Pallett, registrar and executive secretary. Rumors that an increase was to be expected at the opening of the next term are entirely false it is declared.

Since President Hall came to the university five years ago he has constantly striven to reduce the financial load carried by the students, and this will remain one of his main objectives, he says. Although the institution is confronted with a serious financial problem, due to curtailment of funds for the next biennium, no part of this will be assessed against the students.

Student registration fees at the university now total $26.25. This total, however, includes dues to the Associated Students organization, and others amounting to $11.25 and a $5 term building fee voted by the students themselves. Non residents will continue to pay $50 additional per term.

Registration of freshmen and "freshman week" will start this fall on September 21 and continue until September 26. Classes will get under way September 28.

Rumors of Typhoid Germs Found to be False

Rumors being circulated, that Tualatin river resorts are dangerous places to swim due to typhoid germs in the water, have been found to be false. Practically all the popular resting places were deserted last Sunday, many persons staying away for fear of this epidemic.

Dr. Mason, one of the health officers for the county received numerous phone calls during the day from anxious parties. A communication with Dr. Dinmore at Hillsboro, however, revealed only one case of such a disease in the county, dating back to June. Dr. Dinmore also stated that the Tualatin river water had been tested and was found unharmed to swimmers. Resort proprietors are of the opinion that some one was aiming to damage their business.

Correspondence

Beaverton, Ore., Aug. 6, 1931

Dear Editor:
Our state is forging rapidly to the forefront among the states in the conservation of valuable properties, and property interests, and the providing of means of adequate protection against fire losses in our own community is of vital importance at this season of the year.

The city council had this in mind when they so unanimously decided to avail themselves of the opportunity to furnish our community with a more wholesome and adequate supply of water, the thing that is essential to the comfort, happiness and prosperity of our people.

Trusting that every citizen will lend his support to the council when the opportunity is offered, to help obtain a greater supply of water at a lower cost thereby hastening the time of lower taxation and better property values, I remain, yours in the interests of the community.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED AT PORTLAND MILK SHED MEETING WEDNESDAY

The meeting of the State Highway Commission, held at Salem last Thursday, was conceded to have been the most interesting, important and best attended held in recent years. Fully five hundred men and women, in delegations from all over the state were in attendance. The meeting was held in the House of Representative Chamber, the Highway Commissioners Rooms being altogether too small to accommodate the crowd.

The Pioneer Highway delegation, sponsoring the Champoe highway, was headed by Mrs. Violet Ahlf, Portland, president of the Sons and Daughters of the Oregon Pioneers. Speakers on behalf of this project were Senator Milton A. Miller, Portland, Dr. C. A. Morris, of the Chamber of Commerce, Salem, Harvey Starkweather, Portland, Judge Peter D'Arcy, Salem, L. M. Lepper, of the East Side Commercial club, and Geo. W. Lippert, president of the United West Side clubs. All speakers stressed the importance of the wide, straight highway from Portland to Salem, free from sentimental and commercial angles.

Another important matter under discussion was the short route to the beaches. Up to the present time, there have been under consideration seven different routes, the Wilson river route and the Ridge route, however, standing out as the most logical of all. It was argued by Geo. W. Lippert that the present highway running from Beaverton to Forest Grove be widened; straightened and be made a part of the route to the coast no matter where the commission finally decides to run it west of Forest Grove. He stated that from a quiet survey he made, the great majority of the people in the Tualatin Valley favored the Ridge route. L. M. Lepper representing, as he stated, "the 338,000 people of Portland," also argued for the Ridge route. This was countered by H. T. Botts, Tillamook, who favored the Wilson route because of its particular commercial value and importance to the farmers of Tillamook. Spirited arguments took place although friendly. The Highway Commission, through Chairman Van Duzer, expressed satisfaction that the people were united in the thought that it is time something be done. Those in attendance were of the opinion that there would soon be expression on the part of the Highway Commission as to just where the designation would be.

There were representatives from all towns from Forest Grove to Newberg, and from Portland to Salem.

Those representing Beaverton were P. L. Schultz, C. J. Bjelman, A. E. Wilson, R. L. Richey, C. E. Hedge, Fred Koshland and Bill Boyd; Aloha C. J. Stickney, James W. Browning and Geo. Lippert; Huber, J. L. Gisdorf; Tigard A. P. Tarent, Multnomah E. E. Eckhardt.

Mayor A. E. Wilson principal speaker for the Beaverton delegation, spoke of the mutual concern of the people of the Eastern end of Washington county, and requested that the commission give the widening of the Tualatin Valley Highway their immediate attention, he also talked at length on the needs of the Champoe Memorial highway, which would connect with the proposed tunnel.

Mr. Gisdorf of Huber also explained to the Commission that the option for the right of way between Beaverton and Hillsboro had been secured but now expired, nothing being done on the widening which would when completed serve the traveling public as a hookup with the short cut to the sea.

The Washington County boosters listened with open ears when John Thornburg, of Forest Grove, who headed a delegation from Tillamook County, explained the advantages of the Wilson River route but did not even mention the widening of the Tualatin highway as being in his favor. The Judge evidently was too busy boosting his own county, while representing the people, or maybe there might be a future when the primaries roll around.

Our county Judge forgot to make any mention of, the something like

United West Side Clubs Endorse Fourth Street Improvement Project

At a meeting of the executive board of the United West Side clubs (comprising 52 community and improvement clubs) a resolution was passed enthusiastically endorsing the Fourth Street improvement project.

The board went on record as stressing the value of Fourth Street as a main arterial highway leading South, and the importance of the early completion of this project, not only to the communities interested, but to the merchants and property holders on down town Fourth Street, whose business interests are vitally affected.

It is understood that the re-paving of Fourth from Ash to Jefferson Streets, will commence within a few days, and the United West Side clubs, who are largely responsible for the Southern Pacific giving their take this opportunity of expressing their appreciation to the merchants right-of-way to the City of Portland, and property holders on Fourth Street for their splendid support of this most necessary improvement, which will tend to maintain and improve business conditions and property values in the entire Fourth Street district.

Half Acre Wheat Destroyed

About a half acre of wheat was destroyed by fire Monday, when a blaze was started by what is presumed from a combine on the Pat Kelley place. Prompt action of neighbors checked the flames, which were rapidly eating their way into the 90 acres of wheat.
