CORVALLIS—More than 9170 Oregon farmers distributed 110,000 pounds of squirrel poison on their farms during 1931, according to reports received at the central extension office here from county agents of the state. The saving in crop damage effected by this poisoning campaign is estimated at $115,000. Wallawa county was the heaviest user in eastern Oregon with 25,662 pounds. Lane county topped the list in western Oregon with 6700 pounds followed by Yamhill with 5150 pounds. This material is mixed by county agents and distributed to the farmer at cost.

Ratification by the Senate of the moratorium proposal of President Hoover just before adjournment leaves the way clear for early consideration of the proposed $2,000,000,000 reconstruction finance corporation urged by the President. The idea involves an advance of $500,000,000 from Congress and authority to issue bonds. The money is intended to supplement loans of the privately operated National Credit Corporation, organized in October. Liquidation of the affairs of the corporation is provided at the end of two years. The President feels that such a corporation would be able to relieve the railroad situation to a great extent and considers this highly desirable.

While the moratorium was approved, it seems to be the sentiment of Congress that reconsideration of war debts be dismissed. Hearings before a Senate committee tells of foreign bonds sold in this country and the opinion of leading bankers is that Germany will pay such private debts before settling any reparations claims.

The President urged Congress to re-establish the Debt Commission in order to re-examine the "capacity to pay" in the light of present world conditions but, in the moratorium resolution, the House went on record as opposed to cancellation or reduction of Europe's war debts to America. That the opposition to reduction is strong is apparent, but, on the other hand, proponents of such a step insist that the United States will have to rely on moral obligations to secure payment and that if the sums are not reduced, that foreign countries will not pay them.

An incident of the moratorium debate was the speech of Representative McFadden, Republican, of Pennsylvania, who charged President Hoover "sold out" his country in negotiating the debt holiday. Hot replies to his allegations were made by other Republicans but the White House took notice of the attack only to the extent of leaving McFadden off of a breakfast list which included all other members of a committee of which McFadden is chairman.

Subsequently, it was reported that patronage recognition in his district had been withdrawn and that he would not be recognized by the Administration. The Democratic leadership was prompt to disavow any sympathy with the McFadden charge calling attention to the fact that the personal attack on the President came from a Republican and not from a Democrat. Representative Bankhead stated that his party would attempt to defeat Mr Hoover by calling attention to his "blunders" and the "misrule of his party", but that no part of its campaign would be based upon "malfeasance in office" or "lack of patriotism."

The Japanese advance upon China has caused renewed concern over the course of events in Manchuria. The attitude of this Government has been stated anew to the Japanese foreign office and it is believed that the capture of China will cause serious consideration of the feasibility of invoking formally the Nine-Power Treaty of 1922, which guarantees the territorial and administrative integrity of China.

TOLEDO—A definite program of dairy improvement was adopted by the executive committee of the newly organized Lincoln County Dairymen's association at a recent meeting here. Among the projects designated to receive special emphasis during the coming year are stabilization of butterfat prices, the defeat of the oleomargarine referendum, and increased dairy calf club work.

BAKER—A cooperative livestock shipping association for Baker county is being promoted by granges of the county, reports P. T. Fortner, county agent. The move for such an organization was proposed by the McEwan grange and was approved at a recent meeting of the county grange. Committees have been appointed in each of the subordinate granges to work with Mr. Fortner in ascertaining the feasibility of such an association and perfecting its organization if found desirable.

LAKEVIEW—Everett Reid of the New Pine Creek district has obtained plans and blue prints from Victor Johnson, county agent, for the construction of a 400-hen laying house on the insulated type recommended for east of the Cascades and now said to be coming into favor on the coast. Mr. Reid plans to build this winter to take advantage of the low price of lumber.

Tang of Ketchup in Sandwiches Appeals to Winter Appetites

By JOSEPHINE GIBSON
Director, Heinz Food Institute

IT is said that more than thirty million sandwiches are eaten daily in the United States. The famed Earl of Sandwich, originator of the sandwich, scarcely could have realized the popularity which his idea, with "variations," was to achieve. Sandwiches, eaten in such amazing numbers, are of varied types and are found in both packed and home lunches, in afternoon and late evening party meals and in supper menus. No matter how simple they may be, there is an art in making them varied and delectable. The secret lies in skillful seasoning, for the sandwich is made delightful and zestful by a spoonful of Tomato Ketchup, Prepared Mustard, chopped Pickle or Evaporated Horseradish. Tomato Ketchup particularly is fine in sandwich fillings of meat, egg, or fish.

Grilled Peanut Butter, Bacon and Ketchup Sandwiches—Toast slices of bread on one side only. Spread untoasted side with Peanut Butter, then with Tomato Ketchup. Top with slices of uncooked bacon; broil until bacon is browned and crisp. Serve immediately with slices of Genuine Dill Pickle.

Toasted Cheese and Ketchup Sandwiches—1 cup grated American cheese; 3 tablespoons Tomato Ketchup. Mix grated cheese with Tomato Ketchup. Spread between buttered slices of white bread, trim crusts and toast. Serve hot. These are excellent when daintily cut and served with a fruit or vegetable salad for luncheon, or the sandwich itself may be served on a crisp lettuce leaf, garnished with Spanish Queen Olives and served as the main dish of the luncheon.

Tongue, Horseradish and Ketchup Sandwiches—1 cup minced tongue, ham, cold roast beef or other cold meat; Evaporated Horseradish to taste; 2 tablespoons Tomato Ketchup; 1 tablespoon Stuffed Spanish Olives, sliced; 1 tablespoon green pepper, chopped; Mayonnaise Salad Dressing to taste and moisten. Mix all ingredients together and spread between thin slices buttered bread. Cut into finger length strips.

Oyster Sandwiches—1 pint oysters; 2 eggs, slightly beaten; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce; bread crumbs; Tomato Ketchup or Chili Sauce. Beat egg, add salt and Worcestershire Sauce. Dip oysters in egg and then in crumbs. Fry until golden brown. Place 3 or 4 fried oysters between slices of buttered whole wheat bread or hard rolls and sprinkle with Tomato Ketchup or Chili Sauce.

Hard Cooked Egg and Ketchup Sandwiches—6 hard cooked eggs, chopped; Tomato Ketchup to moisten; 1 teaspoon Prepared Mustard; 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce; salt and pepper to season; few drops onion juice. Combine all ingredients. Spread between slices of buttered bread. For the packed lunch, wrap each sandwich in waxed paper.
