

E. J. WARD
Former Judge
Is a Candidate
For Republican Nomination for County Judge

To the voters of Washington County, for your approval I submit the following statement:
I have been a farmer and taxpayer of Washington county for over forty years.
If nominated and elected County Judge, I will perform the duties of my office to the best of my ability. I will at all times keep the interests of the taxpayers foremost in my mind. It will be my purpose to place the county on a cash basis and to keep it on such a cash basis. I will furnish my own automobile for my public business and will personally bear the cost of its maintenance.
My record as County Judge from January, 1925, to January, 1931, speaks for itself. At the time I took office in January, 1925, the warrant indebtedness of the County was around $170,000. We kept the business of the County up and at the end of the year, 1925, had the indebtedness of $170,000 wiped out. The next five years of my office the county was on a cash basis. Ten months after I left office in January, 1931 warrants for the county were being discounted and it is again in debt to the amount of $65,000.

What is the matter?
The new court house and jail were built during my administration. We kept within our limit and when the buildings were completed everything was all paid.
I favor good roads, but do not believe in making them a burden on the taxpayer. The roads now built should be maintained and kept in good shape. If possible to get a special tax for roads in one road district, I am in favor of reorganizing the road districts so those who desire may vote a special tax for roads in their locality.
Slogan: An efficient and economical administration of the county's business.

Statement of J. W. CONNELL, Sheriff

During my time as Sheriff the record shows 375 arrests classified about as follows: 23 non-support cases, 38 stills taken and destroyed, 270 cases of possession and sale of liquor, 150 cases of larceny, 75 cases of driving while intoxicated, 23 forgery cases, 51 cases of contributing to delinquency, 245 miscellaneous arrests for minor offenses such as reckless driving, game violations, assault and battery, etc. I have not attempted to specialize on the enforcement of any one law but have done everything in my power to enforce ALL LAWS. From these 875 arrests the fines and jail sentences in Circuit Court alone totaled more than $181,000 and 130 years in jail.

In former years we had laws in force such as the speed law. The State Traffic Department was bringing into the Court every day violators of the law while at the present there is no speed law and no one is brought in which makes a difference in the amount of fines turned into the Treasurer's office. Owing to the general depression there is no money in circulation and offenders are unable to pay their fines. For that reason we have more prisoners than in former years and our jail facilities have increased from 24 to 150 capacity. During my administration we have decreased the cost of keeping prisoners from $1.00 to approximately 35 cents per day and the prisoners in our charge care for the lawn and do part of the janitor work without extra cost to the County.

Some people seem to have the idea that before an officer should make an arrest he should take the offender down roll him to see if he has any money to pay a fine and if he has not to turn him loose. This is NOT my policy. I have always endeavored to do my duty as I saw it. I have at all times tried to keep people out of trouble which in my opinion is where an officer can be of considerable assistance to the public. Performing my duty as a peace officer I have been successful in handling at least three situations which might have resulted in serious consequences.

During my administration we have had few criminal trials. There is a reason for this and our office claims some of the credit. The efficient preparation of criminal cases in many cases have resulted in pleas of guilty saving the expense of trials.

As to the economy program which has been in vogue for some time, I went to the County Court more than a year and one-half ago and advised the Court that I could get along with only two deputies in our work. At which time it was agreed that we would try it. Certain things came to pass unknown to me that my third deputy still retained his position. When the budget committee met in November 1931 I asked for a reduction in our budget and was successful in cutting $2,020 off of the budget in the criminal department and 15% off the costs of the tax collecting department. Consequently we take this much credit in reducing our taxes. Anyone interested can easily verify this.

I have given my entire time to the County as Sheriff both day and night for the past three years and there has never been a robbery or any other crime committed that I have not been on the job as soon as notified of the same. I have at all times, after regular hours come to the office and issued automobile license, shipping tags for beef, pork, veal, poultry, etc., to anyone desiring the same. I have taken care of all complaints that have come into our office and all complaints of law violations have been promptly and thoroughly investigated. We have kept a complete record of all criminal work and finger prints of all offenders, and performed every other duty pertaining to the office. We have at all times treated the residents of this County and State in a courteous manner.

Trusting that my policy meets

GIVE OUR LEADERS A CHANCE!

JESSE K. BOND
Professor of Business Administration
University of Oregon

Trust and be saved. Surely the way to get bigger and better economic leaders does not consist in denying to those we already have a chance to plan and achieve concerted action.

Confidence and credit are based on prices and human character. Our business leaders are already sufficiently chastened, but with prices unstable or declining most lenders, owners and borrowers remain frightened. Like scared bank depositors they seek salvation in cash.

Recently Urbana and Aurora, Illinois, saved their banks by establishing effective withdrawal quotas for depositors. Similarly each of our industries could treat its market like a bank and establish fair output or sales quotas for all its producers, so as not to break the market. In the lumber industry such action has actually been planned but the leaders had to give it up for fear of hostile prosecutors and the anti-trust laws.

We, through our laws, refused these leaders the chance to save their industry. In this, as in other industries, each producer can reduce unit costs by capacity operation. Under present conditions of over-equipment and rapid changes in methods, capacity operation is not practicable for all, because it breaks the market. It is from the resulting destructive competition that a group of 122 business leaders recently asked a moratorium. It was refused because we do not trust them.

It is perfectly feasible to grant their request and still assure ourselves all needed protection. Give the Federal Trade Commission, or some similar authority representing consumers, power to approve plans for stabilization in each industry and to suspend the application of the anti-trust laws as long as the approval plans are followed in good faith. Give these approved plans, such legal force as may be necessary to make them effective.

The mere announcement of such a

WATER RIGHT IS REAL SAFEGUARD

Application Filed Early Insures Future Water Supply for Irrigation Purposes

Much has been said and written of late concerning the value of supplemental irrigation in Oregon, particularly in the western part of the state where this practice has but recently been widely accepted, but little has been said of the importance of filing on irrigation water rights where a stream is the source of supply.

Arthur King, soils specialist of the state college extension service, has explained recently the provisions of the Oregon law regarding water rights. No one is subject to fine, of course, for taking water out of a stream before first filing on a right, he explains, but in case of shortage the man with a water right can stop the man without one from using any irrigation water from the stream, even though it runs right through his place.

"If you are figuring on using water continuously for a period of years, it is safest to file for a water right so that you will be in a position to do the objecting in case of water shortage," says King. "Your water right will be dated and filed in the state engineer's office and your right will be prior to any of those filed on later dates."

That many western Oregon land owners have recently realized the future value of such rights is evidenced by the enormous increase in applications since the possibilities of irrigation in western Oregon have become more generally known.

"The procedure in obtaining a water right is to get an application blank from the state engineer's office," says King. "A book of instructions will come with it. The following facts are needed to fill out the blank.

"The legal location of the land to be irrigated, down to the nearest forty; a map to show location of the land within the different tracts; a legal description of the points of diversion, whether by pump or dam; and a map showing the location of the main canal for diverting the water. The county agent has a supply of these blanks and is prepared to assist in filling them out. Once acquired the right lasts forever unless the owner fails to use the water for five years, in which case it may be applied for by someone else."

LOOK AT YOUR TAX STATEMENT

The County Court of Washington County in reducing taxes to a point lower this year than they have been at any time in the 10 years last past is one of the 5 counties in the state that has met the 20% tax reduction on real property advocated by Governor Meier.

In making this reduction County Judge Donald T. Templeton has demonstrated an ability to effect the most stringent economy in the management of county affairs with no loss of efficiency.

He is the only attorney seeking the office and the only candidate qualified to administer the affairs of the probate court.

He stands for a progressive program of road construction with adequate and proper maintenance of the roads we now have.

A continuation of the present program of economy, efficiency and tax reduction is his pledge to the people.

Retain and able, competent, conscientious public official who has no interests to serve but the interests of Washington County.

Says: Why not let the people who live in road district No. 1 have a chance to say how large a road district they want and if they want to vote a special road tax or not.

I stand for a readjustment of road districts, so that each community may levy such special road tax as they want, or not.

I would exact the most rigid principles of economy consistent with the proper administration of the county's affairs. Useless and wasteful extravagances will not be tolerated.

Taxes will be cut to the bone, none will be levied except that are absolutely necessary to carry on the county business.

I stand for a readjustment of assessments on real property to the end that all property pays its just proportion of the tax burden. If I am the peoples choice, they will be my boss and I will be working for them.

The story that I do not trade and bank in Washington County is not true.
