Five Good Signs

The five chief indications of improving business during the approaching months, as summarized by Charles Merz, in the New York Times, are

1. The seasonal influences which normally tend to increase activity at this time in certain major industries.
2. The abrupt turn recently witnessed in the course of commodity prices.
3. The need of replacing depleted stocks of manufactured goods.
4. The end of a historic chapter in the movement of gold, accompanied by clear evidence that a new chapter is beginning; and
5. The belief that conditions abroad are improving, and Europe may resume the role it played in earlier depressions by leading the way to recovery.

Using Rats to Save Men

Those who object to experimentation upon animals have created some prejudice against the practice which only to be offset by proof of the discovery of valuable human aid from such work.

A case of this kind is called to mind through the experiments of Mrs. M. M. Brooks, biologist, working at the University of California. Mrs. Brooks suspected that methylene blue, one of the coal tar dyes, might be successfully used as an antidote for cyanide poisoning and the more common carbon-monoxide poisoning from the exhaust of engines.

Her suspicion was based on the opposite effect of poisons and methylene blue on the cell structures. She subjected about 80 rats to mild cyanide or carbon-monoxide poisoning and treated half of them with injections of the dye, leaving the other half to recover naturally. Those treated recovered in one-third to one-half the time required by the untreated cases, and confirmed her belief that human beings might be saved through her discovery.

Shortly afterward, Cuthbert Rievey, of San Francisco, was a victim of cyanide poisoning and undoubtedly owes his life to the information gleaned by Mrs. Brooks from her study of rats. Dr. Geiger, public health director, was responsible for the application of her newly suggested method in time and says his attention was called to Mrs. Brooks' work by other doctors.

JOSEPH I. SCOTT WILL SPEAK ON RADIO

Monday night, October 10, at 10:15 Pacific Standard time, the people of Oregon will have the opportunity to hear the man who nominated Hoover at Chicago in June, Honorable Joseph I. Scott of Los Angeles, and one of the brilliant orators of the day.

Mr. Scott will speak over KGW from Portland.

The affair is being sponsored by the Young Men's Republican Club of Oregon. Stewart Weiss, Pres. The latter has devised an original and unique plan for getting Mr. Scott's message into every home. He suggests that every neighborhood arrange a social gathering of some sort, a dance, a bridge party, high-five evening, or whatever is the popular amusement. Then at 10:15 tune in on KGW for 15 minutes of oratory—by a Californian, but not about California. In that way every section of Oregon can enjoy the speech.

The Paradise Valley club met Tuesday at the Fairvale clubhouse to consider plans for its reorganization, with the president, Mrs. C. W. Craig, presiding. It was voted to disband the club.

A card party and dinner will be given at the Raleigh school as the final activity of the club. A drawing for the quilt of fine hand work made by members of the club will also be held. Mrs. M. Rodgers will be chairman of the dinner committee and Mrs. James A. Lathrop will have charge of the cards. The party will be given Friday night, November 4. The money in the treasury will be used to pay for the maintenance this year of the club's bed at the Albertina Kerr Nursery home and the balance of the fund will be given to the Good Will shop to be used for relief work in the community.

Red Cross, Washington county chapter, appeared in the Pumpkin-Shadybrook area Wednesday following the disaster of Tuesday night when flames extended further into the territory, wiping out homes and crops.

Ten families were reported destitute at a meeting in Hillsboro Tuesday night, as a result of the blaze reported there Tuesday morning. Dr. H. L. Bates, Forest Grove, re-elected chairman, immediately directed relief measures for the devastated area and a truck load of food went into the territory Wednesday. A group of Hillsboro women headed by Miss Rose Cave, retiring secretary, were stationed at the Ellen Wright farm, making sandwiches for fire fighters. Many of the farmers of the vicinity, reports Miss Cave, have lost all their possessions, although a few fields of potatoes are available.

Robert Molin of the Capitol Hill 4-H club, Mrs. N. R. Kyser, leader, won three blue ribbons, the Sweepstakes and the silver trophy donated by Mrs. F. C. Little at the Columbia Valley Dahlia show at Meier & Franks, October 3rd and 4th. The trophy was received for his dahlia, Kemp's Mammoth Champion.

4-H Club News

In conjunction with the 4-H work the Capitol Hill Community Club will hold their social meeting and an interesting program has been arranged by Miss Marion Wood, the social chairman. Robert T. Mautz will speak on the Consolidation of our Colleges, and Mrs. Charles Hart will speak briefly on the eight weeks dramatic course now being offered by the Portland Civic Theatre. All high school students are urged to come and hear Mrs. Hart as this should prove of exceptional interest to them. "Come and Get It" Crops in the Limelight

HOW to cut labor costs to offset decrease in commodity prices is the problem farmers are now striving to solve. And many are reducing costs by turning to feed crops affording maximum nutritive value, and which the animals can "come and get."

Such achievements are frequently discussed around the exhibits of Land products, Hay and Grain and Dairy Cattle at Pacific International. The 22nd Annual Livestock Exposition will be held in Portland, October 15-22. In connection with this year's Exposition will be a saged spectacular Indoor Rodeo—the premier event of its kind in the Pacific Northwest.

What others are doing and the results they are achieving afford the best guide to those seeking reliable information. For that reason the BANK OF TIGARD suggests attendance at this year's Exposition.
