In a recent address given by Mr. Bert E. Haney, of Portland, he outlined the platform for the Democratic party. His address was the following:

"In the present contest we enter the fray with more distress, more real want and more real danger to the perpetuity of the republic than we have known since Civil War days. Our industries paralyzed, our trade ruined, our labor unemployed and agricultural life bankrupt, our finances wrecked and tottering and our morale destroyed, we face the coming election at a time when the electorate must act if our concept of American government shall survive.

"May I state the case for the Democrats?"

"In the platform we propose and favor a fair and sound currency, which can never exist until reasonable consideration is given to the worthy uses and necessities of silver, nor can we much longer allow a small group, known as international bankers, to disregard use of a coin, through which the trade of China, India, the Far East and South America has a being.

"We favor a competitive tariff and reciprocal tariff agreements at a time when the whole world needs reason, fair dealing and co-operation. Why insist upon a tariff theory which prevents an exchange of products which antagonizes our friends and threatens the people of the world.

"Our platform commits us to agriculture by continuing to lend government money to that industry at very low rates and extending the effort to control crop surplus.

"By our platform we advocate the repeal of the 18th amendment, an unequivocal and positive remedy, we believe to be the only effective end to the present impossible chaos, which engulfs us with responsibility to the much-disputed question. Personally, I think that prohibition is a question impossible of effective argument by those millions of our people who, irrespective of their inclinations, feel that after 12 years of actual practice, national prohibition has not been a success. We believe that no law can be enforced which is obnoxious to a vast number if not a majority of our people.

"Do our candidates measure up to required standards? As Democrats, we feel we are presenting in the persons of Governor Roosevelt and Speaker Garner the best we have in our party, typical Americans, gentlemen of unsullied character, and each having lived long years of experience in high public office.

"If Franklin Roosevelt and John Garner typify radicalism, then Washington was a radical, Lincoln was a radical, Wilson was a radical and the Constitution is radical.

"The public actions and public addresses of Governor Roosevelt are sufficient guarantee of his sanity, his deep learning and his public views. Basic changes face America if she is to prosper. The thing which is on trial in the minds of Americans of today is not the question of radical against progressive; the very essence of our political life is whether or not the capitalistic system can survive at all.

"A system which permits approximately 90 per cent of the wealth of the country to get into the hands of about four per cent of the people; a system that permits a surplus of farm and industrial products to pile up and become worthless while half of the world is dying of hunger is subject to some examination. A system that builds industry upon industry and permits 11,000,000 men to be out of work, is not entirely free from criticism. Let us meet our neighbor face to face and reason the question with him, keeping in our minds always the fact that America is at the crossroads: that the life of a representative government is measured by the kind of citizenship it enjoys. Let us recognize that this is the year 1932 and not try to measure its wants by the yardstick of 1880. Be not afraid of the charge that we are undertaking something new or propose something different, for a change confronts us. It will either be made constitutionally and in accordance with the concept of representative government, or it will be made otherwise. It means an abandonment of the theory that the mass of our people can be made prosperous by a few crumbs dropping through the fingers of the very wealthy."

HILLSBORO MAN ELECTED MANAGER

The Oregon League of Savings & Loan Associations at the annual convention held in Corvallis, Or., October 7 and 8 elected J. M. Person, manager of Washington Savings & Loan Association of Hillsboro, as president of the league for the coming fiscal year. Mr. Person has been vice-president of the league for the past year.

Other officers elected were, Senator B. L. Eddy, Roseburg, first vice-president, and Kirk Reynolds of the State Corporation Department, secretary. The executive board consists of J. M. Person, B. L. Eddy, Kirk Reynolds, R. A. Schramm, Portland, past president, and Ben H. Hazen, Portland.

It was brought out in the convention that over $1,000,000 in earnings were distributed to investors by Oregon savings and loan associations during the past year and that losses in the United States during the past stringent year were less than one-half of one per cent. Statistics were furnished to show that prime first mortgages on American homes, of the kind held by savings and loan associations, are still the best of all investments.

"The Federal Home Loan bank was, of course, the chief topic of the convention," said Mr. Person, "and a strong resolution was unanimously adopted expressing the belief that every savings and loan association in Oregon should participate fully in the services to be offered by the bank."

"The passing of this bill," Mr. Person declared, "which is the first recognition given the home owner by Congress, is the greatest step forward in the history of savings and loan and will benefit not only those desiring to own a home but will also stimulate all business connected with the building of homes."

"Great enthusiasm has been shown by all those in touch with the possibilities of the Home Loan bank," Mr. Person said. "Participation in its service will be a guarantee of an institution's standing as, the requirements for membership are severe."

The convention went on record as commending James Mott, Corporation Commissioner, and J. R. Callahan, Savings & Loan Supervisor, for their vigorous prosecution of crooks and promoters who in the past had gained entrance in the savings and plan business.

A committee was appointed by the league to aid associations in preparation of papers to join the Home Loan bank. Amendments necessary to the Oregon law to permit membership in the system were thoroughly worked out.

OREGON BUTTER WINS AT NATIONAL SHOW

Oregon butter, showing in competition with that from all the principal dairy sections of the country, won fourth place and scored highest over all coast samples at the National Dairy Cattle Congress, Waterloo, Iowa last week, according to reports received by the Oregon Dairy council.

The winning sample, made in Portland by Adolphe Eriksen, head butter-maker of the Raven dairy, scored 94 1/2 per cent and was only beaten by fractional points by butter which was of much shorter shipment. Mr. Eriksen has won high honors in butter making at many former national shows.

That Oregon butter is of a standard equal to that of any section of the country is the belief of J. D. Mickle, division chief of the state department of agriculture. The quality of Oregon butter has improved within the last few years until it occupies a leading position in all coast markets and even commands a premium in some, according to Mr. Mickle.

"Oregon people do not realize how the cream grading and butter scoring regulations put in force within the past two years have raised the score of our market butter. At the Oregon state fair just passed we had samples of butter from Iowa, Minnesota, Tennessee and Michigan, as well as from Washington and California, and the first five places were won by Oregon creameries, all with high scores," said Mr. Mickle.

The butter competition at the state fair was over a thirty day period, with judgment being passed on the score of the butter upon its arrival at Salem, again after fifteen days and again at thirty days. The highest average score, indicative of the keeping qualities of the butter, were used in compiling the final results.

The winner was the Carlton Cooperative, Carlton; second place went to Mt. Angel Cooperative, Mt. Angel; third place to Albany creamery, Albany; fourth and tie for fifth to Raven dairy, Portland; and tie for fifth to Swift & Company, dairy department, Portland.

Samples of market butter, as well as all other dairy products, will be shown at the Pacific International, October 15-22. This competition will attract nation-wide entries, it is indicated.

Possible Two-Cent Postage Rate

Recent Increase to Three Cents Results in Fewer Letters.

That it is not a paying proposition to charge higher rates than the traffic will bear, is illustrated by the experience of the Post Office Department in the matter of three-cent letter postage. It is revealed that during July and August, the two months immediately following the enactment of increased rates, postal revenues were about the same as for the corresponding months of 1931. This indicates that the volume of mail for the period in question was less this year than last.

When the new revenue bill was enacted, it was estimated that federal revenues would be increased to the extent of $160,000,000 a year by higher postal rates, but it is already manifest that these estimates were entirely too optimistic.

In a recent public address, Postmaster-General Walter F. Brown pointed out that the department was not mistaken when it anticipated that increased rates would not meet with favor, and he urged that the prime objective should now be to get back to the two-cent postage rate at the earliest possible moment.

WASHINGTON COUNTY WELL REPRESENTED

Nearly a carload of cattle, hog, poultry and entries belonging to 4-11 club members will be exhibited at the Pacific International Livestock Exposition at Portland this year.

For the State fair two heavily laden trucks carried the Washington County entries to Salem, but for the Pacific International each individual exhibitor is responsible for getting his own stock to and from Portland. This show starts on Oct. 15, on which date judging teams from nearly every county in Oregon and many teams from neighboring states will compete for state and sectional honors. Washington County will be represented by livestock, crops, poultry and rabbits judging teams.

As much additional training as possible will be given each of these judging teams, according to Joseph Belanger, assistant county agent. Such an excellent record was made by these teams from this county which went to Salem, the boys and girls who compete for the county at Portland will have a high mark to shoot at.

Hoss Makes Saving

Nearly a million dollars has been recovered for the state through audits conducted by Hal E. Hoss, secretary of state, since September, 1929, when the law authorizing his office to audit all state departments, institutions, boards and commissions became operative.

The major portion of this sum has been turned into the state treasury as a result of the audits and he remainder is in the process of collection. The additional money has been accumulated for the state from funds found to be in the possession of the various departments, institutions, boards and commissions, from defalcations or shortages uncovered, and from motor fuels tax dealers and motor transport companies to complete their payments due the state.

Of the total sum of $924,227.00, approximately $600,000 has been deposited with the state treasurer as a result of the audits of the various units of the state government, where funds had been held in the department or board or institution and not placed in the state funds as provided by law. Disbursements uncovered as a direct result of the department of state's audits totaled $4,343.33 and this amount has been placed in the state coffers.

In connection with motor vehicle fuels tax dealers, both underpayments and overpayments were discovered in the audit of the gasoline companies' books. The additional amount resulting to the state from this phase of auditing activity is $30,193.91. Investigations of the accounts of motor transport companies have brought in additional mileage fees of $32,922.78 and additional license fees of $11,125.00, or a total gain to the state of $34,034.03. Credits discovered amounted to $29,537.

25% INCREASE In Instruction Costs!

Will Result if the Proposed Zorn-Macpherson School "Juggling" Bill is Allowed to Pass!

The costly experience of 18 States, which have combined institutions, should be heeded by the people of Oregon in considering the so-called consolidation measure, which actually is only a costly and unneeded expansion, establishing 4 NEW schools and creating 2 NEW types of schools at taxpayers' expense.

The following graph, which is compiled from the authentic figures of the United States Office of Education for the school year 1931-32, will enable every taxpayer to prevent this increase in instruction cost, resulting from an experiment proposed by unknown interests.

IS THIS ECONOMY?

Category	Cost per Student
Oregon	$351.95
Separate Schools	$395.84
Combined Schools	$442.30

FIGURE (A) represents the present average low cost of instruction per student in Oregon. This cost is being continually reduced as a result of a unified system of instruction and management, which is now being operated at an annual saving of $900,000 compared with previous costs.

IF OREGON is forced to combine the University of Oregon with the Oregon State College, there would be an increase in instructional costs of $90.00 each year per student, or over $450,000 ADDITIONAL INSTRUCTION costs for a combined student body.
