

"MANANA"

Are YOU Afflicted with the Spirit of it?

It is so simple to have the best of intentions and then lapse into the spirit of "manana" (tomorrow). This procrastinating tendency is doubtless governing the actions of many in connection with the recently announced "Everybody Wins" campaign of the Tualatin Publishing Co., in which this newspaper will give away absolutely free more than $3,000 worth of prizes made up of a brand new automobile and cash. Although response to this almost unbelievable offer has been rather slow, it is bound to command the attention that it merits during the next week or two. Some few have entered their names, a great many more are thinking it over; right now. Here is a message to both groups:

To Present Entrants:

Of the limited number of well intentioned entrants to date only a few have actually started to accomplish anything. To those who have already taken the all-important step of entering; the first gesture toward starting in the rich returns for spare-time effort; really should not permit themselves to delay in material accomplishment. It is just as easy to write that first subscription today as it is to promise yourself that you do it tomorrow.

No matter how good the intentions; no matter how determined in your own mind you may be to acquire any one of the rich rewards; the mere fact that you put off making the first break cannot help but be accompanied by a lessening of that enthusiasm which marked your first decision. Tomorrow it is harder to start than it will be today. When it is considered that several participants will make a small fortune in spare time in the next few weeks; and that everybody who actively engages in his campaign is guaranteed at least a sizeable cash return; it is difficult to understand why anyone would permit anything to come between himself and an active start.

You ambitious folks who have entered this gift-giving election should delay no longer. There are present and prospective subscribers whose renewals or new business is right there for the asking. But look put! Someone quicker on the start than you might get there first. ACT NOW—TODAY!

To Those Entering:

It is true that it is better to act advisedly than to rush into anything but it also follows that too much time can be taken in making up your mind. With such a generous, fair and profitable opportunity as is offered in Tualatin Publishing Co.'s great campaign; it is impossible that scores even hundreds of live wire people are not experiencing an urge to jump in and claim a part of the money or the new automobile soon to be given away.

Often in the course of consideration one meets with discouragement from others in a joking way and permits such things to interfere with his immediate decision. With spare cash in such demand as it is right now; there should be many more entrants in this election than have turned in their nomination blanks and those who can use a little or a lot of money should not permit anyone else to turn them aside from any such legitimate and worthy intentions. The Tualatin Publishing Co. is guaranteeing immediate cash payments on all business and will pay every person who participates through the campaign; cash or an automobile in direct proportion to what he does.

In justice to your self hesitate no longer about entering. Get in now and start to make money. When you stop to think that you receive a cash commission each and every time you turn in even one subscription; you will discover that this campaign is something you cannot afford to stay out of.
