Senate Action Illegal Says Rep: Johnson

The action by the state Senate Saturday was made to remove the Wolf Creek route to the Pacific from the state highway program is illegal, in the opinion of representative J. C. Johnson and will never become effective.

Representative Johnson stated "that the legislature has no authority to dictate to the highway commission in matters of this kind and the highway commission may, if they so desire disregard the recommendation. Indications at the present time are that the Senate will probably reverse its stand in connection with this bill which was presented by the robust politician from Multnomah and Columbia counties who, by his action, has cast an unwarranted reflection upon the state highway commission, and has taken an unfair advantage of the people of Washington County. I wish to assure the people of Washington County that as a member of the House a strenuous effort will be made to defeat the bill and I am confident that it will be defeated if submitted for our approval. I sincerely regret the action of Senator Zimmerman in supporting Senator Dunne in his proposal. The people of Washington County desire the construction of this highway at the earliest possible date and do not want it removed from the highway program even though it may be necessary to delay the program for a few years."

House Joint Resolutions 1 and 2, providing for the repeal of the constitutional amendments relative to intoxicating liquors, were reported favorably by a majority of the committee on Alcohol Control. The resolutions will be considered on the floor of the house before the end of this week. Representative Johnson, who is chairman of the committee, stated that since the people of the state of Oregon have overwhelmingly repealed the enforcement features of the prohibition laws it appears necessary to either repeal the constitutional amendments or to provide new enforcement legislation. Since the people themselves have repealed the enforcement features the majority of the committee felt that the people should have an opportunity to decide whether they desire to repeal the constitutional amendments. It is impossible under the present circumstances to secure the passage of any important legislation. If the people of the state of Oregon refuse to repeal the constitutional amendments it will be the duty of the members of the legislature to enact enforcement legislation.

Monday Symphony Is Last of Concerts

The closing concert of the Portland Symphony Orchestra for the 1932-33 season is announced for Monday evening, February 13. A packed Auditorium is anticipated to hear Verdi's "Requiem," sung by the 200 members of the Portland Choral society. It is a magnificent, melodious and dramatic work, and when presented by an excellent chorus in mass singing is indeed most glorious.

Furthermore, there will be four soloists to sing the special passages. Each is a well-known artist, and three of the quartet were heard when the Choral society gave the "Requiem" two years ago. They are Madame Leah Leaska, soprano, Rose Friedle (Gianelli), contralto, Arthur Johnson, tenor, and Mark Daniels, bass.

Verdi composed this famous work in memory of two of Italy's best loved artists. Alessandro Manzoni, the poet and novelist and Gioacchino Rossini, the composer. The frequent solo parts, quartets and tremendous choruses make it one of the greatest works of its kind. Although this musical classic is sometimes referred to as an oratorio, it is more correctly defined as an opera, but without costumes and scenery.

"As the present music season draws to a close," states Mrs. M. Donald Spencer, manager of the Portland Symphony society, "we feel that another year of achievement has been added to our record. We have given the public 15 splendid concerts and brot to the West some of the finest musicians. At the same time, we have recognized our own local artists and presented them in most successful programs."

"The closing concert the night of February 13 should be a most thrilling and beautiful one, and we are glad to be able to present the 200 members of the Choral society and these four outstanding soloists. The choice for the end of the season."

Open House Held by Queen Esther

On Thursday of last week Queen Esther Circle held open house and a large number of friends and members were present.

Mr. Redman gave a short talk on prophecy.

The ladies of the circle then held a brief business meeting followed by a few timely remarks by the president Mrs. McGregor. At this meeting it was decided the circle would sponsor another cooked food sale at the Red and White store on Saturday, Feb. 11th, commencing about 9:30 o'clock.

It was also announced the ladies will be quilting this week at Mrs. Redman's home. Anyone interested is welcome.

Anyone interested is welcome attend the ladies aid meetings which are held on the first Thursday of the month.

There is a welcome awaiting you in any of the various active groups of the church that you would be interested in, the Queen Esther Circle, choir, orchestra, pound Table Class, Young Peoples' Organization, teachers' group, mid-week prayer meeting, and the regular church services.

ALOHA—HUBER NEWS

Fay Stivers has returned to school after a recent tonsil operation.

The small carpenters in the first grade are busy during every noon hour fixing up the sand table to represent the early home of Lincoln. The little log cabin is in the midst of the deep woods which is inhabited by bears, panthers, rabbits, squirrels, and other animals which the boys have carved from wood.

On Wednesday the mothers of the Pre-School study group of the P. T. A. met at the school house with mothers as their guests, the purpose being to make a study of the problems of child training. The primary children entertained them with songs and folk dances after which Miss Sue Eastman, recently of Columbia University of New York City, and now kindergarten teacher of Portland, gave a very interesting talk on "How to Make the Child Happy at Home." Dainty refreshments were served while the mothers continued the discussion of individual problems and difficulties. Miss Eastman is well qualified to give wholesome advice and the ladies were enthusiastic over suggestions received from her talk. This group meets once each month in the primary room and all mothers are invited to attend.

A projectoscope or picture reflector for use in the school by which a small picture cut from a magazine or other source can be thrown on a screen five or six feet square, has been made by Verne Bright. Last Thursday morning the children of the first four grades were shown a group of pictures depicting Eskimo and polar life, and another of the animals of North America. These pictures were very instructive and interesting at this time as the children of these grades have all been recently studying life of the Eskimo.

On Wednesday of this week the children and the mothers of the study club were entertained by the pictures of mothers of other lands and a group of pictures showing animal mothers and their young. Other pictures to be shown later are wild animals of the world, children of the world, methods of transportation in various parts of the world, and other things.

The P. T. A. of Aloha-Huber school is sponsoring a card-party entertainment and dance at the Aloha Grange hall on Saturday evening, February 11. Everybody is invited to attend.

Gritting their teeth with absolute determination candidates in the Tualatin Publishing circulation campaign and free gift distribution are going today at top speed in the race for the coveted gifts.

Candidates are urged to fill out their stubs at home. The circulation manager will be busy waiting on candidates and if you take unnecessary time in filling out stubs after your time arrives, you will be holding up everybody else. See that your stubs and money check.

Can Accomplish Wonders Wonders can be accomplished between now and closing time Monday night. Votes pile up rapidly until the closing hour.

Second payments or extensions of subscription originating in the first and second periods can play an important part in your campaign until the close next Monday night. The next and final week affords no opportunities through extensions.

The long-term subscriptions are short cuts that make it possible to be one of the successful ones thru effort put forth these last few hours—a little mathematics will prove it.

Race Is Hot

Never in this section has a race of any kind been so close or so hotly contested. Friends seem almost as interested as candidates themselves and are watching with anxiety and eagerness, hoping and trusting that their choice may come under the wire first and be acclaimed the champion of the champions, the proud winner of the big and valuable motor car. Monday's voting will be the heaviest of the campaign. That is our prediction. What candidates do now will be perhaps the greatest single factor in determining their status in this campaign whether they end a victory or finish as an "also ran". We believe this true—that no candidates right now have enough votes to assure him or her of any single gift in the list. Each and every gift is yet to be won and Monday night will determine results.

Remember—each and every candidate who intend to be active participants in the prize and commissions must report by Monday night, Feb 13

To the Public

Help your favorite with your subscription this week. As close as the race now stands, yours may be the deciding bunch of votes that will mean a small fortune to your favorite.
