NEW FARM RELIEF ADJUSTMENT LAW NOW OPERATING

Main Provisions of New Bill to Aid Agriculture, Says O. S. C. Speaker

Economic equality for American agriculture with resultant benefits to the entire nation is the objective sought in the new farm relief adjustment act which is now the law of the land through passage by Congress and the signature of President Roosevelt. Whether these objectives will be fully attained, time alone will tell, but meanwhile there is much in the law to be understood by the public, if possible benefits are to be derived, hence the Oregon Agricultural extension service is cooperating with the federal department of agriculture in supplying information regarding the provisions of the law and their application to Oregon conditions.

The first fact found in the study of the bill is that it is really three laws in one. The first part deals with production control and benefit payment, or "farm relief" proper, and will be administered by the department of agriculture. The second provides for farm mortgage credits and will be handled by the Farm Credits administrations; while the third deals with national currency control and will be used or not at the discretion of the president and his treasury aids.

The purpose of the main or production control section is to lessen or wipe out the present spread between the price level at which the farmer sells basic products—wheat, corn, rye, cotton, tobacco, hogs and dairy products included in the measure—and the level of which the farmer buys the commodities he uses in his business and home.

Three specific methods of accomplishing this adjustment of production to demand, any one or all of which may be put into effect by the secretary of agriculture, are briefly as follows: First, acreage reduction of the basic agricultural commodities by actual rental and benefit payments to the farmers; second, payment of allotment benefits on the domestic portion of a crop in return for specific reduction; and third, the use of marketing agreements with processors and handlers in order to raise prices to the producer.

The voluntary feature, so far as the individual producer is concerned, is fundamental to the entire bill, as no one is forced to place his farm under any of the laws provisions. The plan is, however, to make the benefits so attractive that widespread farmer participation will be obtained, according to word from the Washington authorities. In this connection a fund is advanced to the department of agriculture with which to start paying benefits and thus raise the farmer's purchasing power to that extent even before collecting the domestic processing tax which will be used later to finance the benefits to producers.

More details as to how the various provisions will be put into effect this season are expected soon. Latest work is that existing agencies such as the agricultural extension service in each state are to be used to the greatest extent possible to avoid setting up duplicating administrative machinery.

Hillsboro Chamber of Commerce Definitely Plan on Celebration

The officers and directors of the Hillsboro Chamber of Commerce—Lester Ireland president; M. P. Cady, vice-president; L. J. Merrill, treasurer; Ed. L. Moore secretary; H. L. MacKenzie, R. Weil, L. J. Rushlow, directors, have definitely decided to hold the 27th annual "Happy Days" celebration in Shute Park July 1, 2, 3, and 4.

While conditions are not the most favorable they believe it is a civic duty to provide, especially this year, free entertainment for the large crowds that always attend this event. Free entertainment features will be as extensive as in previous years without any admission charge to the Park, and every convenience provided for those who wish to enjoy picnics and reunions.

The big sporting feature of the celebration will be the championship free-for-all go-as-you-please race from Portland to Hillsboro on July Fourth with cash prizes offered to the winners.

The queens ball and coronation ceremonies will be the outstanding social event which will be held on the night of July 3rd. Many of the clubs and organizations of the city and county have pledged their cooperation and support and will nominate candidates for queen.

Shute Park, where the celebrations are held, is in the city limits and with its beautiful shade trees, pure mountain water, and other conveniences, is an ideal place.
