SEVENTH YEAR NO. 13

BEAVERTON, OREGON, FRIDAY, JUNE 16, 1933

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY

PROGRESS BEING MADE IN APPLYING NEW FARM ACT

While nothing definite has yet been announced in the second week in June as to the proposed state organization under the federal farm act, nationally the "machinery" was getting about set up and progress was reported daily in getting the provisions of the act into effect, says the Oregon Extension service in its weekly review.

A summary of the accomplishments to date would include appointment of administrative heads under the act, holding of preliminary conferences dealing with most basic commodities, preliminary work toward formation of scores of marketing agreements as provided in the law, the holding of at least one final hearing on one such agreement, and the rapid application of the farm credit features of the new act.

Here in Oregon producers and distributors of farm products are already taking steps to find out what the opportunities will be under the trade agreements section of the farm act. This section permits producers and distributors to set up definite agreements intended to stabilize any given industry, which agreements may be enforced for the first time by the "big stick" of the licensing power of the federal department of agriculture. Several such groups have been conferring with George O. Gatlin, cooperative marketing specialist at Oregon State college, to determine the best plan of action under the new law.

Large national groups, particularly in the milk production and distribution field, have been moving swiftly in all parts of the country in preparing preliminary agreements for consideration by the secretary of agriculture. The first of these to come to formal hearing stage was that for the Chicago milkshed. Use of this section of the law in the dairy industry and in those enterprises not included under the "basic commodities" section of the law is considered a means of extending real advantages of the new farm policy to all sections of agriculture.

Meanwhile plans for acreage adjustment among the strictly basic commodities are going forward. In order to hurry these up so as to apply to this year's cotton crop, Senator Bankhead has sponsored an amendment to the National Recovery act which would appropriate a fund for taking cotton land out of production yet this season. He believes the resultant rise in cotton prices would more than repay the government through increase in the value of the government cotton holdings.

U. of O. Summer Session Opens Monday in Portland

The Portland summer session of the University of Oregon will be held in the Lincoln high school from June 19 to July 28.

Courses will be offered in anthropology, art, bacteriology, biology, botany, economics, education, English, German health education, history, journalism, mathematics, music, philosophy, physical education, physiology, political science, psychology, public speaking, romance languages and sociology.

Classes will be held in the morning hours between 8 and 12. This year, in order to accommodate Portland residents who may not be able to take a full program, a special fee has been arranged for a single course.

The University has published a bulletin fully describing the summer work offered in Portland. This may be secured at the office of the Portland Center, 814 Oregon building.

Oregon Normal School Celebrates its 50th Year

Oregon Normal School at Monmouth Oregon, is celebrating its 50th year of school work this summer. In 1882 the Christian college—founded at Monmouth in 1861—was taken over by the State of Oregon as a normal school, the first one opened in the state. The first class was graduated in 1883 and the school's sessions have since been continuous except from 1901 to 1911 when the four normal schools then in Oregon were closed because the state legislature cut down appropriations of maintenance.

Don't forget the annual school election Monday, June 19. Taxpayers should get out and vote.

For auto or fire insurance see Leonard Adams at Beaverton.

Grange Members Observe Memorial for Late Brother C. E. Hedge

Beaverton Grange No. 324 met in regular session Saturday June 10 in the Grange Hall with the Master Mrs. P. H. Downing in charge. A memorial was observed for the late Brother C. E. Hedge who was a charter member and past Master of the Beaverton Grange. Lewis Stark was elected as alternate for the State Grange at Pendleton. The Home Economics Committee was asked to take charge of compiling a Grange cook book. Beaverton Grange was awarded the ninth prize of $2.50 for the month of April in the Monthly Sales Slip contest sponsored by the Bulletin. The lecturer Mrs. A. S. Funston was appointed chairman of the Grange Scrapbook. The visiting committee reported visits to Mrs. Elizabeth McGowan and T. B. Denny, both in the Emanuel hospital.

A pot luck luncheon was served at noon. Birthday honors were extended to Mrs. Alice Funston. The auditorium was appropriately decorated for the afternoon program which paid tribute to flowers. "Wayside Blossoms" was sung by the Grange. One of the outstanding numbers of the program was a floral degree conferred on Mrs. Edna Barron as Flora, in which she was crowned by Mary Francis Downing. Other contributions to the ceremony were made by Margaret and Jean Hansen, Wilma Brown and Ver May Wooden. Flowers were presented to members in a line of march by Mrs. Charles Hastings as Pomona, and Mrs. Frank Austin as Ceres. Mrs. James Lewis read a poem "June Garden." Mrs. M. C. McKercher very beautifully presented "The Origin of Flora." Miss Genevieve Carter played a piano solo Narcissus. Mrs. Risely of Oak Grove chairman of the Bill Board Committee of the Portland Garden club spoke briefly on "Wayside Beauty." She said that bill boards are not only unsightly but can cause accidents on the highways by obstructing the view. She recommended beautifying the waysides with trees and flowers. And that the dumpers of refuse along "waysides" be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. A Grange chorus sang "Consider the Lilies." In the flower guessing contest, first prizes were won by Mrs. P. H. Downing; consolation prizes by Lewis Stark and Mrs. John Dobbins.

The roll call "A lesson taught by flowers" was unanimously responded to by beautiful thoughts in prose and poetry. The program closed by the Grange singing "Bud and Bloom." The roll call for July will be "Does it pay to keep house-hold accounts?" Give suggestions. Grangers are urged to save their sales slips for the contest.

Chevrolet Car to be Auctioned here June 27

BURNS FATAL TO INFANT DAUGHTER OF LEO SAMS

Janie Lee Sams, ten months old daughter of Leo Sams, of Portland, died Saturday at Doerenbecker hospital. Funeral services were held Tuesday at the W. E. Pegg chapel in Beaverton.

The infant was critically burned last Friday, when the car in which she was riding, overturned on the Garden Home road, showering the child's body with the scalding water from the radiator of the machine. The mishap is believed to have been caused by the failure of the steering gear to function. The family formerly resided at Beaverton.

Good Results Obtained By Advertising Campaign

Making use primarily of the newspapers, with posters, radio and dealer display advertising tied in, and covering Oregon and Washington, the General Petroleum Corporation's current advertising campaign introducing its new General Four-Star gasoline, is meeting with results that far exceed the most optimistic expectations of officials of the company, according to Ralph G. Bowman, assistant general sales manager.

"This is definite proof that public buying power is latent and will respond to aggressive sales methods," says Mr. Bowman. "The gratifying results obtained is regarded in company circles as definitely proving two things, i. e., the power of newspapers to reach and convince the public, and the return of an optimistic outlook on the future which is loosening the buyer's purse-strings."

There is also another angle to this sales record, which is that much of the apparent lack of buying power during the darkest days of the depression was due largely to the timidity of many commodity producers in refusing to improve their products and going aggressively after sales. There may be more money in circulation right now, but that doesn't alter the apparent fact that if a superior product is given a better sales appeal, and sales are pushed, the public will buy.

Mrs. Omstead Honors Guest with Party Saturday

Relief Applications to be Handled by Each Community

Registration for federal relief work will be conducted in the community areas of the applicant in the future, according to R. W. Well of Hillsboro, chairman of the county relief committee. Investigation committees were appointed last Friday and will register and investigate applications for relief.

No more relief work will be available for the balance of June, due to a 50 per cent slash in the funds available. Well stated. County was receiving $2000 each month for relief but the quota has been cut to $1000 due to the fact that seasonal work will be available during the summer months, according to Mrs. Viola Sundberg, who is in charge of the county registration.

Mrs. Harvey Batchelor has been appointed for the Hillsboro area and will be assisted by Mrs. Elizabeth Todd, juvenile officer, and Mrs. Hazel Foeller, county nurse. Mrs. Todd and Mrs. Foeller will also assist with investigations in all parts of the county.

Other committee chairmen are as follows: Tigard, P. E. Lewis; Sherwood, Dr. Rucker; Beaverton, Francis Livermore; Aloha, Mrs. John Schmid; Gaston, A. M. Porter; Forest Grove, W. C. Schultz; and Banks, H. A. Stohler. No committees have been appointed at Cornelius and Timmer and subcommittees will be named for Tualatin, Garden Home and Metzger.

Registration blanks were forwarded to chairmen Tuesday. Applications will be taken and investigations made by committees appointed by community chairmen.

State Grange Convention Opened Tuesday with Large Delegation Present

Never in the history of the Grange can the older members remember when delegates of the order gathered in such numbers before the convention opened this morning at 10 o'clock. Several hundred arrived Monday and to 3 o'clock the delegates were in session. Miss Claribel Iyke, state leader of home economics work at O. S. C., an interesting program featuring recreational activities in the Granges was presented. Grangers composing the recreational clubs of Clackamas, Columbia, Lane, Josephine, Jackson and Deschutes counties contributed to the program.

Tuesday morning the first of the two conferences of the lecturer of the State Grange, Mrs. Marie Flint McCall, of Salem, took place the hour being directed to an address by Mr. Omar Babcock, superintendent of the Umatilla Indian Reservation. Mrs. John Crow of Pendleton gave the "We Akin Story," and a chorus of Indians singing in their own language added much to the interest of the hour.

In the evening the annual program of the State lecturer took place in the arena of Happy Canyon, and as this even is open to the public, a large audience listened to an address by Paul V. Maris of O. S. C. and music furnished by the Pendland Brothers and the Blue Mt. Wranglers. Surprise features included the riding of bucking horses and other stunts.

Three Granges of Umatilla county, White Eagle, Wild Horse and Fruitvale will compete for the prizes offered every year for the best exhibition drills and Thursday afternoon White Eagle Grange appeared before the convention in a special drill.

Among those attending from Washington County are the following: Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Burkhalter, Hillsboro; Mrs. Josephine Strickler, H. P. Strickler and Mrs. Harry Schmeltzer, Sherwood, and Dr. J. Francis, Tualatin.
