600 Cubic Ft. Water for $2

The natural resources of Oregon belong to her people—today with the Municipal Water System—the citizens of Beaverton are receiving 600 cubic feet water for $2.00—this is a benefit for the people.

Tomorrow, (Friday) the citizens of Beaverton will have an opportunity to vote on adoption of a new Charter that will change the "Town of Beaverton" to the "City of Beaverton"—Will give the people of Beaverton an opportunity to vote on installing a municipal electric light plant some day. Beaverton citizens are entitled to cheaper light and power rates.

Also, the new City Charter provides severe punishment for unlawful appropriation of water from the City Water mains—such as tapping around the meter—recently the Town of Beaverton lost a case in circuit court at Hillsboro because the old charter was defective.

Every good citizen of Beaverton will say that it is wrong to take water by tapping around a meter.

There are several wild cat stories being told lately—but here is a fact—$4000 per year for water is now going into the Town Treasury that formerly went into private pockets—which may account for some of the stories.

The new City Charter if adopted will enable your city officials to render greater service in the future than during the past to the people of Beaverton.

Mayor

The Washington County Pomona Grange will meet closer to home this quarter when it meets with Kinton grange Wednesday July 26. The meetings for a number of times have been more in the west end of the county and due to the distance, a number could not attend. This year a large delegation from Tigard and local granges around should attend the Pomona meeting at Kinton. Although coming at a busy season of the year, there will probably be a good attendance if comparison can be made with the meeting held at Tigard last year at this time of the year. There was standing room only in the auditorium of the Tigard grange.

RACHEL F. WALKER

Rachel F. Walker was born in Pitts county, Mo., July 8, 1848, and died in the well known Walker home near Beaverton, Oregon, July 17, 1933, at the age of 85 years and 9 days. She was the youngest of 11 children of Col. R. M. Coffey. Her mother's maiden name was Mary Bradford, a direct descendant of the Bradford family who came over on the famous Mayflower.

The Coffey's and Walker's were neighbors in Missouri and the Rachel was only 4 years old at the time, she could remember distinctly the exciting interest which prevailed when the Walker family, with several others, began their long journey to the Oregon country.

Mrs. Walker was brought up under Christian influence which remained effective all through her life. In 1871 young Robert H. Walker came to visit the place where he spent his early boyhood days and there met Rachel Coffey who became his bride May 24 of the same year. Soon after the wedding she came with him to the Old Meadows homestead in Oregon, where she spent all the rest of her useful and active life.

Five children were born to these sturdy pioneers, but only one survived her mother, Archy, the oldest, son, died in 1917, Mary passed away in 1905, and Robert died in infancy. Mr. Walker met with a fatal accident February 1916, and William was called to the home above after many long years of illness in March 1930. Thus Mother Walker passed through much sorrow and heartaches in her eventful life.

Though naturally of a very robust constitution, energetic and industrious, illness became frequent in her declining years. During the last seven months she had to remain in her bed often suffering severely, but with patience and with more concern for others than for herself. All that medical skill, a trained nurse and the love of a devoted daughter, Laura, and Laura's husband, Sam Olds, could do was gladly done to make the dear mother comfortable. Her grateful acknowledgment was apparent continuously.

With loving words of farewell she passed away in peace, being survived by her daughter and son-in-law, four grandchildren, her twin brother, H. B. Coffey, with his family and many other relatives.

Besides these a very large number of friends remain, whom she had won by her cheerful and loving character and her unselfishly helpful way of living.

Recently Mother Walker, with the loved ones in her home, united with the Tualatin Plains Presbyterian church, of which the Rev. Carrick, an old friend of the family is the honored and esteemed pastor.

Grandchildren surviving are: Robert H. Solomon, C. of Rickreal, Mary Louise, Mrs. H. A. Steforth, of Salem, Jack A. of Dundee, Mr. Coffey's daughter Mrs. LaVerne Stohers and his son Ashbury, of Portland, cousins in Tennessee and Alabama.

THESE RULES AFFECT THE DAIRY INDUSTRY

Under Provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act

At the National Dairy conference week held in Washington during the closing week of June, preliminary to putting into effect the provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, so far as it relates to the dairy industry, the following recommendations were made to the Department of Agriculture by the Committee on Dairy Production:—

1. We insist that whenever land is leased by the Department to take wheat, cotton, or corn lands out of production there must be definite contract requirements, that none of this land can be used for any purpose whatsoever that will bring additional food or farm crops upon the market. The use of leased land should be limited to protecting it against erosion or general deterioration.

2. We recommend that the full power of the act be used to check the importation of vegetable and marine oils and fats. Last year approximately 1,800,000,000 pounds of such products were imported to this country, displacing dairy and animal fats and vegetable oils.

3. We recommend that substitutes and imitations of dairy products be contracted or restricted to the full extent permissible under the act.

4. The American market must be preserved for the American dairy producer. It is grossly unfair and economically unsound to restrict American acreage and production and at the same time permit the importation of dairy products or substitutes for such products.

5. The matter of general acreage control is under careful consideration by the entire committee and a later report may be submitted on the subject.

The committee, which was headed by Louis J. Taber, of Columbus, Ohio, master of the National Grange, observed that the United States now produces more than 99 per cent of dairy products consumed in this country. It was emphasized, therefore, that any changes in the production or consumption of dairy products might easily throw the whole industry out of balance.

It has only been through keeping production within the bounds of domestic consumption that the dairy farmer has been enabled to secure any benefit from the tariff. Should production exceed consumption, this advantage would immediately be lost, while the prices for dairy products would immediately fall to the world level.

ECW MEN TO FIGHT THE FOREST FIRES

With approximately 23,000 men in the president's emergency conservation work camps in Oregon and Washington, it will not be necessary to hire outside help for forest fire fighting this summer, according to F. H. Brundage, assistant regional forester in charge of fire control. This is in line with the present economy methods of the government, it is said.

Each of the 200-man camps is being organized on the basis of a fire suppression unit. The entire crew in each camp is being given training in fire line construction and in the handling of the usual fire fighting tools. Many of the local woodsmen quota already have forest fire fighting experience, but to the eastern youths the work is largely a new experience.

"It is my belief that any fires we may happen to have this summer will be exceptionally well handled," said the fire control chief. "With the cooperation of the army officers, the experience and ability of our forestry overhead and woodsmen quota, and the willingness of the enrolled men, we should be able to write a gratifying record for the 1933 forest fire season. Of course it should be remembered that every time these men have to fight fire they are being taken from more constructive work. It is to be hoped that the forest-using public will cooperate in preventing fires, so that the ECW men can build trails and make other forest improvements instead of having to fight unnecessary man-caused fires, which only destroy resources and do no one any good."
