

MANY EVENTS PLANNED FOR U O MOTHER'S DAY

Euyene, Ore., May 4—Mothers of University of Oregon students, and the students themselves, will join forces on the campus May 11, 12 and 13, for what is expected to be the most outstanding combined Junior Week-end the Mothers Day in the history of the institution.

Since this is the 75th anniversary of Oregon's statehood, the "Diamond Jubilee" theme has been chosen for the entire week-end, and events will honor early Oregon Pioneers. The canoe fete this year for the first time will have a central theme, and each float will depict some pioneer phase of Oregon, or some stage of progress of the state.

The university campus will be an ideal place for a pioneer celebration, since the statue of the Pioneer, donated several years ago by Joseph N. Teal, and the Pioneer Mother, the gift of Burt Brown Barker, university vice-president, are both located in attractive spots. Part of the exercises will take place around the Pioneer Mother.

The week-end events will start Friday, with campus day.

NATION'S ATTENTION CALLED TO PROBLEM OF CHILD'S HEALTH

Authorities on child health have shown that malnutrition has been on the increase among the children of America in the last few years. What this will mean to the health of the next generation of adults can only be conjectured, but there is evidence that it will suffer seriously.

As a step toward improving this condition President Roosevelt, by proclamation, established May 1 as "Child Health Day" and the month of May has been designated Child Health Month. It will be observed by health organizations, parents organizations, school groups and in some cases by municipal governments as a time in which to call attention to the fundamentals of child health.

This paper has arranged, during the month of May, to print a series of articles on child health, written by one of the most distinguished health officials in America today, Dr. John L. Rice, the new Health Commissioner of New York City. Dr. Rice, recently appointed in New York was formerly health commissioner of New Haven, Conn., where he served for more than ten years with such credit as to gain him national recognition.

Previously he had been a district health officer in New York State, and earlier still health officer of Mason County, Kentucky.

Dr. Rice's articles on child health provide the most up-to-date information available on this important subject. Watch for them.

BEAVERTON HIGH SCHOOL

"The Colonel's Maid" a three-act comedy will be presented tonight (Friday) by members of the senior class in the Beaverton High School gymnasium. Miss Schaefer directed the play. The cast includes Annabelle Benson, Mildred Fennell, Evelyn Day, Paul Wilson, Clarence Henderson, Marvin Stalder, Douglas and Kenneth Taylor, and Ben Scruggs. The leading roles are played by Mildred Fennell and Clarence Henderson. Admission prices are adults 25c and grade school 15c.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

A Portland suburban newspaper is offering its services to politicians free of charge, so claims the following article clipped from the Peninsula Herald:

"The Herald has received at least three tons of campaign literature and type written statements from candidates. All expect the front page and the use of columns of space free. Naturally there is no cost in publishing the Herald and there is no other news that should claim preference. Each candidate feels that he is entitled to just a little more consideration than the other fellow so our printers have decided to work for nothing. The landlord will not expect rent, the power company will add more juice to our line, the pulp company will supply newsprint free. Candidates can continue to send in tons of literature and platforms to the editor and same will receive very careful attention. We want every candidate to understand most thoroughly that it costs nothing to publish and circulate 8000 or more papers weekly and incidentally like Rufus Holman, our platform is a full dinner pail for the politicians. Editors can eat type or campaign statements—Peninsula Herald.

Hauling of all Kinds of GARBAGE AND RUBBISH In Beaverton Wed. and Saturdays Leave orders at Recorders office or call GA. 1243 or GA. 7085

Last Saturday hike may be considered quite successful. The rain was not a worry. The troop's Indian tribe had a pow-wow and at the public council following, Bill Siddens was made a member of the tribe under the title meaning "trustworthy scout." Pins were given the original four members.

The first session of the botany nature course was covered at the cabin on this hike. Those who attended the overnight jaunt were Jack Reeves, Orin Zimmerman, Frank McGuire, Gene Brown, Bill Siddens, James Miller and Leslie Walker.

Patrol corners and scout test work will be stressed at tonight's meeting. Certificates will be given to the new scouts—Kenneth Trafton and Orin Zimmerman.

Many may be interested in learning that the troop rating under the Portland Council plan has not been below 75% in any of the last twenty-eight months. The March rating was 91% Leslie Walker, Asst. S. M.

"I'M NO ANGEL" AT RITZ

Mae West in a new Paramount picture "I'm No Angel" booked at the Ritz Theatre for three days, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday

Miss West soared to the greatest heights of popularity any screen actress ever has attained, revolutionized feminine styles as the result of her last film "She Done Him Wrong" The imagination fails in an attempt to figure what her latest picture will accomplish.

For it is superior to her first starring film in every respect—story, star performance, excellence of production wisecracks and songs.

Miss West gives a splendid performance—she portrays a colorful character.

She sings five sensational songs, dances the "midway"—a spectacular variation of that same shimmy which we are told, she herself originated; wears lovely clothes, and she scintillated diplomas for the completion room scene.

KINTON CALF CLUB MEETS

The Kinton Calf club met April 27 at the home of the Hemerick brothers. Mr. Bellinger, assistant county agent, was present and informed the club of the sheep judging contest to be held the following Saturday on the Groner place, urging all members to be present.

General discussion took place regarding the basket social and dance to be held May 11.

Several members expressed their desire to form a poultry club, and plans were made for a meeting at the Anicker home, Friday, May 4, together with the calf club members, at which time they will rehearse the program to be put on.

Four new members taken into the calf club were Woodrow Anicker, Robert Richards, Dean and Tom Browne, the latter the battery of the club's baseball team.

The ball team will play a double header at Elmonica next Sunday commencing at 12 o'clock.

WM. F. CYRUS County Agent

Fall sown wheat in Washington County has been rather hard hit by rust and Hessian fly. Some of the fields, where there is very little Hessian fly damage, show some little indication the past week that they may produce something of a crop. Where there is very much Hessian fly the probabilities are the crop will be very short. Some growers have already disked or plowed up fields of wheat and more may be turned under yet. Rust is always more serious following a mild winter than when we have a little cold weather.

Those farmers having wheat contracts should notify some member of the allotment committee or the county agent office before plowing or disking part of their wheat seeding. Where it is evident the seedlings will not make a crop, it may be worked up and something else put on the ground without violating the contract, providing that some member of the allotment committee inspects the wheat planting before being plowed up, as it is necessary for the allotment committee to make an affidavit to the effect that the contract signer seeded at least his minimum acreage. Where it is desired to do this they should contact either the allotment committee or the county agent office immediately and inspection of the crop will be made at once.

Strawberry growers of this county should be interested in the berry field day at the Oregon Experimental Station, Corvallis, Wednesday, May 9. On that day it is expected that the work at the station will be inspected by a large number of strawberry growers from western Oregon. The U. S. Department of Agriculture has been carrying on strawberry breeding work at Corvallis and there will be fruiting on May 9, some 5,000 new strawberry seedlings as well as 200 selected seedlings from former years. The influence of irrigation on commercial varieties of strawberries, Loganberries and Evergreen blackberries, will also be inspected. Pruning and training experiments in raspberries and Youngberries and breeding work in brambles and other small fruit, may also be seen.

Growers from here who intend to should plan on arriving at Corvallis probably at about 10 a. m., at least not later than noon.
