Communitic Agitators

Recent activities by Portland agitators with communitic tendencies are causing great injury to the citizens of Eastern Washington county and especially those of Tigard, because organizations using the name of Tigard, but representing mostly individuals from all parts of Washington county are making radical demands upon the County Relief Committee.

It is time that citizens of the community interested in the administration of relief, investigate and determine who are causing the name of Tigard to be used in such a way to bring discredit upon the entire district.

If relief is not being given to citizens who are justly entitled to it, this paper is prepared to use its power and influence to see that they receive their share of relief. However it would appear just as important that citizens organize to see that agitators who do not belong in the community be returned to the district from whence they came. Or better, that the County Court at Hillsboro, take action and deny relief of any sort to members of communitic organizations or persons engaged in any activity contrary to the American form of government

Britt Nedry

E. Britt Nedry, prominent educator of Tigard, has again brought credit to the county in being elected as Chairman of the Oregon Republican clubs. Mr. Nedry's leadership in Tigard has long been recognized as one of the more progressive in the district and his selection by the Republicans of Oregon to head that organization supports the general public estimate of his leadership in his home town.

Many differ with Nedry locally which is always the case of those who might be termed progressive. He has made a success of his administration as head of the Tigard Grade School and we know that he will be just as successful in his new undertaking and will bring honor to Tigard.

Genius is Right

The American Indians, according to Prof. Berry, of the University of Missouri, were "the greatest agricultural geniuses in all history." That statement will require a great deal of proof and clarification. Are not our modern white farmers, with their irrigation, their fertilization, their adaptation of crops to the soil, and so on, more proficient at their job than those under-privileged savages?

Undoubtedly, yes. In those respects our white men are the best farmers ever known. It must have been in the matter of labor saving that the Red Men were superior. They knew a thing or two about that. White men have machinery, of which they are justifiably proud, but machinery, we admit, does only a part of the farm work that must be done. The Red Men, not so easily satisfied with imperfection, had women who did all of it.

The Shifting of the Hemispheres

In a recent address, James S. Carson, chairman of the Council on Inter-American Relations, said: "The West is to play a new role on the world stage. The great war caused a shifting of the hemispheres. The New will supplant the Old in a leadership which will usher in a different concept in international relations and commercial exchanges. The actual war did not end with the signing of the Armistice, but we believe its termination is dimly visible today. Inter-Americanism will finally point the way to stop the ruthless economic struggle which has been designated 'The War After the War.' If this be true, the long labor pains caused by the birth of this new epoch will not have been suffered in vain."

It seems an axiom that intense nationalism, as pursued by many of the great European powers today, is productive of nothing save chaos—and there is good reason to believe that the peoples of the world will at last turn for relief to an enlightened nationalism such as concerns Mr. Carson. The rigors of military war are not greater than those of economic war.

Friendliness and cooperation between nations is vital to world stability, world progress, world welfare.

The type of dwelling on show in Germany has no windows, thus utterly thwarting the housewife who flutters hither and yon when it rains.

COMMENT

THOMAS D. SCHALL, United States Senator, Minnesota: So acute is the censorship of the press becoming in Washington that even the telegraphic news services fear to send out the facts concerning it in which every newspaper is interested. This being the case, the only way the public can be informed from newspapers on what is taking place is through data sent out by their special correspondents. Perhaps, even these correspondents will be frightened into not exposing the moves toward censorship in the end and the public will be left without any method of learning the facts as they exist there.—American Press.

HASLETT P. BURKE, associate justice, Supreme Court of Colorado: Democracy has been destroyed in Russia, Italy, Germany and Austria. Antagonistic forces are now invading England and other countries. This constitutes America's greatest menace today. It behooves all patriotic citizens of this nation to see to it that the thing which has triumphed in those other countries should get no foothold here. We must guard carefully and be prepared to thrust back any movement that would throttle our press and threaten the freedom of speech.—American Press.

Irrigation Tour Schedule Announced by O. S. C. Man

Methods of irrigation as now being practiced in six western Oregon counties will be observed on the fifth annual Willamette Valley Irrigation tour, August 7 and 8. Details of the two days itinerary have now been announced by Art King, extension specialist in soils, who will be in charge of the touring party.

The tour has been arranged so that farmers along the route of travel or from other parts of the state may join at any point and leave at any time to suit their own convenience or they may make the entire two-day trip.

Tuesdays tour will start at the Ed Freudenthal farm one mile from Hillsboro at 9 o'clock with lunch at the Thornburgh farm. On Wednesday the tour will commence from college east farm, two miles east of Willamette river bridge, Corvallis, at 8:30 o'clock.

Farm Extension Pioneer Honored with Memorial

The man generally credited with being the father of agricultural extension work, Dr. Seaman A. Knapp, has been given special recognition through a memorial passed by Congress at the recent session. This is said to be the first time that Congress has accorded such recognition in the field of agriculture.

A joint resolution passed, authorizing Epsilon Sigma Phi, the national honorary extension fraternity, to place two tablets in two arches of the department of agriculture building, designating one as Knapp Memorial Arch, and the other Wilson Memorial Arch in honor of James Wilson, for 16 years secretary of agriculture. The chapter of Epsilon Sigma Phi at Oregon State college will share in the contribution.

STANDING UP TO LIFE

MARGARET DIXON R. N. County Health Nurse

"Standing up to Life" is daily becoming more difficult because of doubts, uncertainties; and changing social and economic standards.

Confidence and self respect are held to be necessary to National Recovery yet everywhere about us are those who slouch and declare to the world by their stooped shoulders that for them the battle with life has spelled defeat.

A comparison has been made between a case of a watch that is bent and a body that is crooked. The indented case may interfere with the adjustment of the watch and likewise a distorted posture may hamper any of the delicate organs of the human body.

Good sitting and standing positions promote health and a sense of well-being; allow for the free expansion of the lungs; increase the circulation of the blood and result in what might be called a finer alignment of the body. These are but a few of the benefits to be derived from excellent posture.

Unguided will-power alone is not sufficient to achieve the desired result but causes must be found for each drooping shoulder and this cause removed.

Seven causes of wrong posture have been listed by the Metropolitan Insurance company and an effort should be made to deal with each person according to individual cause.

1. Malnutrition and getting overtired.
2. Carelessness.
3. Holding one position for too long.
4. A wrong mental attitude (lack of self-confidence and self-respect).
5. Misfitting garments, which continuously push or pull the body out of its right position.
6. Bad eyesight. A near sighted person usually pushes his head forward to see more easily.
7. Foot arch trouble.

No newspaper can continue to exist solely as an advertising medium. Its very interest to the people at large is the only characteristic which makes it valuable to the advertiser, and that interest will remain only so long as the newspaper is honest with itself and with the people whom it serves.—Iron River (Mich.) Reporter.

Constitution of the United States

March 4, 1789 and Amendments

THE AMERICAN'S CREED

I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign nation of many sovereign states; a perfect union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes.
 I, therefore, believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag and to defend it against all enemies

Preamble. We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this constitution for the United States of America.

ARTICLE 1

* 1. Legislative Power. All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a congress of the United States, which shall consist of a senate and house of representatives.

* 2. House of Representatives. How Constituted—Power of Impeachment. The house of representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several states, and the electors of each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislature.

No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years, and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state in which he shall be chosen.

Representation and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states which may be included within this union, according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons. The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand; but each state shall have at least one representative, and until such enumeration shall be made, the state of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose three, Massachusetts eight, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations one, Connecticut five, New York six, New Jersey four, Pennsylvania eight, Delaware, one, Maryland six, Virginia ten, North Carolina five, South Carolina five, and Georgia three.

When vacancies happen in the representation from any state, the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies. The house of representatives shall choose their speaker and other officers, and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

NOTE—For modification of the basis of representation, see fourteenth amendment, section 2, and for taxes on incomes without apportionments, see sixteenth amendment.

* 3. Senate, How Constituted—Trial of Impeachment Cases. The senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each state chosen by the legislature thereof, for six years; and each senator shall have one vote.

(This provision has been changed by the seventeenth amendment to the constitution.)

Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year, of the second class at the expiration of the fourth year and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year; and if vacancies happen by resignation, or otherwise, during the recess of the legislature of any state, the executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies.

(This provision has been changed by the seventeenth amendment to the constitution.)

No person shall be senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state for which he shall be chosen.

The vice president of the United States shall be president of the senate, but shall have no vote, unless they be equally divided.

The senate shall choose their other officers, and also a president pro tempore, in the absence of the vice president, or when he shall exercise the office of president of the United States.

The senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose, they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the president of the United States is tried, the chief justice shall preside; and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

Judgement in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from office and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgement, and punishment, according to law.

* 4. Election of Senators and Representatives—Sessions of Congress. The times, places and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives shall be prescribed in each state by the legislature thereof; but the congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except cept as to the places of choosing senators.

The congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

(To be Continued Next Week)

BACON ALREADY HOME

The paterfamilias explains daily to his small son that he has to go downtown to work "to bring home the bacon."

The other evening some friends called and invited the family to go on a motor trip the following day. The parent said he couldn't go. He'd have to go to work. At that the son dashed out of the room and came back in a moment to shout delightedly:

"It's all right, daddy, you can go with us. I just looked in the ice box and there's plenty of bacon there!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Taking No Chances

Mummy was listening to little Dennis saying his prayers, while grannie sat knitting.

Toward the end of his prayers mummy was surprised to hear her little son raise his voice and positively roar:

"And, please, can I have a motor car for my birthday?"

"But, darling," she protested, "God isn't deaf!"

"No," answered the little chap seriously, "but grannie is!"
