

Here Comes the Navy Ritz Theatre, Sunday

"Here Comes the Navy," Warner Bros.' smashing drama of Uncle Sam's jack-tars afloat, ashore and in the air opens at the Ritz Theatre at Beaverton on Sunday with James Cagney and Pat O'Brien in co-starring roles.

Based on Ben Markson's exciting story which combines romance rollicking comedy, rapid fire action and breath-taking thrills the picture is said to be one of the most tremendous productions ever put out by Warner Bros.

Cagney and O'Brien, two seamen, are bitterest of enemies Jimmy having joined the navy just for a chance to get even with O'Brien who has knocked him cold in a fistie encounter and stolen his girl, a part played by Dorothy Tree.

For the first time in pictures, the whole gigantic Pacific fleet is seen, weighing anchor and steaming out of its harbor for the Atlantic Coast.

Many of the thrills take place aboard the Arizona where the Warner Bros. company of players spent three weeks taking scenes. In one of these, Jimmy saves his gun crew, including his hated enemy, from sure death in a flaming gun turret by rolling his half naked body over a burning powder trail which has almost reached a bag of explosives.

Another hair raising incident occurs at the navy dirigible base at Sunnyvale, Calif., where the company took scenes with the U. S. S. Dirigible Macon. Here three men are carried aloft clinging to ground wires when the giant gas bag ascends after finding the wind too strong to effect a landing. Two plunge to their death while the third, almost exhausted, holds on in desperation.

Jimmy who has been transferred to the dirigible, again comes to the rescue sliding down the ground wire with a parachute strapped to his back, only to find the man is his deadly enemy. Nevertheless he ropes the sailor to himself and plunges to the ground in the parachute.

Other stirring events take place with the company on location at the

COUGHT TO KNOW

Little Maryellen lives near a college campus and she spends much time watching the college students.

"Mother, what are those girls doing?" she asked one day when she noticed a class of nature study students catching butterflies.

The mother was busy and instead of answering in a way that would satisfy the child's curiosity, she replied: "I don't know."

"Well," said the four-year-old severely, "you should know; you went to college."—Indianapolis News.

Western Nut Growers Hold Annual Meeting

More than 200 growers from western Oregon and Washington attended the annual winter meeting of the Western Nut Growers' association held in Portland December 7 and 8. Discussions of the walnut code, control of walnut blight and moisture and irrigation for nuts occupied prominent places on a program filled with topics of interest to nut growers.

Another feature of the meeting was a fine display of nuts. First place winners in the various classes were as follows: Best collection of walnuts, Ross Rogers, Dayton; best Meylan walnut, Ross Rogers; best Fraquette walnut C. E. Moyer, Roseburg; best Mayette walnut H. B. Harlan Corvallis; best new seedling filbert, C. T. Brixey, Gervais; best new seedling, A. E. Scherf, Newberg. Best collection of filberts, C. T. Brixey; best Du Chilly, best Eorecoma and best Brixnut W. A. Schmidt, Corvallis.
