JOE MILLER, WHOSE JOKE ARE SO FAMOUS NEVER TOLD ONE

State House Gossip

BY ERNEST L. GRAY

ticularly to legislative names and official appointments. The book will be out about September.

Oregon has 68 boards, commissions, and appointive state officers, exclusive of the state's institutions, elective officials, and state aided institutions. All these must be brought up to date, ranging from the veterinary examining board to the public utilities, commissioner. Many changes have already been made and more may be made by the present regime.

Many privately owned and operated charitable and relief institutions, such as homes for wayward girls, foundling homes, baby homes and others, receive financial aid from the state. There are 12 of these institutions, in addition to four state-aided societies. The branches of the state government are far reaching.

Briefs at the state capitol: During this year every person in Oregon must pay an average of $2.50 in taxes for the care of aged, poor and infirm persons. Work of standardizing state salaries and wages has been started by the budget department and when outlined will go into effect at once. . . . An inventory of every item of movable property owned by the state is now being made and for the first time in the history of the state a permanent inventory will be available. . . . The state highway commission will meet in Portland Thursday, April 11. . . . The new chairman, Henry P. Cabell, declared there would be no immediate changes in the highway department if any at all. . . . Outside of Portland the 18th anniversary of America's entrance in the World War was not observed April 6. . . . We are reminded the day Americans declared war in 1917, it was on Good Friday.

Consistent advertising is the manufacturer's and retailer's pledge of quality. It is visible proof that he has faith enough in his products to back it with his name—and with his money.

Lowey & Co. in Business

Twenty-two Years

Lowey & Co. has enjoyed 22 years of successful business at 4th and Washington. The manager Mr. Davis believes that one of the outstanding reasons for Lowey & Co.'s success has been the high type of salesmen the firm has always employed. J. P. Hamilton, display man, has been with Lowey & Co. for eight years, and M. V. Norman for seven years. Both of these men have made the men's furnishing business their life work, having started in this line with their very first job and this is the only work they have ever done with the exception of Mr. Hamilton's Army service during the war. L. M. Clarkson is another salesman who has been with the firm for a number of years. Service and quality have been the keystone of Lowey & Co.'s policy. Mr. Davis believes that most any business can succeed which will adhere rigidly to this plan.

Lowey & Co. have always been staunch supporters of Oregon Products and carry a line that can be recommended to any man.
