Father's Day

Sunday, June 16, is Father's Day. Sometimes we don't realize—until it is too late—but the best pal you or I had was that good father of mine. Let us resolve to treat him a little better—make his old heart just a little happier in the coming year. He will be with you only a short time. So long as this nation loves the old folks at home—America is safe.

Older Men Have Chance

Industrialists who have refused to hire men past 40 years of age may have to back up on their set of rules. In one industrial center employers advertised for experienced punch and drill operators between the ages of 21 and 25. There were none to be had. Those young men aged with the depression and, of course, are past that age now. The reassuring fact in the situation is that at last the older men will get a chance. Many industries are hiring men of 50 and over.

Railroad Crossings

The vision of streamlined trains rounding the curves at 90 miles an hour, inaugurating a new era in railroading, focuses attention on the possibilities of providing employment and stimulating industries by elimination of grade crossings. In the next few years, it is generally agreed, the government will have to spend many billions of dollars on public works to provide jobs. Surely, part of this money can be spent advantageously to reduce travel hazards and facilitate transport. At more than a quarter million grade crossings in the country, Stop, Look and Listen—signs impede the flow of rail and motor traffic.

Who Are Your Friends

Often we hear people say that they have—hundreds of friends—but if they have they are indeed the luckiest of individuals. For if they begin to think a bit it might amaze them to realize that the very people they would truly count as friends in the true sense of the word might be counted on the fingers of one hand. Some people confound friends with acquaintances, forgetting that true, real friendship is a lovely and rare thing. Friends are truly the golden gifts of life, and perhaps the following definition of a friend might be a good summary:

- The sunshine of calamity.
- The essence of pure devotion.
- The ripe fruit of acquaintanceship.
- One who understands our silence.
- A star of hope in the cloud of adversity.
- The jewel which shines the brightest in the darkness.
- The link in life's chain which bears the greatest strain.
- The first person who comes in when the whole world has gone out.
- One who loves the truth and you, and will tell you the truth in spite of you.
- We should keep our friendship in constant repair, and certainly if one wants a friend one must be one.

Best Phases of NRA Go On

It was long rumored that lawyers close to the Administration—as well as those associated with industrial and business organizations—felt the NRA was partly unconstitutional. It was likewise believed that an NRA Supreme Court test case would result in a split decision—probably 5 to 4—as in the railroad pension and gold seizure cases. NRA friends were certain that the liberal justices—Hughes, Cardozo, Brandeis and Stone—would uphold the law. They were almost equally certain that the conservatives—McReynolds, Butler, Vandevanter and Sutherland—would vote against it. Their principal worry was what side Justice Roberts would take. As a result, when the Supreme Court, by an unanimous decision, threw out the NRA in entirety, the Administration was staggered. Thus, the upshot of the Supreme Court's decision is likely to result in the best phases of the NRA idea being continued voluntarily—while its worst phases, compulsion, price boosting and overriding of constitutional rights, will be dropped. It is obvious that a lessening of bureaucratic control over business, which NRA immeasurably increased, will stimulate private initiative. It is equally obvious that the psychological effect of the decision—which said, by intimation: 'State's rights still exist, and the Federal power does not include dictatorship over private endeavors not within interstate commerce'—will be a spur to industrial expansion. And those who gravely feared that the decision would cause an immediate drop in the workers' income are wrong.

Congress gives the bonus a—vote—and the President gives it a—veto. Just a matter of arranging the vowels.

We have been wondering what article will be the headliner for sale on the radio after cold preventatives and cures are not needed.

If the farmers want to go up to Alaska, it's all right, but can't we find some way to ship the politicians up there?

A Princeton professor says the cost of living will be practically doubled within the next two years. Wow! Then it'll be as high as taxes won't it?

A man was granted a divorce in a Chicago court just exactly two minutes after he entered the courtroom. When a man can get a divorce that quick, there is little excuse for not getting married.

Why don't some original genius arise and suggest that the national debt be paid by means of a chain letter?

Some of these days a great disaster will overcome the United States if these political leeches aren't pried loose from the treasury feed trough.—R. H. Frichard, president N. E. A.

One question must be squarely faced now: Does Congress and the Administration intend to accept in full faith the interpretations of the Constitution made by the court for that purpose, or will devious new methods be sought to circumvent Constitutional limitations?

One statistician has figured that Postmaster General Farley claiming to represent 22,000,000 Democrats, the Republican National Chairman 16,000,000 Republicans, Dr. Townsend 25,000,000 seekers for Utopia overnight, Coughlin 16,000,000 believers in fairies, Senator Long 10,000,000—joiners, etc., that the total list of those who represent groups comes to over 300,000,000 about ten times our electorate.

Non Licensed Insurance Concern Invades Oregon

Salem, Ore., June 14—(Special)—Representatives of the Pacific International Health Association of San Francisco, are reported to be actively soliciting business in Oregon, according to the office of Hugh H. Earle, Insurance Commissioner. The Pacific International Health Association is not licensed to do an insurance business in this state and any personal solicitation is unlawful. Commissioner Earle states that a warrant has been sworn out for the arrest of one representative, and any one having information which will lead to the apprehension of others should contact the state police or insurance commissioner.

JUNIOR BAND APPEARING AT CONVENTION

The Washington State Elk convention at Walla Walla Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week is having some of the finest band music in the Northwest as provided by the Portland Junior Elk band shown here. Thirty six strong, the group is heading all parades and providing other musical entertainment for the conclave, under the direction of George Ledoer. (Inset) Julian Dryer 5 feet 2 inches tall weighing 105 pounds and Eberle Schultz, 6 ft 4 inches tall weighing 205 pounds, both 17 years of age and trumpeters, the shortest and tallest boys in the band. Transportation for the group from Portland to Walla Walla and return was provided by the General Petroleum corporation, according to Cecil Barnes, local General manager.

Foreign Service Vacancies to be Filled in Army

The United States Army Recruiting Office in Portland is adding impetus to the recruiting campaign now in progress in order to fill all its foreign service vacancies before the end of the fiscal year now rapidly drawing to a close, according to a statement by Major H. D. Bagnall, the Army Recruiting Officer in Portland. In view of the limited time remaining no reservations are being made in these vacancies, and interested young men should contact their nearest army recruiting office while there still remains time.

U. O. Commencement Events Planned

Commencement exercises for the fifty eighth graduating class of the University of Oregon will be held June 15, 16, and 17, with Oswald Garrison Villard, noted liberal editor and son of one of the university's early benefactors scheduled to deliver the address to the departing graduates and their relatives and friends. Degrees will be granted to approximately 500. These will include more than 400 bachelor or arts or sciences, and about 50 doctor of medicine degrees for graduates of the university medical school in Portland. A number of certificates and other awards will also be announced at the commencement exercises.

Washington Snapshots by JAMES PRESTON

The decision of the Supreme Court throwing out the N. I. R. A. and redefining Constitutional limitations has taken rank as probably the most notable opinion delivered since the Civil War. But one of the points generally overlooked is the dramatic qualities of the decision.

For two years the new Deal has gone forward with new statutes. Outstanding legal authorities who warned that they were unconstitutional were brushed aside as Tories. Court tests were avoided by Administration attorneys. For two glittering years everything went smoothly but then came the present session of Congress with its new deluge of laws. Once more attempts were made to get the new statutes through before the Supreme Court could act, but the Democratic majority itself began to think towards the Constitution.

The stage was set as though by design for the Court's action. A terrific drive was in progress to get an extension of N. I. R. A. Proponents of the Wagner Labor Disputes Bill to substitute Washington authority for local authority in employment relations was being raced toward enactment. The same was true of the AAA amendments to give the secretary of Agriculture unlimited authority over handlers of agricultural products. In fact, the week of May 27 was to be the week of the big legislative drive. Then, like a scholarly professor breaking up the pranks of a schoolboy classroom, the Supreme Court stepped in at the dramatic moment and said—Read your Constitution.

One was suggested that the next step for the Administration is a school for New Deal lawyers, with the Constitution as required reading. Through newspaper circles passed the laughing jest—Well, the revolution is over.
