Good Citizenship

You can tell pretty well how good a citizen is by the way he drives. Does he obey the traffic laws? Does he observe the rules of courtesy on the road, taking no unfair or dangerous advantage, yielding to the rights of other drivers and pedestrians, and trying to make it easier and safer for them, instead of harder or more dangerous, when he sees that they are in a tight place.

If anyone plunges ahead regardless of everyone else, honking to order the world out of his way and chiseling at crossings and sneaking every mean advantage to get ahead, then, no matter what his manners may be in his own home or a friend's home, he is neither a gentleman nor a good citizen.

It is strange how sitting behind the wheel of a powerful motor car seems to take both the sense and decency out of so many people of both sexes.

What might be called drivers' degeneration is seen at its worst in the case of the motorist who runs away when he damages another car, or hurts a pedestrian.

This moral falling comes to involve spectators, too. It is more and more common to see the witnesses of a motor accident hurry from the scene, lest they be asked to testify in court. Good citizenship demands all-around co-operation in such matters.

"Little America"

These pioneers in the Matanuska Valley, Alaska, have assembled as did the early settlers of Virginia and Massachusetts, to set up an informal government and make laws for themselves. Their first legislation will represent interests for folks back home.

Their first piece of legislation concerned garbage. They set up a garbage disposal plant committee for every camp. Next law ordered pestering the horses tied out by the hay, and to tie up the dogs except when out for exercise. After that, they took up the milk shortage, agreeing to divide the milk equally among the camps so as to provide for all children, until more cows arrive.

They meet once a week for further business, taking up every new problem as it becomes urgent.

This is the latest "Little America," more real than the one we had temporarily in the Antarctic. These Americans will get along!

There was real cause for celebration in the colony July 11 when the first native daughter arrived. The child was born to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Van Worman, from Michigan. The tiny girl will grow up with the distinction of being the first child born in this colony.

Processing Tax

Speaking of the processing taxes, it is fortunate for the AAA and the benefitting farmers that payment of crop benefits to the farmer is not directly dependent upon the payment of the taxes by the crop processors. Thus, while the Buffalo flour millers are going into court and getting injunctions preventing the federal government from collecting the processing taxes on their flour, the AAA nevertheless can dip into treasury funds and continue to pay the crop benefits to the farmers pending final court decisions on the temporary injunctions granted the millers.

The Bill is Coming Due

Have you ever noticed how easy it is to establish a charge or term-payment account in a department store? But no matter how easily the credit is obtained, or how small the payments, they come due regularly and if not paid—well, the law just takes its course and the debtor suffers.

The people of the United States are just now waking up to the fact that they have been on a gigantic spending spree. Never did they use their public credit so freely. By the day of reckoning is here. The charge accounts are coming due and the payments will have to be made.

Just as the unwary customer is talked into spending more than he can afford by the super-selling ability of the expert clerk, so have an unwary people been talked in to spending more than they can well afford to pay by the silver tongues of the politicians.

In the latter case, however, the people thought they were going to be given something for nothing—that the billions of dollars handed out in the name of "relief" and "recovery" would be taken from somebody else's pocket.

But the dream is ended. The tax-gatherer's hand is going right down into John Jones' pocket to take out the money to pay the charge account, for the "gifts" to Jones.

A new tax-raising bill has been thrown into the lap of Congress, that will have a tremendous effect on the earnings, the savings and the estate of every citizen. For camouflage and publicity purposes, it is designated as "share the wealth" or "soak the rich" tax program. The Portland Oregonian says:

"This is but the beginning. . . . The government Santa Claus is about to be withdrawn. . . . Gradually he is to become overshadowed by another figure. This one will appear to the taxpayer ere he plays out his part, like a government Shylock. There is no other way.

"Good old Uncle Sam is going to make the rich pay and pay. Nothing is said about making other people pay. But that will come later. We are all going to pay—pay through the nose and pay till it hurts, in increased federal taxes down through the lower brackets. Our tax bill during the next generation is going to be a thing high, wide and handsome, and at the same time fearsome. It is not going to fall lightly anywhere. It is going to fall heavily on all who have incomes, in whatever brackets."

Charge accounts of the government (tax bills) become due just as do charge accounts of stores (private bills). There is no difference whatever in principle—but there is a great difference in fact, in that the government, if you fail to pay your tax bill, can use more harsh and ruinous methods on the individual to force payment than can the private store. There is no leniency shown by the tax collector. He collects your taxes, or he takes your property.

Business Government

As a luncheon guest the other day, we listened to an incoherent discussion on business and government. Naturally, we retained our silence, but mentally jotted down an editorial suggestion.

In our opinion, the main difference between business and government is this: Business progresses by giving more and more for less and less; government proceeds by taking more and more and giving less and less.

Under this foolish process, the gains made by business and passed along to the consumer are siphoned away by politics. What one section of the nation sweats to produce is recklessly thrown away by another section.

Regardless of the carefully-nurtured myth that all business is owned and controlled by predatory millionaires, the fact is that business is largely financed by the savings of working people. Literally millions of these have invested their savings in every sort of business, big and little. They are entitled to a fair return on their savings and they are entitled to a square deal from their government.

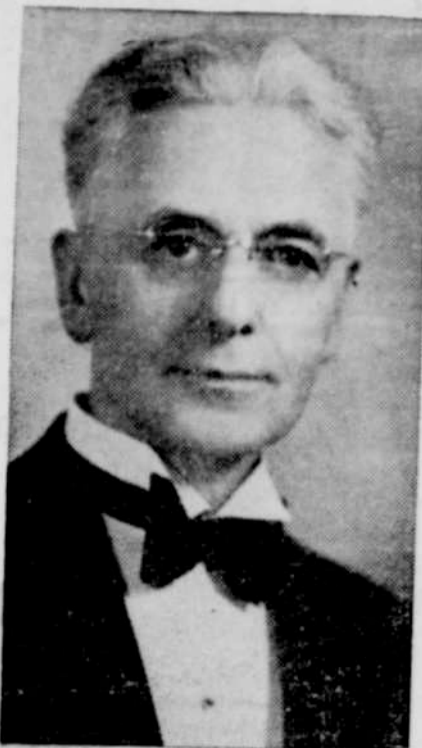

Government today, however, seems deliberately to be working on the one hand to prevent business from making any profit, and on the other hand to take away any profit that happens to be made.

The only result of this will be the loss to millions of little fellows—workers and savers—of their savings, and, finally, wage-cutting and hour-lengthening in a desperate attempt by business to keep its head above water.

Today, the taxpayers—business or individual—get less for their dollar than ever before. But as workers and producers they give more for a dollar than ever before.

The greatest objections on the road of progress in America are tax-mad and spending-crazy governmental bodies.—News-Telegram.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Walter C. Kenworthy is pleased to announce to his friends, the opening of a new Mortuary, located at 1536 S. E. 11th Ave., (formerly the P. L. Lerch Funeral Home) and extends a cordial invitation to you to inspect his new home and participate in his opening in a manner befitting a place of this kind. Mr. Kenworthy has been in business in Portland for over thirty years, and until five years ago when he sold his place and signed an agreement not to re-enter the business until July 1st, 1935. He was well known in the mortuary business in Portland. His new place is the only one where the personal services of Mr. Kenworthy may be obtained. He is not connected with any other Funeral Home, has no branches, and wishes his friends to feel free to call upon him at any time as they have in the past, and Bryan even.

In order to make a fitting beginning for a sacred duty which in turn is performed for each and every one of us, and to consecrate the Chapel to this sacred purpose, there was a dedicatory service for the Chapel, and its furnishings, Sunday afternoon at 3:30, at which time a short service was conducted.

A Roman Emperor's N. R. A.

Maybe there isn't anything new under the sun, after all. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, tells us . . . "that Diocletian, the Roman emperor who began his rule in 285 A. D., fiddled around with the national currency and used bimetalism long before Mr. Bryan even thought of it. Diocletian fixed commodity prices like a real code authority, regulated Roman wages, had one-third of the Italian vineyards plowed under, started a huge public work program, and soaked the rich with heavy taxes."

President Roosevelt made a big deal about how he chased the money changers out of the temple. But did not the President follow them out and shake hands with them? His proposal to give members of the Federal Reserve Board a pension of $1000 a month, after twelve years of service and, Mr. Average Citizen only $15 a month after 40 years of service, does not line up with what he has been wanting us to believe.

Federal Reserve men draw $144,000 in 12 years while Mr. Average Citizen draws but $7,200.

Now who should have the larger pension.

Do these proposals show up our President as not having parted company with the money changers?—The New Era.

Those record-breaking Mississippi endurance fliers were no more up in the air than are party leaders trying to plan next year's campaign.

According to the mayor of Chicago, horse race gambling, which has been legalized by the legislature, will be in the hands of honest bookmakers. And what kind of owners, trainers and jockeys?

Some of the Democratic congressmen say they are going to pass a bill making it legal to sell whiskey by the keg or barrel as well as by the bottle. Why not by the tank car.

Minding other people's business wouldn't be so bad if it were carried to its logical conclusion. We always know better what other people should do than what we ourselves should do. Let everybody tell everybody else—then do it.

Wealth is Distributed In Wages....

Observation shows that the productivity of the American worker, reinforced with power and with improved machinery, is the greatest in the world, and that the income thus produced has been widely diffused among all classes of the population.

If this were not the case, the widespread distribution of automobiles, refrigerators, radios, telephones and individually owned houses, which actually took place, would have proved impossible.

On the face of things the absurdity of the myth that 2 per cent of the people receive 60 to 80 per cent of our national wealth and income is apparent.

As a matter of fact, if such a maldistribution actually existed, the very mass production and mass consumption of goods, in which the United States has excelled, would have been impossible.

In other words, the soap-box orators who have been poisoning the public mind with false statistics, have been engaged in trying to explain away reality.

As the Brookings Institute has demonstrated, those engaged in gainful occupations receive about 85 per cent of the national income as wages.

The remaining 15 per cent goes as compensation to capital, MORE THAN HALF of which is owned by INDIVIDUALS OF MODERATE INCOMES. This generalization is substantiated by a study of the Federal Income tax statistics.

As a matter of fact, those receiving incomes of $5,000 or more in 1933 accounted for less than 10 per cent of the entire national income. That group numerically represented about 3 per cent of the population.

Those with incomes in excess of $100,000 in 1932 and 1933 accounted for 1 per cent of the entire national income.

It has been further computed that if in 1933 the ENTIRE INCOME of all those receiving FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS AND MORE had been confiscated and redistributed evenly to the remaining 120,000,000 persons, the per capita increase for each would have been exactly $35 per year.

The public needs to be reminded that BEFORE WEALTH CAN BE DISTRIBUTED IT MUST FIRST BE CREATED. The soundest way to distribute income widely is through WAGES PAID TO THOSE IN GAINFUL EMPLOYMENT.

Any muddying of the social waters by false propaganda concerning the nature of the distribution of wealth and income in the United States merely holds back sound recovery.

Labor, the overwhelmingly largest recipient of the national income, is the heaviest loser.

California Deer Beware!

Farmers Told to Shoot 'Em

Gardeners at Cannon Beach reported having trouble keeping elk from devouring their crops, evidently are not alone in their troubles, judging from an item in a recent issue of the Pacific Rural Press, prominent California farm paper, which is as follows:

"W. P. Hall, Hat Creek rancher near Redding, has been granted a permit to shoot any kind of deer any time he wishes, if they happen to be on his property. The permit dates from May 15 to December 31 and was granted after Hall complained the animals were feeding on his alfalfa fields, causing an estimated loss of five tons of hay annually.
