THE EARLIEST CLOCKS IN THE ROMAN COURTS USED TO LIMIT SPEAKERS TIME AND TO PREVENT BABBLING.

YES! TODAY AND NOW—THAT'S THE LIGHT AND CLOCK, GOOD NIGHT!

TODAY THE USE OF LIGHTS, ALARM CLOCKS, SIZZERS AND SILLS WARN SPEAKERS THEIR TIME IS UP!

THE CLEPSYDRA (FROM THE GREEK MEANING "TO STEAL" AND "WATER") WAS THE QUINQUAGESIMAL OF THE GREEKS AND ROMANS. IT MEASURED TIME BY THE FLOW OF WATER. IT WAS USED EXTENSIVELY IN THE COURTS OF JUSTICE TO LIMIT THE SPEAKING TIME AND TO PREVENT BABBLING. HENCE THE PHRASE "AQUAM DARE," TO GAIN TIME AND "FUGIAT REVERERE," TO WASTE TIME. THE FLOW OF WATER WAS TO TRICK THE CLOCK BY FILLING IT WITH MUDDY WATER—TO LENGTHEN ITS PERIOD.

WHILE TODAY IN OUR COURTS AND LEGISLATURES THE MODERN "CLEPSYDRA" IS THE GAVEL.

Lunch for School Children

School days are here again. From the little red school house in the country to the imposing school house in the city, there is the hustle and bustle that goes with the opening of schools after the long vacation.

During the summer with long hours of play in the sunshine most children had had healthy and ravenous appetites and mothers have had little to worry about in that respect. But with the excitement and hurry of school days it may be somewhat different. It is often difficult to get Mary or John to eat the amount of food for breakfast that is necessary for growing and active bodies. This too often results in over fatigue toward the end of the morning session and the child will have but little appetite and will eat less than if an adequate breakfast had been eaten. And supper just can't make up for these two lost meals.

Here is a box lunch menu which is sure to please: Chopped Egg and celery sandwich on whole wheat bread. Peanut butter and honey sandwiches on white bread. Apple, ginger cookie, hot chocolate (Thermos). A menu planned for a school lunch room is as follows: Vegetable chowder with bacon. Fruit Salad, wholewheat bread and butter, ice cream. For a lunch at home this menu was planned: Scalloped Salmon, Baked Potato Raisin Bread & butter Lettuce Salad Peaches Sponge Cake Milk

Statehouse Gossip

By ERNEST L. GRAY

Endless conferences featured the past week all relative to one subject—a new capitol location. The sessions have been between the governor and the board of control, the group of Salem citizens urging more ground, and the Willamette trustees. The three conferred again the start of this week in order to present a program to the state legislature.

And the date of the legislature awaits the completion of a recommended program. For a time the past week it was expected the call would be issued momentarily. The latest reports now are that it will be called early in October. Prognostications are purely guess work as the governor himself does not know when he will write the proclamation.

When it does convene, the probable "capitol" will be the state armory and the dining room of the Marion Hotel adjoining. This would permit the second floor rooms of the hotel to be used for committees, and perhaps the executive offices would be moved there temporarily. Orders have been issued for ninety desks and the necessary chairs.

In the meantime the governor and members of the board were in attendance at the Pendleton round-up. In addition the governor was making a swing around the state with members of the highway commission to inspect eastern and central Oregon highways. Governmental activities will take on full swing again next week.

More federal money was being sought by the state of Oregon. The latest application was for $800,000 for a central heating and power plant and a central telephone system and police radio station. Elimination of duplication in expense and to curb long distance calls were the objectives. Location of the eight police radio stations had not been determined.

Representative James H. E. Scott, of Umatilla county, may not be present at the special session. Late reports stated he had suffered a stroke and was critically ill at his home. Scott has been a member of the state legislature for many years. He has been a consistent dry and at the last session brought in some extra dry measures.

Judge W. A. Ekwall, congressman from Oregon's third district of Multnomah county, ran up against a snag last Sunday. He attempted to make a talk "not about himself but about the game" at the baseball contests in Portland. The boos and Bronx yells prevented him and he finally gave up the attempt and left the microphone.

His unpopularity, it was stated, was due to his reversal on the Townsend Old Age pension plan. During his campaign he supported the bill, authentic reports stated, but voted against it in congress. It is beginning to look as though he may be but a one-termer. He has not announced he would try again, however.

An unusual scene took place at the state's capitol last Sunday night. When the news flashed on the movies screen that Huey Long had been shot, the statement was met with cheers, not regrets. People in Oregon have not applauded the antics and activities of the Louisiana, and the feelings were spontaneous and bordering upon hatred.

But the Long news story was followed closely here. Newspapers and press association staffs were continuously on the phone answering queries upon his condition. An employee of the governor's office commented Monday upon when a monument would be erected for the man who fired the shot the young Dr. Weiss. Anti-Long sentiment is strong here.

Later—the capitol conferences ended late Monday with an agreement which gives the victory to all three factions—the board, the university and the city of Salem. The governor will recommend the purchase of Willamette university to the legislature and will also make an alternate proposal for the south Salem site.

But the Willamette campus purchase will be the prior recommendation. The trustees requested $750,000 plus the site for a new campus in Bush's pasture. Thirty-four acres was to be purchased. In this proposal the city of Salem has approved a grant of 100,000 to the state for the purchase. The city cannot donate to Willamette, but it can to the state and the latter may use the money to buy the site.

In all the cost of the campus would be $825,000. Salem contributes $100,000 private donations $2,700; 45 per cent PWA would contribute $337,500, leaving the state to provide a cash payment by legislative appropriation of $385,000. It now rests with the legislature, and should it be granted work would start within six months.

This is the closest to an agreement yet reached and all parties to the agreement were reported as satisfied. The campus, adjoining the present capitol grounds, would be joined by vacation of State street and construction streets around the old grounds. It will give the grounds a total of 20 acres, which was declared ample sufficiency.

Word from the federal government on the application for grants to buy more land, now is awaited before the session will be called. This was expected momentarily. Senator Charles L. McNary, who was in on some of the conferences, voiced assurance the federal government would provide the grant.

Recovery Would Eliminate Necessity for More Taxes

New York—(IPS)—"Recovery would solve the financial difficulties of the Federal Government without the necessity for further drastic increases in the burden of taxation," according to a report on "Federal Finances in the Fiscal Year of 1935" issued by the National Industrial Conference Board.

This non-political study indicates plainly that business recovery and re-employment are the central factors in the restoration of a sound fiscal policy for the Government.

"All measures that tend to impede recovery in production and trade prevent reduction of relief expenditures and increase of revenue," the Board said. "Without recovery the budget can be balanced only by the imposition of taxes which in the end would defeat their aim by drying up the sources of revenue and decreasing the income of the Government.

"If relief expenditures are reduced to about one billion dollars for the fiscal year of 1937 and revenues from existing sources continue to improve as they have during the past two years, it should be possible to draw up a budget showing a complete balance, except for public debt retirements. If such a budget should be announced in January, 1936, the report states, it would be the most constructive development in the federal fiscal picture in the whole depression period.
