loans have finally hit bottom and are now on the up-grade. No interest is being paid on demand deposits and that means good profits whenever loans start to pick up in earnest. By paying no interest on demand deposits, banks are saving an amount nearly equivalent to the decrease in earnings from loans at lower rates. The "goats" in this present period of inactivity in banking is the depositor. The loss in earnings from the drop in loans and interest rates has been passed along to him. But there are better days ahead for both depositors and stockholder as loans increase.

Less Competition—Better Earnings
 For instance, there are one-third less banks in the country today than in 1929. Hence, two banks now will do the volume of business which formerly would have been divided among three banks. Naturally in some districts, where failures were high, this factor will be of even greater importance than in others. Moreover, with such a tremendous volume of deposits on hand there should be no competition forcing banks to pay a higher interest rate on deposits than they should pay. So the outlook for banks earnings over the next two or three years becomes brighter every day. Bankers themselves, however, are concerned over government competition in the private banking field.

They are also getting jittery over the present pace of public spending. At New Orleans, the Association soundly scored spend-thrift policies. One of the ranking officers even proposed a bank "strike" against buying more public bonds until steps were taken to balance the budget. Whether this had anything to do with the President's announcement several days later that the next budget would be cut half a billion dollars, I do not know. At any rate, banks now hold fifty-three per cent of all government bonds against fifteen per cent in 1920.

A sharp drop in the price of these bonds could create another banking panic. Hence all efforts toward balancing the budget are of vital importance to every bank depositor and stockholder!
