Ever Have a Fire?

Have you ever had a serious fire on your property? The chances are that you haven't—and you are lucky. But the fact that you haven't suffered directly from fire loss shouldn't give you a false sense of security. A fire, like anything else, has to happen a first time. And the property-owner who disregards warnings concerning fire hazards, thinking that such matters may affect others but not him, is all set for that "first time."

Unless your home is different from the average, it contains a long list of fire hazards. Remember that old furniture, those ancient magazines and clothes you've been putting in the attic little by little for many years? They offer a constant invitation to fire, no less than the nest of a real pack-rat. And the accumulations of greasy rags or refuse in the basement or garage—what more could the force of spontaneous combustion want to get in its work?

Almost every fire hazard can be eliminated—furthermore, it can be eliminated quickly, easily and cheaply. Some of the most dangerous hazards, such as improperly stored inflammables and piles of rubbish, can be done away with entirely without cost. Doing that may save lives and irreplaceable property—is it worth the little work that is involved?

Liberty's Guarantee

The people of this nation should each day offer thanks to the framers of our Constitution, the document which guarantees freedom of speech and freedom of the press. This is the greatest protection a free people have against the crushing hand of officialism, bureaucracy, dictatorship and destruction of personal and property rights, and life itself, as we have seen occur in foreign lands not blessed with a constitution such as ours.

As one man, our people should resent any program to tamper with or weaken the basic principles of the United States Constitution.

Bread Goes Up

The pound of bread that cost you, on the average, 6.7 cents in 1932, costs 8.3 cents today—even though the baker's and retailer's share of the final selling price has shown a slight decrease. Additional rises in bread prices are forecast.

One cause of the rise is the increased cost of wheat, which was at a ridiculously low price in 1932. Other ingredients—sugar, malt, etc.—are like-wise up.

Better prices for the farmer are desired by the whole country. But as his prices increase, the consumer must necessarily stretch his budget. In some cases that is impossible. In many cases it works a definite hardship on the family.

At least a partial solution to this high-cost-of-food problem lies in the development of wholesaling and retailing systems which give the farmer the adequate prices he deserves—and at the same time keep down costs to the consumer, by eliminating needless overhead and middleman expenses. Such systems have done fine work in the past—and their continued operation is essential to the national welfare.

Water Increases Seed Yield

HILLSBORO—Irrigation of a field of red clover gave an average seed yield approximately seven times as great as on an unirrigated field that had, if anything, a little the better soil on the farm of John Thornburgh at Forest Grove, he reported recently to County Agent W. F. Cyrus. The seed crop from the unirrigated field averaged 55 pounds per acre, and on the irrigated field 355 pounds per acre. At 35 cents a pound for seed, this meant a gross return of $39 an acre from the irrigation. Mr. Thornburgh now has a major part of his land under irrigation and has recently laid out an additional 35 acres to receive supplemental water.

From the Cradle to the Grave—Taxes

Here are two stanzas from a verse that has been making the rounds recently:

"When you light the evening lamp
 You pay a tax.
 When you buy a postage stamp
 You pay a tax.
 When you buy the baby clothes,
 When you read the morning news,
 When you buy a pair of shoes,
 You pay a tax
 When you buy an ice cream cone
 You pay a tax.
 For the water that you drink
 You pay a tax.
 When you buy a loaf of bread,
 When the doctor says you're dead,
 When the final prayers are said,
 You pay a tax."

It is doubtful if sadder or truer words were ever penned. Taxes begin with the cradle and end only in the grave. And today we are taxed more heavily, and in more ways, than we ever were before. Sit down some time and reflect on the taxes, indirect and direct, that you must pay in the course of any day's normal activities—and you'll get some idea of how necessary real tax reduction is.

Promise the average voter a job, or a few dollars off, and he will forget all he knows about the law and the Constitution.

Free Inspection Offered Car Owners by Petroleum Co.

In the nation-wide campaign for greater safety on the highways, a free, scientific inspection and advisory service for the preparation of auto mobiles for the winter season is now offered to Beaverton motorists by the General Petroleum corporation as its contribution to the campaign. It is reported to be the first time this service has been offered on the Pacific coast.

"Winter-Proofing", as the new service is called, was outlined a few days ago to local General service men by C. A. Hagooes of Portland, merchandising and training manager for the Oregon division, and R. L. Angst, manager for this district. Included in the service are points which come under the main headings of "Safety," "Protection of Investment" and "Economy."

There will be no obligation to the General Petroleum stations on the part of motorists receiving this free inspection, it is stressed by C. J. Barnes, Beaverton manager.

BEAVERTON

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Wilson of Forest Grove, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harris Hansen Tuesday evening. Mrs. Wilson was formerly a teacher in the Beaverton grade school. Carl Hanson is confined to his bed with infection in his leg which was injured sometime ago.

A special meeting of Mero L. Tanner Tent No. 8 Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War was held at the home of Mrs. Inez Whitworth Monday evening. Refreshments were served at the close of the business meeting.

Associate Matrons club Order of Eastern Star met for a luncheon in Portland Saturday. Conductresses were guests of the order. Mrs. John Felsner and Mrs. Bertha Williams attended from Beaverton.

Bethel No. 18 Jobs Daughters held an inspection Tuesday evening, and were presented with their charter. Dr. C. E. Mason assisted by Mrs. Essex Marsh and Miss Ludwig, conducted a clinic for diphtheria and smallpox vaccine Wednesday morning at the grade school. This is a yearly event. Fifteen were given the serum.

Mrs. F. H. Schoene entertained at luncheon and contract bridge at her home Thursday afternoon. Guests included Mesdames Leslie Spencer, Walter Scott, Doy Gray, F. G. Donaldson, R. R. Summers, E. Stipe, Geo. Blasser, John Summers, Alan Rinehart, A. E. Hanson, W. H. Boyd, Guy McCormac, W. C. McKell, H. R. Nelson, and Miss Juliette Carter. First prize went to Miss Carter and second to Mrs. Blasser. Consolation Mrs. Gray. Mrs. Harry Hudson, who was unable to be present, sent a small gift to each guest.

Al Jannsen has been confined to his home for several days with an attack of the grippe.

Steve Mapes spent the week end at Salem with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mapes.

Miss Hattie Chalmers of Portland visited at the H. R. Nelson home Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Summers and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Stipe attended a dance at the Masonic Temple in Portland given by the Daughters of Nile Wednesday evening.

The dance given by I. O. O. F. at their hall Saturday, November 16, was a real success and plans are being made for another in the very near future.

Mrs. M. J. Marty of Portland, visited at the E. R. Sheets home Thursday of last week.

A large gathering of relatives enjoyed Thanksgiving dinner at the Evans-Whitworth home, there being seventeen seated at the table. Besides the regular family places were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Archie Stone, Wayne and Richard Murray of Port Townsend, Wash., Mrs. Pauline Quade and children of Portland, Mr. and Mrs. James Whitworth and two sons of Hillsboro.

Keep Old T. B. Running Saves County Nurse

As Health Nurse employed by the County I have been asked to tell something of the work which Christmas Seals help to accomplish.

The intangible results of increased interest in Health, and of an encouraged outlook and intelligent public which cannot be tabulated, are in my opinion the outstanding results but there are some figures taken from the records of the association, teachers reports and Health Department which are indicative.

In the 2 years past 1500 children were given the Tuberculin Test at Beaverton, Tigard, Aloha-Huber, Sherwood, Forest Grove, Hillsboro, etc. As a result of this testing the conclusion has been drawn that approximately 8% of High School students and 3% of Grade School children have mild infection with Tuberculosis. A figure which compares very favorably with about 20% among students of U. S. as a whole.

Suitable X-ray following "positive" tests revealed nearly all were of a slight degree and reasonable precautions as to hygiene and diet would insure a normal life.

To a few families however the test proved of vital importance because it brought to light the early stages of disease at a time when prompt action was needed and was not yet too late.

Christmas Seals were also used to help finance x-rays purchase supplies for school "clinics" and secure educational matter for distribution.

Such a record is encouraging and there is a tendency to relax and call our task done; but there are some black figures recorded—1934 was the first in 20 years that the Oregon death rate from T. B. rose and did not fall, due in part to the depression.

In the past two years 130 Washington County families have been found to have been in contact with the active disease and 48 individuals of this county have been under medical care for active tuberculosis (with T. B. germs in their sputum)—of these 48; 10 have died; 14 have a good chance to recover; 18 are still active and 6 have moved or their condition is not known.

Are we not justified in taking a little of our time and think upon the following questions?

How many persons are not included on this list?

Who are they?

Where are they?

Who are they endangering?

What is their occupation?—student?—teacher?—farmer?—mill worker?—housewife?

Each such occupation was included in the list of 48.

When you purchase Christmas Seals you are helping to find the early case and helping to make adequate treatment possible, you are helping to spread the happy news that tuberculosis is old fashioned and unnecessary and the same disease by the newer name of Tuberculosis is preventable and is curable.

view him. But along with the newspapermen were several dozen loyal democrats, including Governor Martin.

And as in the past, Farley talked to newspapermen all the way to Portland and the rest of the party saw very little of him. Being smart Farley knew the democrats would be loyal to the party, so why waste time on them. He spent his time talking to news hounds and answering their questions for more than an hour and a half.

Farley talks mostly "off the record" and he says he can do it with reporters only once in his experience, "that man never got to talk to me. Needless to say, Farley commented, again." Farley is fair with the press, and as a result he is an excellent ambassador for Roosevelt.

Among other things he declared: "The protest against the reduced lumber tariff under the Canadian agreement will fade into insignificance after the treaty is operative. I believe the people of Oregon are unduly aroused. I urge them to be patient."

"It is evident to me many people in Oregon are favorable to the Townsend Old Age pension plan. Tell them their wishes will be PROPERLY respected in the days to come."

"The Literary Digest poll means nothing now. It was unfairly put. We will recognize one after the republican nominee has been named."

"The republicans cannot avoid nominating former President Herbert Hoover. He has taken the leadership in that party, so what can they do?"

"Regardless of whom they nominate, Roosevelt will be re-elected." "If the president has made mistakes in the past, he is willing to admit them. He has of necessity changed his mind after getting into office because in his judgment these changes were necessary. I have confidence in his judgment."

Dr. G. M. HOFFMAN, dentist, has returned to his office at 817 Broadway Building, Broadway and Morrison, AT. 6341, Portland.

... Goat Milk Approved by Specialist

"From a theoretical standpoint we see that goat milk has many points of superiority, but the multiplied lessons of experience have proved that goat milk is actually a safer and better food. My work has been altogether with tuberculosis, yet in my close relationship with patients I have learned indirectly how goat milk has helped many babies. What has been said in regard to the infant also applies for the grown person who is ill or who has a delicate stomach. I am convinced that if in general the physician's prescription for milk was made to read 'goat milk,' digestive difficulties would be less common, and the path to robust health made smoother."—Charles E. Atkinson, M. D., consulting specialist to the Southern Sierras Sanatorium for Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, and author of Lessons on Tuberculosis and Consumption. Grade A Goat Milk delivered fresh daily. . . . Cornell Goat Dairy, BR. 4310.

V-8 LEADERSHIP

ON OCTOBER 31 of last year, Henry Ford announced his intention to build a million Ford V-8s in 1935. We are pleased to report that this goal was reached in exactly ten months instead of a full year.

One million cars and trucks is an impressive total. But figures by themselves mean nothing. It is what they represent that counts. Selling a V-8 at a low price has brought a new kind of automobile within reach of the people. Producing it has provided steady work for hundreds of thousands of men in the Ford plants, in associated industries and on the farm.

These million Ford V-8 cars and trucks have helped to make things better all around. In the first ten months of 1935 the Ford Motor Company paid out, in the United States alone, $140,119,325.00 in wages and $523,111,389.00 for materials.
