Dog Is Master of Smell: Sight Is Not Important

It came with something of a shock to people of the Occident to discover that their personal odors made it somewhat difficult at first for the more delicately sensitized orientals to remain near them.

It is a fact, asserts a writer in the Minneapolis Journal, that every one of us, whether of the Orient or Occident, has his own aroma, as distinct and personal as his carriage or countenance. The dog recognizes his master not entirely by his appearance, but by something else peculiar to him.

A biologist, who has made something of a study of these facts, points out that we constantly exude products of metabolism and that in the composition of these products we all differ. Not only do we differ from one another, but in no individual are these results constant. No chemical laboratory is sufficiently equipped to distinguish such minute differences. The only experts on the subject, the biologist continues, are the dogs. With their highly developed olfactory organs, they are impelled to confirm their vision, when they see their masters, by making a searching investigation directed toward confirming their impression. Of their two senses, for complete knowledge, they prefer the sense of smell to that of sight.

Maimonides, Philosopher, Thinker of Middle Ages

The name of Maimonides, it safely may be presumed, is familiar to thousands of students of history, literature and philosophy. He was the greatest Jewish thinker of the Middle ages, and the influence of his life and work still is operative in the minds of men.

Maimonides, as it happens, says a writer in the Washington Star, transcended the ordinary boundaries of his profession, place and time. He was, indeed, a universal character. A native of Cordova, Spain, he spent his better years at Cairo serving as physician to Saladin and as leader of the Jewry of Egypt, pursuing researches in the sacred writings of his race, in mathematics and astronomy, and corresponding with scholars and common folk throughout the world as it then was known.

But his inquiring genius reached out to embrace Aristotle, and it was one of his objectives to reconcile Talmudic doctrines with Greek ideals. In the end he constituted in himself a focal point for the richest and most vigorous thought of three different civilizations—Hebraic, Arabic and Hellenic.

Naturally enough, the scholars of the next succeeding era found him useful in their search for philosophic truth. St. Thomas Aquinas, Duns Scotus and Albertus Magnus quoted from him. And their spiritual descendants likewise reproduced the golden values of his teachings, gradually refining them in the light of their increasing knowledge until all of the inevitable dross of the Twelfth century had been cleared away. Even Spinoza, the so-called "heretic," preserved his reverence for Maimonides when conscience led him to reject the primitive doctrines of less liberal Hebrew sages.

Beginning of Congressional Cemetery

On March 30, 1812, Henry Hillyer decided to the Christ church vestry a square of ground known as square 1115 and the name of Washington Parish Burial Grounds was given to it. On May 30, 1849, the vestry changed the name to Washington cemetery, yet it is popularly known as the Congressional cemetery. On April 15, 1816, the vestry assigned 100 sites for the interment of the deceased members of congress. On December 15, 1823, 300 sites were donated for the same purpose. Congress afterward bought more land and erected small freestone cenotaphs, which form a conspicuous feature; made sundry appropriations for improvement, and began to add its name to the cemetery. Many congressmen and government officials are buried in this cemetery, including Tobias Lear, secretary to George Washington; William Thornton, who drew the original plans of the Capitol; George Hadfield, assistant architect of the Capitol; Elbridge Gerry of Massachusetts, Vice President of the United States. Some congressmen are still buried in the Congressional cemetery; others are taken home for burial.

BANKS AND COLLEGE LAUNCH NEW SCHOOL

Aims to Offer Studies in Advanced Banking Subjects to Bank Executives—Public Duties of Banks Stressed

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. — The Graduate School of Banking, an unprecedented educational project, operated under the joint auspices of the American Institute of Banking Section of the American Bankers Association and Rutgers University, with 220 enrolled students from 35 states and the District of Columbia, inaugurated here in June its first resident session.

The states represented and the number of registrants from each were as follows: Alabama, 2; Arkansas, 2; California, 2; Connecticut, 9; Delaware, 3; District of Columbia, 6; Florida, 2; Georgia, 3; Idaho, 1; Illinois, 8; Indiana, 2; Iowa, 1; Kansas, 1; Kentucky, 2; Louisiana, 3; Maryland, 1; Massachusetts, 9; Michigan, 5; Minnesota, 1; Missouri, 5; Nebraska, 1; New Jersey, 31; New York, 50; North Carolina, 8; North Dakota, 1; Ohio, 7; Oklahoma, 1; Oregon, 2; Pennsylvania, 32; Rhode Island, 1; Texas, 5; Virginia, 6; Washington, 1; West Virginia, 1; Wisconsin, 4; Wyoming, 1.

The annual resident sessions of the graduate school will be supplemented between periods by continued extension work for the students at their homes. The purpose of the school is described as being to offer in a three year course a comprehensive approach to an advanced study of the various administrative problems in banking and trust institutions. The teaching procedure is a combination of the case system and the lecture discussion method.

The Curriculum

The curriculum embraces banking administrative problems and policies, bank investment problems, legal and managerial aspects of trust business, legal phases of bank administration and economic problems in the field of money and credit. The public relations and responsibilities of banks and methods for meeting these obligations are emphasized in the courses.

It is planned to set up similar schools in cooperation with other universities in various parts of the country. The school will add 200 registrants each year for two years until 600 are enrolled.

The trustees of the Educational Foundation of the American Bankers Association have set aside funds from the foundation to grant 100 loan scholarships of $150 each to qualified applicants for attendance at the school.

First American Postal Law

On November 5, 1683, the general court of the colony of Massachusetts Bay, "for preventing the miscarriage of letters," ordered that "Richard Fairbanks his house in Boston, is the place appointed for all letters which are brought from beyond the sea, or are to be sent thither, are to be brought unto; and he is to take care that they be delivered according to their directions." With this, the first American postal law, began the evolution of the United States postal system.

prices. Purchasing power determines the volume of business and there is only a certain amount of buying power at all times. If prices remain static, purchasing power will likewise remain stationary. If prices are lower, buying power increases and business continues to grow.

Insurance Against Consumer Crusade An official of a pharmaceutical company recently told me the bottle in which his preparation was sold cost his company more than the product itself. The bottle costs less than two cents and yet the product retails for fifty cents! Personally, I feel that this sort of price policy was one of the major causes of the depression.

In forcing price reductions in situations such as this, consumer organizations perform a vital service for the nation. But, at the same time, they would also raise havoc with sound merchants, manufacturers, property owners, investors, and bankers. If business men wish to prevent such unnecessary turmoil, they must immediately take the initiative and set their price house in order.

As an example of one gigantic business which has solved its price problems, study the utility industry. Power companies, with their huge overhead, were faced with a far greater problem than the average manufacturer and merchant. Thru daring and ingenious rate-making policies, however, they have succeeded in boosting both their gross and net revenues in the face of rising costs.

Hence, my advice to everyone who sells goods is: Examine prices closely. Even if costs are increasing, make no mark-ups unless failure to do so means bankruptcy. Instead, cut prices as insurance against the necessity of a consumer crusade here!

Business, as registered by the Babsonchart, now stands at 9 per cent below normal and 10 per cent above a year ago! Copyright 1936.

Let's Make it Snappy

With the Oregon Dairymen's association meeting in Tillamook this week, we are reminded to "make it snappy". For who can think of Tillamook without thinking of cheese? And who can think of cheese, with its snappy, very distinct flavor, without having his mouth water?

Cheese, you know, is a highly concentrated food and is therefore particularly welcome during the winter months. And it contains all of the valuable elements found in milk. Enough said, for everyone knows the important place given milk in the family diet.

And because cheese is a concentrated form of milk, adults may use part of their daily quota of milk in the form of cheese. So if you prefer cheese with your pie instead of milk with your meal, remember that one cup of milk is equivalent in food value to two small cubes of cheese.

How to serve it? There are numerous possibilities—in a main dish or a meatless day. Also as a valuable addition to many oven dishes, to a cream sauce and to various soups. A very delicious and likewise nutritious luncheon dish is provided by adding cheese to a medium white sauce and pouring it over hard cooked egg sprausely sliced and arranged on crisp toast.

Hard to digest? Oh, my no! But do be careful how you cook it. Because cheese contains so much protein, it should be cooked at a very low temperature. In fact, most dishes should be cooked over water, or in a very slow oven. For the main dish try:

Cheese Fondue

- 5 eggs
  - 1 7-8 c soft bread crumbs
  - 1 1/2 c milk
  - 3-4 tsp salt
  - 1-4 tsp dry or prepared mustard
  - 3-4 lb American cheese, grated
- Separate the eggs. Beat the yolks slightly, and add the bread crumbs, milk, salt, mustard, and grated cheese. Last, fold in the egg whites beaten stiff. Turn into a greased, uncovered dish and set dish in shallow pan of water. Bake in a moderate oven of 350 deg. for 1 hour, 15 minutes. Serves 6

And here's a very special recipe for a delicious creamy Welch Rarebit. You can't go wrong serving Welch any evening when friends drop in for a chat or a rubber of bridge. But an especially cold, clammy, dreary evening simply cries for it.

- 3-4 lb American cheese
  - 1 tbsp butter
  - 1 egg
  - 1 tsp Worcestershire sauce
  - 1 cup thick cream
- Melt the cheese in a pan with the butter. Add cream to the egg well beaten and fold into the melted cheese. Add the Worcestershire sauce and serve over fresh crackers or strips of crisp toast. Serves 6 or 8.

SPINACH makes for IRON MEN

IRON men is slang for dollars, but it may also mean a number of other things. Husky boys and girls, for instance. And one way to make both boys and girls husky is to see that they eat their due proportion of spinach. For the iron content of this vegetable is exceptionally high, and it is an excellent source of vitamins A and G, a fair source of vitamin B and a good source of vitamin C.

Eggs, too, are high in iron content, so let's try combining these two foods in some recipes, and see whether we can't turn out some boys and girls of the same grade as those eleven "iron men" who played through the Yale-Princeton football game last fall, and won for Yale.

A Strong Combination

Baked Spinach and Eggs: Drain and chop contents of a No. 2 1/2 can spinach, reserving the juice for soup. Make a white sauce of two tablespoons butter, one and a half tablespoons flour and one cup milk, and season with salt. Add three chopped hard-cooked eggs. Put alternate layers of spinach and the sauce in a buttered baking dish, cover with one-half cup buttered crumbs, and brown in a hot oven. Serves six.

Cheese and Spinach Omelet: Make an omelet of four eggs, one-half teaspoon salt, a few grains pepper, four tablespoons cream and one-third cup grated cheese, folding in the grated cheese with the egg whites, beaten stiff and then folded into the yolks. Heat the contents of an 8-ounce can spinach, season to taste with butter, salt and pepper, and spread on the omelet just before folding it over. Serves five.
