NEW IDEA FOR PARTY FAVORS

Something new in party favors was introduced recently at the annual meeting of the Columbia Empire Industries, Inc. and Oregon Manufacturers association. Woolly animals, from elephants to kittens, from goats to swans, decorated the tables as 400 guests were seated for the annual industrial meet. The favors were manufactured by the Oregon Worsted Co. from wool produced in this territory.

COMPLETE DIVERSIFICATION

Diversification does not simply apply to a division of capital between stocks and bonds. It means the spreading of funds over different grades of securities. A bond list should contain second-grade as well as gilt-edge issues, while a stock list should contain a few outright speculations as well as sound dividend-paying issues. Diversification should also extend to the type of industry.
Investors should never load up on oils or utilities but should spread their funds over many industries.
Diversification should be applied geographically. Investments should not be concentrated in one locality but should embrace a nation-wide interest.

Finally, broad diversification includes investments other than stocks and bonds. The careful investor should hold bank accounts, insurance policies, and material possessions. In Germany and other countries where inflation went wild, commodities, real estate, (particularly small homes and farms), home furnishings, collections, and the like all weathered the storm in relatively good condition. When shaping an investment program today, the wise man will take all these factors into consideration.

"INFLATION INSURANCE"
There are thousands of small investors, however, whose funds are too limited to get the benefit of diversification protection. For this class, the most practical form of "inflation insurance" would be a group of five or ten low-priced common stocks of investment trusts. In this way the small investor secures a share in a thoroughly diversified portfolio of investments which would cover most of the points outlined above. The principal thought I want to leave is that sound investing under today's conditions, means first, diversification; second, careful selection; and third, insurance against both inflation and deflation.

moment, the prospects favor the former. The stage is all set for some kind of inflation in the United States —either credit or currency. Bondholders should watch out for the very first evidence of the following danger signals: (1) living costs rising faster than business activity;
(2) business receding unless more and more public money is spent; and
(3) high-grade bond prices slipping
