EASTER

True Inspiration in Life Comes With the Knowing of the Joys of Higher Existence

From every walk of life they come! With an endless number of problems and joys! The banker, the laborer, doctor, lawyer and clerk. Their wives and mothers and sisters. Their sons and brothers, too. All seek the light of a newer and finer life while some lighten their burdens of care and others give thanks for the blessings and joys of life. . . . So, too, may you share in the beauty of such reverence Gathered together in one common purpose, a group of people come to church to worship and through the study of the lives and teachings of great men, to learn the finer and better ways of life. Through the stimulating thoughts of men who have devoted their lives to the interpretation of the teachings of Christ applied to the life of today, you too, may learn the true and the beautiful ways of life.

Come! Your church will welcome you! Here at church the distinctions of social and financial positions are forgotten in the common interest in truth and reverent worship. Here all people meet on the same plane. The well-to-do and the pauper. The young business man and the captains of industry. The professional and the laborer. . . . Here they meet in a mutual effort toward an ever finer nobility of character. Here they recognize, each in the other, the qualities of character which in other circumstances of meeting may so easily be hidden from common view Go to church Sunday. Go to your church. There you will join in worship with the finest characters of this community. There you will find strength and rest and new courage.
