

Hollow Clay Tile Has Many Uses

While the bigger percentage of hollow clay tile manufactured is used for large construction purposes, it is found that use of this material is less expensive than other building materials when used in the construction of root houses, poultry houses and other uses such as placing foundations beneath houses already constructed.

This latter use especially shows the conveniences and saving possible through use of hollow clay tile. For instance, no forms are necessary nor do you have to wait for tile to set as you do when using concrete. Hollow clay tile is much more quickly placed as well and the finished job insures a dry basement. Clean, vermin and rodent proof chicken houses and root houses as well as other outbuildings can be quickly and inexpensively constructed by use of this material and it is well to call on your local dealer or a wholesale house such as Sylvan Brick Company or Columbia Brick Works for advice before building.

New Car for Easter

On Easter Sunday we saw many new hats make their appearance in Beaverton. It was a swell day, notwithstanding the weather man, who predicted showers.

Oh yes! Your correspondent noticed a new car on Hamilton avenue. The driver was wearing a big smile—and it was Calvin Barnes at the wheel.

MAVIS NEWTON & BETTY NORTON, DUO FROM VERSATILE THE PUB SEXTET.

The Pub, popular Portland night club, continues to offer the finest of vaudeville acts, several of which have run continuously for forty weeks, with additions as good new talent becomes available.

The latest acts to appear at The Pub include the musical magicians Claude Johnson, playing the Thirteenth, You will have to go and see it because the writer does not know enough about magic to explain the instrument except that Mr. Johnson does not touch any part of it while playing. Also, an outstanding tenor, Jimmie O'Brien, a beautiful voice and a pleasing personality. Then, we have a cowgirl guitarist and yodeler in Carmen Jamison, also the tops in entertainment. A third tap dancer, Jimmy Tereau, who dances a la Fred Astaire and keeps the crowd craning their necks.

Then we come to the old guard of crowd pleasures and when a group of entertainers can perform for more than forty weeks at one stand you have some real entertainers. Heading the list of course are the four singing waiters who ran steadily during the period the Old American had its melodramas and later with the Columbia Gardens when that was the real night life spot of Portland, coming direct to The Pub from this engagement.

Bill Smith, singer of cowboy songs and excellent banjolist continues to carry his part of the show as does Connie Glaum, blues singer. For variation we have Viola Green, mezzo soprano and a real artist besides being the superintendent of the hat checking department. Dancing, of course, by the Gay 90's Orchestra, the only one of its kind in the West. Then Helen Mars, violin playing flower girl, and an array of vocal entertainers including Bill Siley, Bob Rittler, Don Harris and Floyd Young. Of course you won't want to miss Sonny Boy, colored dancer of real ability.

Bill Maylon, master of ceremonies runs the acts off in a showmanlike manner and Edna Mather presides over the cash register, which you probably never see nor think of because the Pub is so inexpensive, but which is highly important nevertheless and makes possible the entertainment you receive.

Hello, baseball players, one-arm Tom Jackson and his ball club of entertainers challenge any group in this locality to a game. Just contact him at The Pub. Jackson, bass of the four singing waiters and a former umpire, will not insist on umpiring but will only manage his team and for the latter reason you hafta see him.
