Cecil Emerson who has been a chef at the Bonneville Dam for the past two years, was transferred to Yuma, Arizona, this week. He spent several days with his brother Ted at Aloha and left Thursday at 10 a. m. for his new job, arriving at 10:30 Saturday, a distance of 1400 miles. He says the Imperial Dam at Yuma is next to the hottest place in the United States.

Smiles Not Always True

Sign of Our Happiness

Smiles do not always connote a pleasurable emotion. There are smiles and smiles, and he who cannot analyze them is much disadvantaged, asserts a writer in the Montreal Herald.

There are smiles of courtesy and diplomacy; smiles of anger and hate.

There are smiles of pleasure and approbation; smiles of weariness and resignation.

There is the professional smile and the disarming smile of intrigue and the smile of betrayal.

There is the smile of love, friendship and affection.

There is the cynical smile—the smile of disgust and tolerance.

There is the sweet, trusting smile of a gullible soul, and the complacent smile of peace, contentment, hope, and a glorified life.
