A FIRE A MINUTE!

Don't leave small children alone at home! Tragedy after tragedy has been recorded where an untended child has been either killed or disfigured for life by fire. A recent case is cited. A boy of four and his brother of six months were left in the house when the parents went visiting. The boy pushed the baby buggy containing his brother too close to the heating stove. A blanket caught fire, and the infant was fatally burned.

Other accounts tell of fires started by children playing with matches. In still other incidents a stove door is opened or lids lifted off by the child and fires are started. Fatal results have often followed the pouring of kerosene on a fire by a child. All small children love to play with fire, and no precaution should be overlooked in restraining them.

Parents should immediately take two steps. First, never leave your children alone at home. Second, do the simple and inexpensive things necessary to the elimination of common fire hazards. All fireplaces should be screened. Clothes should be hung at a safe distance from pipes and stoves. All heating equipment and adjuncts should be periodically inspected and overhauled. Continuous care should be taken in handling and storing inflammable liquids. Waste of all kinds, such as papers and rags should be disposed of or stored in metal containers. The wiring of electrical appliance should be checked occasionally—a frayed or twisted cord can cause short circuits followed by fire.

Every minute a fire breaks out in America. Two-thirds of all those fires occur in homes. Will your home be on that list this year—and will you and your family be subjected to a menace that may take life, due primarily to your own carelessness?

"Ours is a country of unbelievable inconsistencies. For five years our big problem has been the unemployed. Now we are face to face with a recovery that is being retarded by a reported shortage of skilled labor. What were the young people about during the depression? Evidently they were not being trained for places in industry. . . . The 400,000 new young people seeking employment each year will have to learn to respect manual tasks as much as white-collar jobs. . . ."—Henry Goddard Leach, Editor, The Forum.
