(From the N. Y. World-Telegram)

Some figures worth thinking about—
The total of all internal revenue tax collections by the federal government from 1863 through the last fiscal year was $74,000,000,000.

The gross national debt today is $37,000,000,000.

So, we as a nation owe today just half as much as we as a nation have taken in during the last sixty-four years.

the preceding year for the first time since May 1934. Fuel oil is another product which feels the effects of higher prices. Automatic stoker sales are catching up with oil burner sales. In some Eastern cities higher prices have put fuel oil on a $14 a ton equivalent to stove coal which is still $12.50 a ton.
Higher labor costs are a big factor in these advanced prices. Mod-higher prices have any connection with "price-fixing." The new Tyd-ings-Miller Act opens the gates to national price-fixing. It permits manufacturers to fix minimum prices for trade-marked articles where the same is allowed by state law.

Price-fixing is bound to lead to all kinds of abuses. The consumer will be held up by this Act. Efficient distributors will be penalized.
But the law may prove a boon to retailers and manufacturers.
Those merchants who hold a price umbrella over their branded merchandise may see their trade flocking to the cut-price private brands.

In many cases there seems to be plenty of room for lower prices rather than higher. Current distribution costs look exorbitant. Here, for instance, is a table showing how your dollar is split up into producing and into selling costs.

Cost to Produce	Cost to sell
Raw Foods 55 cents	45 cents
Clothing 45 cents	55 cents
Prepared Foods 40 cents	60 cents
Furniture & Home
Equipment 35 cents	65 cents
Hardware 20 cents	80 cents
Furniture & Home
etc 10 cent	90 cents

Revolutionary Changes Ahead

With consumers daily becoming more price-conscious, the balance between these producing and selling costs must shift over the next few years. There will be revolutionary developments in the distribution field. Consumer bidding, consumer research, consumer clubs and consumer cooperatives are but a few of the changes which will give the worker more goods for every dollar of his income. I have personally become so interested in this subject that I am now opening six new schools in different cities to train consumers how to buy efficiently.

This subject of retail prices is the hottest issue of the hour. We hear a lot about putting more money into the worker's pay envelope.
What I want to see is the pay envelope putting more goods into the worker's market basket. Capitalism is the soundest economic system that the world has yet devised and mass production is the greatest development since capitalism was born.
But the effects of mass production are being nullified by selfish manufacturers workers, and retailers who refuse to let its benefits be passed along to the consumer. The long-term future of capitalism lies in our ability to hitch up mass consumption beside mass production.
