Trout Fishing Season Is Almost Here!

Get out the rods—fishing season is almost here! On April 15 most Oregon and Washington streams will be open and fishermen by the score will set out to bag the limit. A typical scene for many will be the one above showing a Shell touring service party with their new Ford V-8 deluxe sedan.
Right, two fishing enthusiasts excited over a "big one".

Snook Is Fish Caught With Smooth Shark-Skin Bait

The unfamiliar name, snook, is that of a fish found off the west coast of Africa in the vicinity of Walvis bay. It is a delicacy among the colored people of South Africa, and large consignments are also sent to Mauritius, says London Tit-Bits Magazine.

Snook-fishing is rather remarkable. Not even the most experienced fishermen know for certain where they will find the snook shoals or if or when they will bite when found. Thousands of snook may be seen passing beneath the ship, but unless they rise to the surface it is futile to try to catch any of them. So the fishermen just wait—and when at last the snook do rise, unbarred hooks, with sharkskin bait, are dropped overboard.
The sharkskin must be put on the hook in such a way that the grain is smooth between the teeth of the snook, which will not take rough bait.

The snook weighs, often enough, seven pounds, and he fights to the bitter end.

The snook fishers know but a few things about the habits of the snook.
They know that the first shoals are seen off Walvis bay; that they migrate down coast and by late summer have disappeared off the Cape of Good Hope; that the snook hates cold water and that sunrise is the best time for fishing. For the rest, it is largely a matter of luck.

Indian Head and Liberty on the Early Gold Coins

For several years gold half dollars and quarter dollars were issued. The half dollar of the first issue was round, the obverse showing a head of Liberty surrounded by a wreath of laurel and the legend, "Half Dol. California Gold." Some have on the reverse the date and the legend "California Gold Half D." Later issues, says a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, show various numbers of stars as well as change in design, some portraying an Indian head instead of Liberty and octagonal in shape.

These half and quarter dollars were issued by private companies or individuals connected with the gold-mining interests and in nearly every case reached the standard of value, weight and fineness claimed for them. While not considered legal coinage or legal tender, they were accepted at a time when there was a pressing need for money with which to transact the business of the country. Such coinage, however, were later prevented by laws.
Souvenir pieces resembling the gold half dollars were also issued during this period. They were made of composition metal, gold plated, and, of course, are not worth anything.

Across Lake Erie

Lake Erie comes to a point at Toledo, Ohio, but a line drawn in a northeasterly direction from Toledo across to Canada measures approximately 29 miles, according to the office of the United States Engineers. Also, according to the Engineers' office, the distance across Lake Erie from Cleveland is approximately 54 miles; from Erie, the distance is approximately 36 miles. The deepest place in the lake is 210 feet. This is about 25 miles north by east of Erie, off Long Point. The average depth of the lake is about 50 ft. 15 feet.
