Voters are Asked to Back Good Government

For many years H. T. Hesse has interested himself in good government. As a private citizen desiring to secure the greatest efficiency and service possible for the benefit of the people, he has taken a leading part in effecting many valuable improvements in governmental departments. It is because of this demonstrated capacity for organizing and directing the interest of the people in their governing bodies that friends of Mr. Hesse have urged him to be candidate for State Representative.

Few men can better qualify for the position he seeks, for he has not only a wide experience in business activities, but he possesses a keen understanding of the obligations of a public servant. He is practical in his ideas for using public funds. His training is that of a responsible citizen who has made a success of his own affairs through planned economies and far-sighted policies.

We feel that it is our duty to call attention to the unusual characteristics of H. T. Hesse and to pay him a deserved tribute for the unselfish interest he has shown in public affairs. We wish to point out that he is personally a man of highest moral principles, of undisputed integrity, and of sound judgment. We believe that he will be of great value to the people he will serve if he is elected to office. It is to men of his fine calibre that the people must look in safeguarding and furthering the welfare of the majority.

Lentz Auto Battery And Electric Shop

No adjusting or repair on an automobile is more delicate or requires more careful technical skill than adjustment to the electrical system—starting lighting and ignition and the storage battery. The Lentz Auto Parts Battery and Electric Shop was organized to handle in an expert manner just such delicate work.

No automobile owner wants to take a chance on his starting, lighting and ignition system. Anyone can grease the car, fill it with gas and oil, or even make minor adjustments, but the electrical system must be entrusted only to an expert.

That this firm has qualified in the eyes of the public is proven by the fact that the number of its patrons is constantly increasing. It is a policy of the Lentz Auto Parts Battery and Electric Shop that no piece of work must leave the shop which does not give satisfaction to the user. This is an exacting demand for the establishment to make on itself, but its management believes that it pays in the long run.

Who has not experienced the trying situation of finding that a short circuit has thrown his lighting system out of commission on a dark night. Or where is the business man who has not started for his office in a hurry some morning only to find that nothing happens when he kicks his starter? Such circumstances as these are guarded against. For this purpose the Lentz Auto Parts Battery and Electric Shop has set up a special service solely for the benefit of the public.

It is a tribute to the Lentz Auto Part Battery and Electric Shop that manufacturers of may standard makes of automobiles have made it the official starting, lighting and ignition service station for their cars. A greater tribute to the shop, however, is the way in which the work has increased since it was started. Time and again additions to the shop have been necessary to care for the work brought in. The service is yours for the asking.

Lentz Auto Parts Battery and Electric Shop do not only conduct their business for the service of the people but are interested in every project for the people as a whole.

Oscar Granum, owner of Reedville Garage is doing a big stroke of business now and it appears he has one of the busiest garage and service station enterprises along the highway between Beaverton and Hillsboro. He handles Associated products and lately has stocked a good deal more accessories. His repair shop is kept busy and he does general overhaul and motor tuning jobs. He is located suitably to command a large farmer patronage.

Octagon House at Washington

Octagon house, a fine example of late Georgian architecture, was the Washington home of Col. John Tayloe, wealthy Virginia planter and friend of George Washington. Dr. William Thornton, original designer of the United States capitol, made the plans for the house in 1799. Built of English brick, it is, in spite of the name, actually hexagonal in form. After the burning of the Executive Mansion in 1814, President Madison established the temporary White House there and with Dolly Madison as hostess Octagon house reached its height of social power. The proclamation giving the terms of the treaty of Ghent was signed by President Madison in one of the upper rooms. The house was purchased and restored by the American Institute of Architects in 1902 and is occupied by that organization.
