LET THE PUBLIC GO NAKED!

W. H. Vanderbilt, one of America's great railroad pioneers back in the last decades of the 1800's, has always been held up by our so-called liberals as everything that was demanded by their picture of a figure representing Capitol.

A few days ago, a small minority of the unionized truck drivers in New York set about tying up the trucking transportation of the city. Their action was contrary to the orders of the union leaders who were then in the progress of negotiating a new contract with the employers.

The "outlaw" strikers announced they would allow "perishable foods" through, but the joker in this came to light when they refused to classify canned vegetables, canned milk for babies and potatoes and similar farm products as "perishable."

The strike leaders then naively announced that they had "nothing against the public," but added that, "of course the public may have to go naked."

rive from the country home land besides enjoying life as he goes along day by day.

It pays to raise your own calves if you have a dairy and do not have a retail milk route according to A. Camenzind, whose farm is along Sorento road, south of Beaverton. He milks a dozen good cows and sells milk to Red Rock whose trucks pick it up every morning.

now more than ever and it pays them well too.

To enjoy working is to enjoy life. . . . the worker who enjoys work realizes more lasting and realistic pleasure than hilarity seekers could expect to have.

Putnam asks to be Retained As Superintendent of Public Instruction

Those voters who believe that experience and training should be the chief qualifications of a candidate will regard with favor the campaign of Rex Putnam for Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Having lived in Oregon for the last twenty-five years and worked over the entire state, Mr. Putnam is of course familiar with the conditions and problems of the entire state. He has served in various capacities in schools for twenty-two years as well as acting as president of the Oregon High School Principals' Assn. Meanwhile he has found time to act as chairman of many committees of the Oregon State Teachers' Assn. and as state textbook commissioner.

However it was after becoming State Superintendent in 1937 that he was able to make his most outstanding contributions to the Oregon school system. The rural schools have been worked out to bring them even greater benefits. Vocational training has been stressed and progressive educational policies have been put into effect throughout the state.

Mr. Putnam promises that if re-elected, he will continue to maintain an economical administration of the public schools and will continue to develop even farther an effective adult education program and a cooperative work between all educational agencies.

Our School Days Are Here

School Days—and let us get back to obey the original Constitution and teach the children in all schools the Sermon on the Mount that Christ Jesus did preach, as God, the Father, did give to all mankind Life, Truth, and Love, and Christ Jesus was man's true Wayshower.

By having all teachers in all schools read three or four verses every morning of Christ Jesus' Sermon on the Mount, children may grow up and unfold by true understanding of the law of God, the Father, that was given to man. Then by the word, God made man his image and likeness, teach the children to know. It was the understanding of that living Truth that the Pilgrims did come and establish themselves in America that they could live up to that law that Christ Jesus did teach for all mankind.

Now let us once more commence to teach the children from day to day, that they may grow up and understand that Truth that will make all man free, as the Word was given to all mankind and for all time.

LAWNS and PASTURES

By E. M. Golder

Without enjoying work we do, there's little we could get out of life and most of us have less time to "play" than we deserve, so why not combine work with play and develop contented natures.

The beautiful ten acre country home of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Schoene along Sorento road, two miles south of Beaverton is a productive little nut farm as well as a pretty home.
