THE DIES INQUIRY

The Dies Committee investigating un-American activities has just concluded four months of inquiry. It has, in that short time uncovered machinations of communism, fascism and other un-American "isms" that are shocking to every thoughtful citizen.

The Committee is now preparing to recommend to Congress a five-point program for dealing with the problem. These points are:

1. Stricter immigration laws, with requirements that aliens entering the country say whether they believe in the American form of government.
2. Strict enforcement of the deportation laws.
3. Regulations that organizations shown conclusively to be un-American, file with the government an accounting of their finances, activities and directors.
4. Outlawing of all such organizations as soon as possible.

Regulations that persons who join political organizations use their real names and that lists of such names be available to the government for inspection.

The Committee has accomplished much in exposing anti-American and un-American activities. There is still much work for it to do. Congress should promptly furnish it additional funds.

Teak Tree Has Long Journey
 In Burma the journey of a teak tree from forest to mill requires an incredibly long time. First the tree has to be girdled and dried, says Collier's Weekly, and then dragged to and floated down 1,200 miles of river to Rangoon, a job that has been known to take as long as 25 years.
