ants of a distinct old race that inhabits parts of Michoacan state in Mexico and is much admired by American tourists, beat the Dutch in the way of wearing skirts and petiskirt requires nine yards of cloth.

With it are worn at least two and sometimes as many as five white

One of the finest and most artistic arrays of Christmas finery was featured at the home of Mrs. Alice Brooks her daughters Virginia, 9, Mary 7, and Catherine 4, at SW 31 and Hume, Multnomah. Near the north window was the stable, in which the Christ child with Mary his mother and Joseph, showing the three wise men, the donkey, the camel, and about all that is historically pictured to us of the days of the birth of Christ. A little way eastward in the northeast corner of the living room is the large temple (made by James Haines of Multnomah) about 30 inches in height, at the edge of the little village on the hillside. The "ground" covered with "snow" and many huge drifts made a pretty side with the modern electric lighting effect used to set off the array. Mrs.
Brooks has proven herself a genius in this production. The Christmas tree about seven feet in height was also well decorated and lighted, and those nice little girls certainly received some beautiful and useful gifts.
