Stevens' Engine First to Pull a Train on a Track

Three dates are important in the history of the steam locomotive. On October 23, 1824, the first steam locomotive that actually pulled a train on a track, that built by John Stevens, was run on a circular track on his estate at Hoboken, says a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

The first locomotive for railroad use was the "Stourbridge Lion," which was built by the George Stephenson works upon the Tyne river in England. Horatio Allen was sent to England by the Delaware & Hudson Railroad company to buy it. The engine traveled at the speed of 10 miles an hour. Its first run in the United States was on August 9, 1829, on the tracks of the Delaware & Hudson between Carbondale and Honesdale, the canal terminus in Pennsylvania.

The "Tom Thumb," designed by Peter Cooper, was the first locomotive built in the United States to draw passengers. On August 23, 1830, it carried 26 passengers 13 miles over the tracks of the Baltimore & Ohio in 1 hour and 15 minutes.

Charles South

Charles South is one of the outstanding violinists and teachers of America. He is a descendant of several generations of musical forbears and is the consummation of a family of violin lovers. Wherever he has appeared the ablest critics have hailed him thus:—"He has a violin tone of brown and gold and plays with a perfection of detail and depth of feeling which makes it a delight. He is a skilled musician, and puts into his presentations poetic concept of a cultured mind, a quality that is always present in all that he portrays." Summed up his work with the consensus of opinion that:—"He plays with the ease and charm of a true violinist."

County Justices Hold Conference

Justices of the Peace of Washington county conferred with G. Russell Morgan, district attorney, at his office Friday afternoon. Justice court procedure in preparation for the start of new terms in office, were considered.

The group included Charles Roe, succeeding J. W. Vanderzanden, Forest Grove; W. A. Root, succeeding J. S. Barber, at Tigard; E. C. Roberts succeeding E. W. Johnson at Sherwood; A. W. Havens, Hillsboro and George Thynge at Beaverton who continue in office.

TIGARD

Christmas seal sales at the Tigard grade school reached a total of $66.42 about $20 more than last year. Mrs. Johnson has charge of seal sales in this area.

Ed's Inn at Tigard was closed all day New Year Day.

Mrs. Holmes of Portland, a former resident of Tigard is here taking care of her friend Mrs. Bristol who is quite ill at her home.

Judge J. S. Barber, superintendent of the new water district reports that everything is going well and that they expect to have the $30,000 project in full service and completed some time in March. New applicants are coming in right along and the installation fee during the construction period is only $20. The amount to pay down is $5 with $2 per month thereafter until the charge is fully paid. The rates are $1.50 per 300 cubic feet minimum.

Chester and Kirt Dye lately sold another patch of their timber land in the Mountindale area it being a part of the old Dye homestead.

A vacant house, owned by G. M. Dodds of Portland, located at the end of Mae West Blvd. in Metzger, was totally destroyed by fire a few days ago and it is not known how much headway before the Metzger fire fighters could do much about it, even though a large number of them responded when they learned of the fire. It happened about midnight, and the folks here said it was a very hot fire.

Carsh Bros. have several shallow and deep well pumps on hand and if you want one of them, be sure to act now, as you can save money. If you expect to have a well drilled remember Carsh Bros. for good work. They look for a very good 1939 and optimism means believing in them. A year ago they anticipated a good 1938 and their business really showed a marked increase over last year.

Business at the Tigard postoffice during the Christmas rush was extra heavy and two mail delivery cars were used on route one, to take care of mail delivery with all the efficiency possible. Loads and loads of mail were taken out each day during Christmas week. Robert M. Cole is carrier and his sub carrier was on the job during that week and there was a constant rush throughout the week. Nearly 550 boxes are on this route and by the way, there has been a substantial growth on the route over the last 12 months, close to 40 more boxes. Postmaster J. C. Bilyeu and Assistant Postmaster Thomas have made a remarkable record mail service at Tigard and over the year 1938 considerable space has been added, new boxes installed and everything possible done to expedite the service and Tigard ranks well up among postoffices in much larger towns than Tigard when it comes to service and substantial patronage.
