LIFE AFTER FORTY

A survey has been made among the industries of America on the question of whether older employees are being replaced by younger men. The findings show that a greater proportion of workers over 40 years of age are employed now than in pre-depression days.

This should serve to refute the claims of labor agitators that employers have no use for a man after he has passed the 40 mark. Also, it should bolster the self-confidence of older men who have the notion they are passing the age of usefulness.

Older workers are, of course, recognized as being experienced and skilled, but there are other factors. Here is how the employer evaluated the "old timers" and the young ones in the survey:

A majority thought they were equally efficient, and a large percentage thought the old workers were even more efficient; a majority thought old workers were more cooperative; a majority said both groups were about equally vulnerable to illness and accidents; and a majority thought the veterans were as easy to adjust to new conditions as the younger workers.

Some may dispute that life begins at forty, but certainly life doesn't end there.

Proper Signals Very Important When One Drives an Automobile

The importance of signaling is evidenced by the fact that 3980 drivers were reported as failing to signal in accidents which occurred in Oregon during 1937.

There are only three arm signals recognized by law in this state, and one of these signals is required to be given whenever one wishes to turn, to slow down or stop, to leave the curb or to pass another car on the open high way. For a right turn, the left forearm should be extended out and straight upward from the side of the car. For a left turn or for leaving a parking place or passing, the left arm should be extended horizontally from the side of the car, with the hand in a straight line with the arm. For stopping or slowing down, the left arm should be held out and down.

Proper arm signals don't come naturally to motorists. Secretary of State Earl Snell has learned during his administration of the law requiring examination of all applicants for original Oregon licenses.

Without proper training or conscious effort to signal properly, many drivers give arm signals which are worse than useless since they may give other drivers a mistaken notion of the direction one intends to take.

For instance, some persons attempt to signal with the car window only half open, with the result that their signal is a cross between a right and a left turn signal. Other persons signal with their hands only instead of with the entire forearm. A few persons limit their signal to a finger waggle, and some have been known to signal with their left arm and hand entirely inside the car.

Sagner Motor Co. East Side Dealers in Chryslers and Plymouths

Business is humming around the lubrication department of the Sagner Motor Co., distributors of Chryslers and Plymouths in Portland, Oregon, it is reported by Max Sagner president of the firm.

And Sagner isn't fooling when he says his oil and grease business increased nearly 300 per cent during the last three months of 1938, as compared to the closing months of the previous year.

The figures show—and the old saying is that they don't lie—that during October, November and December of 1938 grease and oils sales totaled $1127.31. During the same three months in 1937, the total sales amounted to only $406.76.

Of the $1127.31 total for the final three months of 1938, sixty-six lubrication contracts made up $313.50 of the amount.

"We are not only getting a great deal more business but a much better class of customers," Sagner says figures are now on the black instead of the red side of the ledger.

When Sagner opened his repair and lubrication department, he employed only two men. However, the steady increase of business has necessitated the employment of seven more men—mechanics and helpers.

Sagner attributes the healthy increase in business to the efficiency of his employees and the recently installed lubrication and repair shop, which has been described as one of the most complete and compact on the coast.

The repair and lubrication shop, unique in its modern kitchen like arrangement, was designed by engineers of the Pennzoil company. Sagner says that Pennzoil has been one of his heaviest selling oils.

New Planing Mill Now Ready For Operation

Tigard has a fine new planing mill where everything in wood working can be turned out accurately and speedily by a force of men who know their work well. Ray Christensen, known for several years over the west side area as a building contractor, started the construction of this mill 48 by 76 feet; about December fifth. It is a one story structure, now well equipped and ready for operation. Theodore Binkley is shop foreman and will have at least three men on the job to start with in turning out the work already on hand.

The light arrangement in this building is very good. There are 13 5 by 6 steel sash windows and three large skylights. The floor is of cement concrete and the exterior is finished with storm seal metal. The location is a little way south of the lumber yard in Tigard, graced by the large two-way sign at the front of the building.

Mr. Christensen has been contracting nearly seven years. One of his recent jobs was the new First Bank of Tigard building, which is a fine example of his workmanship. He built the Guy Carr apartment building near the school in Beaverton, also five modern houses at Multnomah Golf Course in West Slope. He built a large dryer for the Dundee Nut Cooperative and during 1938 Mr. Christensen did a gross business of more than $70,000 and looks for a very good 1939. Building construction the winter months and it is expected the spring and summer will mark the setting of a new record for house construction in this west side area.

There is some advantage for Mr. Christensen in having this large new mill as much of the work in connection with his house contract jobs can now be taken care of in his own plant and done as perfectly as would be his desire and at a saving to his patrons and there is no doubt this well equipped mill will be very generally patronized.

Points on Health

By E. Pasque N. D.

"Most of us suffer from dangerous diet deficiencies which cannot be remedied until the depleted soils from which our foods come are brought into proper mineral balance," says Ernest Pasque N. D., of Multnomah, inventor of SPA, a mineral solution supplying mineral needs of the body, "and no person can eat enough fruits and vegetables to supply the system with the mineral salts he requires for perfect health, because his stomach is not nearly large enough to hold them.

In a printed folder the dietitian says that one carrot may look the same as another and yet lack the particular mineral element carrots are supposed to contain. Vegetation grown in one part of the country may essay 1100 parts per billion, of iodine, as against that grown elsewhere. Any considerable lack of essential mineral elements, and we weaken and become ill. . . . suffer and shorten our lives. An alarming fact is that most of our fruits and vegetables are grown on land that no longer contain these vital minerals in sufficient quantity. The first man to demonstrate this was Dr. Charles Northern, an Alabama physician who had specialized on nutritional disorders. We know that vitamins are indispensable to nutrition," said the doctor.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH
"Love" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ Scientists on Sunday January 29.
The Golden Text is "How excellent is thy loving kindness, O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings" (Ps. 36:7.)
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Beloved let us love one another; for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God. He that love not knoweth not God; for God is love" (1 John 4: 7, 8).
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "All substance, intelligence, wisdom, being, immortality, cause and effect belong to God. These are His attributes, the eternal manifestations of the infinite divine Principle, Love" (p. 275).

Lyman Home For Aged Has Ideal Environment

By A. W. WEBER
This home, that is truly a home, is located amid lovely, quiet surroundings at 405 NE 78th avenue, phone TABOR 9410. Here the aged in health or sickness are given the best possible care.

The Lyman Rest Home was established in December 1936 by Mrs. Eleanor Paulsen as a memorial to Dr. W. B. Lyman, one of Portland's leading physicians, who in real life had enjoyed an enviable reputation and is known for his philanthropic deeds.

Dr. Lyman's everlasting efforts to assist those in less fortunate circumstances than himself, left him, at his death instead of a wealthy man, a comparably poor one, a tribute to the man.

We pay tribute to Mrs. Eleanor Paulsen for establishing the Lyman Rest Home as a memorial to Dr. W. B. Lyman and this writer assures anyone that is looking for a real home, none better can be found anywhere.

Mrs. Paulsen has supervised the Lyman Rest home for the past two and one half years and her single purpose has been to provide health and pleasant environment for those in later years.

It is quiet and restful and at the same time under the care of nurses whose training has made them familiar with all the needs and illnesses of their guests. The consideration for their every need that prevails at the Lyman Rest Home has made it one of the pioneers in breaking away from the conception of the traditional "Old Peoples Home".

Every year it is more and more realized that our elders are deserving of a place where their needs can be taken care of and where they can get full attention.

The staff of the Lyman Rest Home has had long and scientific training in hospital work and Mrs. Paulsen tolerates no incompetency on the part of anyone employed in the establishment.

Mrs. Eleanor Paulsen extends an open invitation of inspection. Anyone desirous of comfort, convenience plus individual attention can be assured of these at the Lyman Rest Home, 405 NE 78th avenue.

Tavern Changes Hands

The Cross Roads Tavern, formerly owned by Hilda Ashford, has been taken over by H. L. Halvorsen and is under the management of "Louis and Ellen."

Repainting and decorating has been going on this week and many features added to make this the outstanding tavern of this area from point of service and neatness. The tavern is located at the Crossroads in Progress, between Tigard and Beaverton. This has for 38 years been a very important corner and the location is well known.

Portland Rose Tea Room Offers Good Meals at Substantial Saving

That important question often arising among the people of the Tualatin Valley and surrounding territory—where shall we go for a sandwich or dinner while in Portland, that will be of the best. In our opinion that question can be easily answered. In every community the size of Portland there will be some cafe or restaurant that will stand out from all others as being the one place where those who know good food and appreciate good service will be seen.

In Portland, the outstanding place to eat is the Portland Rose Tea Room, 4th floor Alderway Building, Alder at Broadway, Portland. Their increasing patronage is proof of the fact that those who do patronize this tea room pass the "good word" along to their friends in the city and elsewhere, for a large number of out-of-town people are to be seen eating there every day.

The manager, L. J. Warren of the Portland Rose Tea Room is among the few fortunate people who, in addition to knowing his business thoroughly possesses a personality that makes warm friends and steady customers of those who would otherwise remain just casual acquaintances.

Whether your desire be a cup of their delicious coffee with a doughnut or pie or one of their tempting luncheons or dinners, you can be sure of receiving the best in service and the best in foods, appetizingly prepared, of you go to this tea room. Private rooms are available for club luncheons and banquets.

So remember when either business or pleasure takes you to Portland be sure to eat at the Portland Rose Tea Room. It will prove to be a satisfying meal in every respect.

The Portland Rose Tea Room is performing a real service to local people by offering quality food at real savings. They are indeed filling a much needed service.

The address is the 4th floor Alderway Bldg., Alder at Broadway, Portland.
